Dulles Appeals For $4.9 Billion In Aid

Warns Soviet "Smile" Only Tactic Change

Free World Must Keep Its Guard Up, Secretary Asserts

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today that while new Soviet developments may increase long-range chances for peace, there is no time to "terminate or curtail" the administration's big foreign aid program.

Dulles spoke for more than two hours in a final plea before the House Foreign Affairs Committee for $4,900,000,000 in new foreign aid funds for the year beginning July 1.

Next week the House group starts voting on the bill and the main question has not been whether the amount will be cut, but how much. Chairman Richards (D-SC) said in advance of Dulles' testimony the committee might lop off anywhere up to as much as 1½ billion dollars.

Soviet Goal Unchanged

Dulles told the committee:

1. It is quite possible that the Soviets have cut their armed forces and may reduce them more. And there are "germs of highly favorable developments" in Russia which, in terms of 10 years or a generation, could bring about an end to the cold war.

2. But the Kremlin's new foreign policy "smile" is purely a change in tactics, not goals. Dulles said it is "demonstrable" that Russia's developing foreign aid program is not aimed at strengthening the independence of other countries, but is "only for the purpose of bringing about what Lenin called the 'amalgamation' of these peoples into the Communist bloc."

Part Of U. S. Defense Effort

3. Significant cuts in American aid are not likely to be proposed in the immediately foreseeable future. U.S. foreign aid spending is now running about four and one third billion dollars a year.

Dulles called this "part and parcel" of America's own defense effort and said the 35 billion dollar military budget would have to be increased "considerable more than four billion dollars" if it weren't for the U.S. program to help other countries resist communism.

4. The Democratic administrations that preceded President Eisenhower did much to develop a good foreign aid program.

Churchill Extends Invitation To Russia

AACHEN, Germany, May 10 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill extended to the "new Russia" today an invitation to join a grand alliance aimed at securing world peace.

The 81-year-old- former British Prime Minister also called for European unity, and in so doing wrote into the language a new bit of churchillian prose:

"We must avoid violence by every means in our power. The only unity that would come from violence would be a unity of ashes and death."

Churchill spoke after he was presented with this ancient city's Charlemagne Prize for his contribution to European unity and world peace.

Security Council Action Next Step

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 10 (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold reported today the new Arab - Israeli cease - fire pledges could touch off a chain of reactions leading to a firm peace in Palestine.

He said in a 10,000 word final report to the Security Council on his recent Middle East peace mission that it is too early to say what had been achieved but that his efforts were necessary as an initial step.

He left the next move up to the Council. It is not likely to meet before May 22 and no member so far has made any suggestions on how to follow up the Hammarskjold mission.

New Flareups Reported

New shooting incidents along the Israeli-Arab borders were reported from Jerusalem as the report was circulated to delegates here. There have been other flareups since the 1949 cease-fire agreements were re-affirmed on Hammarskjold's initiative by Israel, Egypt, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan.

Hammarskjold spent nearly a month in and around Palestine on orders of the Security Council.

He said the effect of his efforts "will depend first of all on the good will and the actions taken by the governments directly concerned (and) in the second place on the support given to those governments by others and by the world community, as represented by the United Nations."

"Unique" Possibilities

"What has been done may open the door to new fruitful developments," he said. "The initiative is now in the hands of the governments party to the armistice agreements.

"I believe the present situation offers unique possibilities. If we have previously experienced chain reactions leading to a continuous deterioration of the situation, we may now have the possibility of starting a chain of reactions in the opposite direction.

Cyprus Calm After Hanging Of Two Rebels

Businesses Close, Flags At Half Staff, Church Bells Toll

NICOSIA, Cyprus, May 10 (AP) — Surprising calm settled on the capital of this harrassed British colony today after the execution of two Greek Cypriots convicted of political shootings.

The men, Michael Karaolis and Andreas Demetriou, were hanged secretly at dawn in Nicosia's heavily guarded central prison, despite appeals for reprieves addressed to London from both Cyprus and Greece.

News of the executions was not immediately announced publicly here. But it quickly spread by word of mouth to the tense, expectant city.

Greek Stores Close

Reaction was unexpectedly quiet. Greek stores, cafes and other businesses closed one by one and the life of the community, except among the minority of Turkish origin, came to a half. Only a brief series of stone and tear gas engagements between security forces and Greek Cypriot youths marred the calm.

The clash occurred outside the city's main cathedral when teenagers hurled fist - sized rocks at passing police and British soldiers and drew tear gas fire in return. Several youths were jailed but there apparently were no injuries.

Flag At Half Staff

Greek flags flew at half mast from churches, schools and homes and church bells occasionally tolled in mourning for the dead pair despite regulations forbidding their use except as a summons to worship.

Calls over the island's intercity telephone lines were not accepted, so little news came to Nicosia of reaction in the rest of Cyprus.

The government announced, however, that grenades were flung by rebels at security forces in three remote communities. One security force member was injured seriously and another lightly in one of the incidents.

Where Rocket Struck House

An unidentified guard looks at the side of a house at Mount Clemens, Mich., struck yesterday by an Air Force rocket liberated, the Air Force said, "inadvertently" during unloading operations of Sabre jet planes at nearby Selfridge Air Force base. Twenty-two rockets were liberated. One struck the house a glancing blow, broke the window but failed to penetrate the wall or explode. (Story at bottom of page) (AP Photofax)

$33.6 Billion Appropriation OK'd 377 To 0

Rep. Cannon Warns U. S. Losing Battle Against Communism

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—The House today voted 377-0 to appropriate $33,635,066,000 in new money for the Defense Department for the fiscal year starting July 1.

It passed and sent to the Senate a bill providing that amount after refusing to add an extra billion dollars for the Air Force.

In closing debate, Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the Appropriations Committee told the House "We are slowly but surely losing our battle with communism."

The amount approved was the exact amount recommended by Cannon's committee last week and is $512,784,000 less than President Eisenhower requested. Much of the cut, however, was of a bookkeeping nature and did not involve so-called "hardware" and procurement programs.

The total is $1,741,832,374 more than the department was given this year.

Flood's Proposal Defeated

The attempt to add the billion dollars to the Air Force, for procurement of long-range B52 bombers, was led by Rep. Flood (D-Pa) a committee member.

Flood said this is no time to "sacrifice" air supremacy for a balanced budget and warned of Russia's growing air power.

His amendment was defeated by a one-sided voice vote after other committee members said the Air Force already has as much money as it can use and is working on a bomber superior to the B52.

The money voted for plane procurement was the exact amount requested by the President.

The new money, plus carryover funds, would give the Defense Department $46,233,000,000 during the new fiscal year and contemplates military strength of 2,865,200 on June 30, 1957, compared with 2,810,100 on June 30 of this year.

Air Force Gets 15 Billion

Here's how the new money would be allotted:

ARMY—$7,497,582,000, a budget cut of $263,843,000 but $167,629,000 more than this year.

NAVY—$9,999,534,000, a budget cut of $48,066,000 but an increase of $871,774,444 over this year.

AIR FORCE—$15,479,125,000, a budget cut of $187,375,000 but an increase of $379,361,830 over this year.

The rest of the money goes to the office of the secretary of defense and to interservice activities, none of which was cut deeply.

Aiken Indicates New Farm Bill Headed For Veto

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—The Senate Agriculture Committee sent its new farm bill to the Senate floor today, but Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) indicated it may be headed for another presidential veto.

Aiken, who often speaks for the administration on farm policy, said he would recommend that President Eisenhower refuse to sign the bill unless a section boosting livestock feed grain prices is eliminated.

Eisenhower vetoed a farm bill passed by Congress last month. He objected, among other things, to provisions boosting livestock feed grain prices.

"Objectionable Feature"

"We've retained the most objectionable feature of the vetoed bill," Aiken told reporters after the Democratic-controlled Agriculture Committee approved the new measure. The House has already passed it in somewhat different form, and Senate action is expected next week.

Aiken delcared the bill "would increase the cost-price squeeze already hurting our farmers."

Sen. Ellender (D-La), chairman of the Agriculture Committee, has told reporters he thought the revised legislation could be accepted by the President. He added today that he expected the Senate to give quick approval to the committee's version.

No Prepayment Soil Bank

The bill gives Eisenhower the soil bank plan he asked for to assure farmers up to $1,200,000,000 a year in benefit payments for withdrawing land from the production of crops already in surplus.

But the Senate Committee, like the House, refused to give the President authority to pay 500 million dollars this year on land to be withdrawn next year.

S.C. Segregation Laws 'In Effect'

COLUMBIA, S.C., May 10 (AP) — The South Carolina Public Service Commission said today the U.S. Supreme Court has not ruled on intrastate travel segregation laws —and explained why it thinks so.

It said South Carolina laws requiring white and Negro passengers to ride separately on trains and buses within the state "are in full force and effect" despite Supreme Court refusal April 23 to review a case from Columbia in which a Negro woman, Sara Mae Flemming, sued the city bus operators for $25,000 because a driver insisted she sit apart from white passengers.

The court's refusal to review has been widely interpreted as upholding a 4th Circuit Court of Appeals ruling in the case that bus segregation is unconstitutional. Some government lawyers disagreed.

In its ruling the Circuit Court contradicted a District Court decision by Judge George Bell Timman, Sr.—father of South Carolina's governor—that segregation was not a valid cause of action.

Flood Insurance Bill Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—The Senate tonight passed 61-7 a bill providing for federal flood insurance. It now goes to the House.

Before passage the Senate adopted 39-31 an amendment by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) calling for state sharing of the cost after June 30, 1959. The amendment was at the expressed wish of President Eisenhower.

Sen. Lehman (D-NY) protested that the amendment "virtually crippled the measure." Lehman headed a Senate Banking subcommittee which had drafted the insurance bill, minus the state participation feature proposed by the administration.

Knowland and Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), advocating the amendment, said that since it did not require state participation for three years, states would have time to amend their constitutions so as to permit them to take part.

Three Missing In Plane Crash

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 10 (AP)—A plane with five persons aboard crashed in Chesapeake Bay near here today. State police said two had been "picked up" and three were missing.

A State Police spokesman said the rescue of two aboard the plane had been reported by the Coast Guard radio station. Coast Guard headquarters in Baltimore said two vessels had been dispatched to the scene.

The plane was identified as an Albatross patrol craft assigned to an Air National Guard unit at Harbor Field, Baltimore. A Harbor Field officer said the craft had left there at 4:15 p.m. on an undisclosed mission.

Adlai Says GOP Funds Influence Demo Primaries

[By The Associated Press]

Adlai Stevenson says "heavy financial contributors to the Republican party are attempting to influence the Democratic primaries" against him this year.

Stevenson, seeking to become the Democratic presidential nominee again, told a group of labor union leaders in Los Angeles Thursday that he has been informed that some of the most influential men in America raised in one night "all the Republican money needed to defeat me in Minnesota."

More Battles Ahead

"If this report is true," Stevenson added, "it appears that the Republican leaders who helped elect President Eisenhower in 1952 are now trying to dictate the choice of the Democratic candidate this year. If that is so, it is not unlikely that their money has or will turn up in Florida and California."

Stevenson tangles with Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee in the Florida primary May 29 and in California June 5.

Kefauver Camp Replies

Kefauver, also campaigning in California, was not available for comment but one of his campaign spokesmen said the senator "knows nothing of any such support." This spokesman, former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath, said Stevenson's statement "sounds to me like a man in the first stages of panic."

Stevenson, in telling about the reports said he felt sure Kefauver "knew nothing of this." He did not say how the money was used or who contributed it.

Social Security Fight Looms As Senate Unit Turns Down Changes

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—A major election year battle over Social Security was assured in the Senate today when the Finance Committee voted against lowering from 65 to 62 the age at which most women would start receiving retirement payments.

The committee also voted against setting up a new program of cash benefits for the totally disabled starting at age 50.

Approved was a provision to start paying retirement benefits to widows at the age 62, instead of 65. An estimated 175,000 widows would benefit from this change in the first year.

The House voted 372-31 last year to lower the retirement age to 62 for all women covered by Social Security, including wives of retired workers and single women as well as widows. By the same vote the House adopted the disability payments plan starting at age 50.

To pay for these extra benefits, the House voted to raise the Social Security tax from the present 2 per cent each on employe and employer to 2½ per cent, effective immediately. This proposed tax increase was knocked out by the Senate committee.

The Eisenhower administration opposed the House provisions. The argument was that they would prove too expensive for the taxpayers.

This argument bore weight with the Senate committee. Chairman Byrd (D-Va), in reporting the group's action after a closed-door session, emphasized that the proposed tax increase would amount to $1,600,000,000 in the first year.

Byrd said the committee's action on both the women retirement and disability sections was by "substantial majority," but without recorded vote.

Susan Hayward Wins Top Actress Award At Cannes

CANNES, France, May 10 (AP)—Susan Hayward won the best actress award at the Cannes Film Festival today for her performance in the leading role of "I'll Cry Tomorrow."

The film, made in Hollywood, is a dramatic adaptation of the book of the same name by singer Lillian Roth relating her fight against alcoholism.

Miss Hayward was nominated for the U. S. Motion picture Academy's Oscar, top U. S. award, for the same role but was beaten out by Italy's Anna Magnani, star of "The Rose Tattoo."

The Cannes jury named a French movie, "The Silent World," the best shown during the annual competition here and awarded it the festival prize, the Golden Palm. This documentary film, made by famed submarine explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau, was filmed largely underwater in the Mediterranean.

The prize for the best fiction film went to a production of Shakespeare's "Othello" made in the Soviet Union.

Hydrogen Bomb Blast Is Postponed Again

USS MT.MCKINLEY, Eniwetok, Friday, May 11 (AP)—Unfavorable winds forced postponement of the 1956 H-bomb test today for the fourth time. Officials hoped to reschedule it for Sunday, which is Saturday in the United States.

The huge task force of 13,500 men came within 8½ hours of setting off "Shot Cherokee" at sunrise, the closest approach to H-hour since the aerial blast was originally scheduled for last Monday, U. S. time.

A change in winds in the upper air threatened to carry radioactive debris over the Marshall Islands south of the target on Bikini atoll in the mid-Pacific.

Commons To Debate Frogman Mystery

LONDON, May 10 (AP)—The Eden government today agreed under Laborite pressure to a House of Commons debate Monday on the frogman mystery.

A major political storm has swirled up around the strange disappearance of Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, a pioneer skin diver. He was last seen April 19 near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze in Portsmouth harbor.

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP) — President Eisenhower today nominated Anthony C. McAuliffe to the permanent rank of full general in retirement.

Eastern Algeria Put Under Martial Law

ALGIERS, Algeria May 10 (AP)—Resident Minister Robert Lacoste froze the eastern third of Algeria under a state of martial law today. But rebel torches flared again in the west.

Daring nationalist forces followed up their farm-burning rampage near Oran last Monday with another fire attack on 12 farms only a few miles away. A strong band burned a vegetable fiber factory and two farms in the area of Bou Tlefis, 20 miles west of Oran.

The French moved in armored vehicles and fighter planes in an effort to track down and wipe out the bands.

The rebels apparently were unhampered in the raids, despite the fact thousands of French reinforcements were rushed into the area after the last attacks, in which 40 farms were burned and 20 French farmers were slain.

Herbert Hoover Hails Boys' Clubs For Helping To Stem Delinquency

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover today hailed the Boys' Clubs of America for helping stem delinquency and "giving America each year an army of good citizens."

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, also praising the clubs, said it is "a sad thing" that "the crime problem, more and more, is a youth problem."

Both Hoovers spoke at a banquet marking the 50th anniversary of the clubs.

The former president said civilization has provided a difficult environment of bricks, cement and pavements for boys in congested areas of cities.

"To me, as a boy who grew up ranging the fields, tracking the rabbits and prairie chickens with the help of an unregistered mutt, these places in our cities are particularly depressing," he said in his prepared address. He is chairman of the Clubs' board of directors. He cited 15 things boys are made of, such as dynamism, curiosity, affection, and a desire for competition, and the efforts of the clubs to meet the boys' needs.

"He comes from every race, color and religion," he said. "He needs a place to go where the dignity of all of them is respected."

He said there are now more than 420,000 members in 437 Boys' Clubs in 287 communities.

FBI Director Hoover said that last year juveniles between the ages of 10 and 17 were involved in 62 per cent of all arrests for automobile thefts, 53 per cent of all arrests for burglaries, 47 per cent of all arrests for larcenies, and 21 per cent of all arrests for robberies.

"There is nothing more important before this nation than the problem of juvenile crime," he said.

37 Children Injured When Bus Overturns

PITTSBURGH, May 10 (AP) — A chartered bus struck a utility pole and upset today, injuring 37 second grade school children.

Rockets Fired By Accident Skip Into Residential Area

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., May 10 (AP)—Twenty-two aircraft rockets were accidentally fired today from a grounded F86 Sabre Jet and hurtled across Selfridge Air Force Base into a nearby residential area.

Three airmen were injured slightly but none of the residents of Harrison Township, east of the base, was hurt.

One of the deadly missiles slammed into a frame salvage building on the base. A fragment of another rammed through a bedroom window at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald DePew a mile east of the base.

A third rocket burrowed into the ground only six feet from the home of the Tony Arpaio family. A demolition team from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, was assigned to disarm it.

All but three of the 2.75 inch rockets had been accounted for tonight.

An Air Base spokesman blamed the accidental discharge on "an apparent electric malfunction" of the firing device which the pilot uses to unleash the rockets at his target. He said the rockets "skipped along close to the ground" across the base and into the township.

President Enters Hospital For Physical Examination

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP) — President Eisenhower entered the Army's Walter Reed Hospital late today for a full-scale physical examination. It is to include a new check on the condition of his heart.

The doctors' findings are to be announced Saturday. They are sure to have political significance with the President a candidate for reelection. He suffered a heart attack last Sept. 24.

The President checked into the hospital at 5:55 p.m. Hatless and wearing a brown suit, he had a solemn look on his face as he stepped from his limousine, but he smiled on spotting Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the hospital commandant.

A staff of doctors plans to start the actual examination tomorrow morning. He will leave the hospital about noon Saturday. The White House intends to make public a written medical report later that day.

At the hospital, a small crowd of doctors, nurses, attendants and a few patients was on hand for a glimpse of the President as he was ushered into the main building's wing reserved for VIPs—very important persons.

Eisenhower is occupying the third-floor presidential suite, which has a 23-by-26-feet living room, a good sized bedroom, a sunroom with a television set, and a bathroom off the bedroom.

Before passage the Senate adopted 39-31 an amendment by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) calling for state sharing of the cost after June 30, 1959. The amendment was at the expressed wish of President Eisenhower.

Sen. Lehman (D-NY) protested that the amendment "virtually crippled the measure." Lehman headed a Senate Banking subcommittee which had drafted the insurance bill, minus the state participation feature proposed by the administration.

Knowland and Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), advocating the amendment, said that since it did not require state participation for three years, states would have time to amend their constitutions so as to permit them to take part.

Cyprus Calm After Hanging Of Two Rebels

Businesses Close, Flags At Half Staff, Church Bells Toll

NICOSIA, Cyprus, May 10 (AP) — Surprising calm settled on the capital of this harrassed British colony today after the execution of two Greek Cypriots convicted of political shootings.

The men, Michael Karaolis and Andreas Demetriou, were hanged secretly at dawn in Nicosia's heavily guarded central prison, despite appeals for reprieves addressed to London from both Cyprus and Greece.

News of the executions was not immediately announced publicly here. But it quickly spread by word of mouth to the tense, expectant city.

Greek Stores Close

Reaction was unexpectedly quiet. Greek stores, cafes and other businesses closed one by one and the life of the community, except among the minority of Turkish origin, came to a half. Only a brief series of stone and tear gas engagements between security forces and Greek Cypriot youths marred the calm.

The clash occurred outside the city's main cathedral when teenagers hurled fist-sized rocks at passing police and British soldiers and drew tear gas fire in return. Several youths were jailed but there apparently were no injuries.

Flag At Half Staff

Greek flags flew at half mast from churches, schools and homes and church bells occasionally tolled in mourning for the dead pair despite regulations forbidding their use except as a summons to worship.

Calls over the island's intercity telephone lines were not accepted, so little news came to Nicosia of reaction in the rest of Cyprus.

The government announced, however, that grenades were flung by rebels at security forces in three remote communities. One security force member was injured seriously and another lightly in one of the incidents.

Three Missing In Plane Crash

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 10 (AP)—A plane with five persons aboard crashed in Chesapeake Bay near here today. State police said two had been "picked up" and three were missing.

A State Police spokesman said the rescue of two aboard the plane had been reported by the Coast Guard radio station. Coast Guard headquarters in Baltimore said two vessels had been dispatched to the scene.

The plane was identified as an Albatross patrol craft assigned to an Air National Guard unit at Harbor Field, Baltimore. A Harbor Field officer said the craft had left there at 4:15 p.m. on an undisclosed mission.

Where Rocket Struck House

An unidentified guard looks at the side of a house at Mount Clemens, Mich., struck yesterday by an Air Force rocket liberated, the Air Force said, "inadvertently" during unloading operations of Sabre jet planes at nearby Selfridge Air Force base. Twenty-two rockets were liberated. One struck the house a glancing blow, broke the window but failed to penetrate the wall or explode. (Story at bottom of page) (AP Photofax)

Adlai Says GOP Funds Influence Demo Primaries

[By The Associated Press]

Adlai Stevenson says "heavy financial contributors to the Republican party are attempting to influence the Democratic primaries" against him this year.

Stevenson, seeking to become the Democratic presidential nominee again, told a group of labor union leaders in Los Angeles Thursday that he has been informed that some of the most influential men in America raised in one night "all the Republican money needed to defeat me in Minnesota."

More Battles Ahead

"If this report is true," Stevenson added, "it appears that the Republican leaders who helped elect President Eisenhower in 1952 are now trying to dictate the choice of the Democratic candidate this year. If that is so, it is not unlikely that their money has or will turn up in Florida and California."

Stevenson tangles with Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee in the Florida primary May 29 and in California June 5.

Kefauver Camp Replies

Kefauver, also campaigning in California, was not available for comment but one of his campaign spokesmen said the senator "knows nothing of any such support." This spokesman, former Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath, said Stevenson's statement "sounds to me like a man in the first stages of panic."

Stevenson, in telling about the reports said he felt sure Kefauver "knew nothing of this." He did not say how the money was used or who contributed it.

Social Security Fight Looms As Senate Unit Turns Down Changes

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—A major election year battle over Social Security was assured in the Senate today when the Finance Committee voted against lowering from 65 to 62 the age at which most women would start receiving retirement payments.

The committee also voted against setting up a new program of cash benefits for the totally disabled starting at age 50.

Approved was a provision to start paying retirement benefits to widows at the age 62, instead of 65. An estimated 175,000 widows would benefit from this change in the first year.

The House voted 372-31 last year to lower the retirement age to 62 for all women covered by Social Security, including wives of retired workers and single women as well as widows. By the same vote the House adopted the disability payments plan starting at age 50.

To pay for these extra benefits, the House voted to raise the Social Security tax from the present 2 per cent each on employe and employer to 2½ per cent, effective immediately. This proposed tax increase was knocked out by the Senate committee.

The Eisenhower administration opposed the House provisions. The argument was that they would prove too expensive for the taxpayers.

This argument bore weight with the Senate committee. Chairman Byrd (D-Va), in reporting the group's action after a closed-door session, emphasized that the proposed tax increase would amount to $1,600,000,000 in the first year.

Byrd said the committee's action on both the women retirement and disability sections was by "substantial majority," but without recorded vote.

Susan Hayward Wins Top Actress Award At Cannes

CANNES, France, May 10 (AP)—Susan Hayward won the best actress award at the Cannes Film Festival today for her performance in the leading role of "I'll Cry Tomorrow."

The film, made in Hollywood, is a dramatic adaptation of the book of the same name by singer Lillian Roth relating her fight against alcoholism.

Miss Hayward was nominated for the U. S. Motion picture Academy's Oscar, top U. S. award, for the same role but was beaten out by Italy's Anna Magnani, star of "The Rose Tattoo."

The Cannes jury named a French movie, "The Silent World," the best shown during the annual competition here and awarded it the festival prize, the Golden Palm. This documentary film, made by famed submarine explorer Jacques-Yves Cousteau, was filmed largely underwater in the Mediterranean.

The prize for the best fiction film went to a production of Shakespeare's "Othello" made in the Soviet Union.

No prize was awarded this year for the best performance by a male actor.

Herbert Hoover Hails Boys' Clubs For Helping To Stem Delinquency

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover today hailed the Boys' Clubs of America for helping stem delinquency and "giving America each year an army of good citizens."

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, also praising the clubs, said it is "a sad thing" that "the crime problem, more and more, is a youth problem."

Both Hoovers spoke at a banquet marking the 50th anniversary of the clubs.

The former president said civilization has provided a difficult environment of bricks, cement and pavements for boys in congested areas of cities.

"To me, as a boy who grew up ranging the fields, tracking the rabbits and prairie chickens with the help of an unregistered mutt, these places in our cities are particularly depressing," he said in his prepared address. He is chairman of the Clubs' board of directors. He cited 15 things boys are made of, such as dynamism, curiosity, affection, and a desire for competition, and the efforts of the clubs to meet the boys' needs.

"He comes from every race, color and religion," he said. "He needs a place to go where the dignity of all of them is respected."

He said there are now more than 420,000 members in 437 Boys' Clubs in 287 communities.

FBI Director Hoover said that last year juveniles between the ages of 10 and 17 were involved in 62 per cent of all arrests for automobile thefts, 53 per cent of all arrests for burglaries, 47 per cent of all arrests for larcenies, and 21 per cent of all arrests for robberies.

"There is nothing more important before this nation than the problem of juvenile crime," he said.

37 Children Injured When Bus Overturns

PITTSBURGH, May 10 (AP) — A chartered bus struck a utility pole and upset today, injuring 37 second grade school children.

Hydrogen Bomb Blast Is Postponed Again

USS MT.MCKINLEY, Eniwetok, Friday, May 11 (AP)—Unfavorable winds forced postponement of the 1956 H-bomb test today for the fourth time. Officials hoped to reschedule it for Sunday, which is Saturday in the United States.

The huge task force of 13,500 men came within 8½ hours of setting off "Shot Cherokee" at sunrise, the closest approach to H-hour since the aerial blast was originally scheduled for last Monday, U. S. time.

A change in winds in the upper air threatened to carry radioactive debris over the Marshall Islands south of the target on Bikini atoll in the mid-Pacific.

Commons To Debate Frogman Mystery

LONDON, May 10 (AP)—The Eden government today agreed under Laborite pressure to a House of Commons debate Monday on the frogman mystery.

A major political storm has swirled up around the strange disappearance of Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, a pioneer skin diver. He was last seen April 19 near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze in Portsmouth harbor.

McAuliffe Elevated

President Enters Hospital For Physical Examination

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP) — President Eisenhower entered the Army's Walter Reed Hospital late today for a full-scale physical examination. It is to include a new check on the condition of his heart.

The doctors' findings are to be announced Saturday. They are sure to have political significance with the President a candidate for reelection. He suffered a heart attack last Sept. 24.

The President checked into the hospital at 5:55 p.m. Hatless and wearing a brown suit, he had a solemn look on his face as he stepped from his limousine, but he smiled on spotting Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the hospital commandant.

A staff of doctors plans to start the actual examination tomorrow morning. He will leave the hospital about noon Saturday. The White House intends to make public a written medical report later that day.

At the hospital, a small crowd of doctors, nurses, attendants and a few patients was on hand for a glimpse of the President as he was ushered into the main building's wing reserved for VIPs—very important persons.

Eisenhower is occupying the third-floor presidential suite, which has a 23-by-26-feet living room, a good sized bedroom, a sunroom with a television set, and a bathroom off the bedroom.

$33.6 Billion Appropriation OK'd 377 To 0

Rep. Cannon Warns U. S. Losing Battle Against Communism

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—The House today voted 377-0 to appropriate $33,635,066,000 in new money for the Defense Department for the fiscal year starting July 1.

It passed and sent to the Senate a bill providing that amount after refusing to add an extra billion dollars for the Air Force.

In closing debate, Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the Appropriations Committee told the House "We are slowly but surely losing our battle with communism."

The amount approved was the exact amount recommended by Cannon's committee last week and is $512,784,000 less than President Eisenhower requested. Much of the cut, however, was of a bookkeeping nature and did not involve so-called "hardware" and procurement programs.

The total is $1,741,832,374 more than the department was given this year.

Flood's Proposal Defeated

The attempt to add the billion dollars to the Air Force, for procurement of long-range B52 bombers, was led by Rep. Flood (D-Pa) a committee member.

Flood said this is no time to "sacrifice" air supremacy for a balanced budget and warned of Russia's growing air power.

His amendment was defeated by a one-sided voice vote after other committee members said the Air Force already has as much money as it can use and is working on a bomber superior to the B52.

The money voted for plane procurement was the exact amount requested by the President.

The new money, plus carryover funds, would give the Defense Department $46,233,000,000 during the new fiscal year and contemplates military strength of 2,865,200 on June 30, 1957, compared with 2,810,100 on June 30 of this year.

Air Force Gets 15 Billion

Here's how the new money would be allotted:

ARMY—$7,497,582,000, a budget cut of $263,843,000 but $167,629,000 more than this year.

NAVY—$9,999,534,000, a budget cut of $48,066,000 but an increase of $871,774,444 over this year.

AIR FORCE—$15,479,125,000, a budget cut of $187,375,000 but an increase of $379,361,830 over this year.

The rest of the money goes to the office of the secretary of defense and to interservice activities, none of which was cut deeply.

Eastern Algeria Put Under Martial Law

ALGIERS, Algeria May 10 (AP)—Resident Minister Robert Lacoste froze the eastern third of Algeria under a state of martial law today. But rebel torches flared again in the west.

Daring nationalist forces followed up their farm-burning rampage near Oran last Monday with another fire attack on 12 farms only a few miles away. A strong band burned a vegetable fiber factory and two farms in the area of Bou Tlefis, 20 miles west of Oran.

The French moved in armored vehicles and fighter planes in an effort to track down and wipe out the bands.

The rebels apparently were unhampered in the raids, despite the fact thousands of French reinforcements were rushed into the area after the last attacks, in which 40 farms were burned and 20 French farmers were slain.

Alabama Segregation Laws Face New Test

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 10 (AP)—Bitterly contested city and state bus segregation laws, upheld only yesterday in state court, face another, perhaps more significant test tomorrow in federal court.

A three-judge panel, whose decision can be appealed direct to the U. S. Supreme Court, has been convened to hear a suit by four Negroes challenging the racial barriers responsible for a mass boycott of city buses in Montgomery.

The suit, filed as an outgrowth of the boycott now in its sixth month, seeks an injunction to stop city and state officials from enforcing the antirace mixing laws, and a declaratory judgment holding the statutes unconstitutional.

Since some judicial officers, including Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones in Montgomery and the Public Service Commission in South Carolina, contend the April 23 ruling of the Supreme Court did not decide the segregation issue, the trial here may produce the first clear-cut finding by the Supreme Court.

The action of the three-judge panel can be reviewed direct by the Supreme Court while the South Carolina case involved in the April 23 decision goes back to a lower court for trial.

Defendants in the complaint challenging validity of Montgomery City and Alabama State laws are Montgomery City Lines, which operates the city's only bus service; the City Commission whose three members all belong to the white citizens council, the chief of police; two bus drivers, and the members of the Alabama Public Service Commission.

GM Production Holiday Ordered

DETROIT, May 10 (AP)—General Motors, biggest of the auto makers, today, ordered a one day halt of its assembly lines to "balance production with current customer demand."

The move, which followed a similar two-day shutdown of Chrysler Corp. auto assembly plants, came in the midst of a general downtrend in automobile production and sales.

GM said its assembly plants would close either Friday or Monday for one day. The choice of days has been left up to individual plant managers. The plants normally are closed Saturday and Sunday.

A GM spokesman said the corporation was making a survey to find out how many of its 350,000 hourly rated workers would be idled by the shutdown. He said reports had to be compiled from plants across the country and that it would be some time before the figures were available.

Chrysler is closing for Friday and Monday.

Hoover Begins His 33rd Year As FBI Director

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover today reached his 32nd anniversary as FBI director.

He marked the occasion with a warm word for the broad advancement of law enforcement in his time and a hopeful forecast that current civil rights difficulties in the South will be solved "in a responsible way."

He goes into his 33rd year holding the all-time record for tenure as head of a federal agency. With the Justice Department since 1917 he has been the FBI boss under five presidents and 11 attorneys general.

Now 61, Hoover made no special event of today's anniversary, but there was a stream of visitors to his office to shake hands and to see some of the huge collection of carnations—his favorite flower—which came in from all parts of the country.

Talking informally with newsmen, Hoover said the FBI has started a series of civil rights schools for local police officers in the Southern states, using the bureau's most mature and experienced agents as instructors. He reported the response from chiefs of police and others has been "tremendous."

The schools, planned late for other parts of the country, are being set up to explain the federal civil rights statutes, the areas of local and federal jurisdiction in this field, and, according to Hoover, "to emphasize that the FBI didn't write the civil rights laws or hand down the school integration decision."

Verne Alfred Braasch, 30, Reinbeck, Iowa, and Melvin Leroy Sullivan, 25, Kansas City, Mo., have been in the remote death row section of the prison near here since their conviction of the Oct. 22, 1949, robbery murder of a Beaver, Utah, service station attendant.

Capital Air Show Scaled Down For Safety's Sake

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—The Defense Department bowed to the protests of the safety-minded today and scaled down sharply the display of air power it had planned for the nation's capital on Armed Forces Day May 19.

Still in prospect, however, was the most impressive display of bomber strength in peacetime history—a flight across the Capitol building by more than 200 jet bombers, staggered at altitudes from 1,000 to 3,000 feet.

Also still on the schedule were the first low level flights across Washington by supersonic jet fighters—Convair F102s in their initial public showing, and F100 Super Sabers.

The bomber flypast was to include three eight-jet B52s of intercontinental range, 16 RB57 Canberra light twin-engine bombers, and 216 six-jet B47 medium bombers, by far the largest massing of B47s yet attempted.

Just what was to be omitted was not stated but defense officials agreed to reduce the air show time by more than a half.

George Decision To Hang Up Political Gloves Comes As Something Of Surprise

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—Successful politicians are a lot like winning prize fighters.

Generally, they talk a good fight about retiring, and some of them, like heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, may say they are through. But it usually takes a convincing knockout, in the ring and at the polls, to get them out of there. And even then they often dream of, and try, a comeback.

So it was something of a surprise yesterday to hear that Walter Franklin George of Vienna, Ga., a senator since 1922, had decided to hang up his political gloves.

True, he is 78, but by senatorial standards that is a good fighting age. And, true, too, that reports from Georgia have said former Gov. Herman Talmadge, a mere babe of 43, was ready to give George the fight of his life.

But the Old Champ — no other senator has been here as long as George — had given every indication that he was ready to get in there and slug it out. As for his health, he told a reporter on his 78th birthday:

"I feel better than when I was about 28. I was kinda' sick then."

The official confirmation from George was supposed to come at 10 a.m., and well before that time his office was jammed with reporters and photographers.

George wasn't there, and no one knew for sure when he was coming.

There was nothing to do but wait, and stare at some of the momentoes of 33 years in the U.S. Senate.

Certificates from all sorts of organizations. The Future Farmers of America, the Disabled American Veterans, the American Cotton Manufacturers' Assn.

A smattering of books. A biography of Alexander H. Stephens, a Georgian who was a friend of Abraham Lincoln's when they were young congressmen here. Stephens went on to become vice president of the Confederacy. A history of Macon, Ga., a Bible, a copy of the proposed federal budget.

A report drifted in: "His maid said the senator is just now a-fixin' to leave."

Plenty of time yet. Time to reflect on the years George has been here, the men he has known, the decisions he has made since he was first elected in 1922.

Vice President Calvin Coolidge was presiding over the Senate in those days, recognizing such men as Tom Heflin of Alabama, Hiram Johnson of California, George Norris of Nebraska, Jim Reed of Missouri. Over in the House a young man from Kentucky, Alben Barkley, looked like a comer.

Still no George. You figured maybe he hated to come in and face the music.

Time to study the portrait on the wall, of a young man in uniform, and to remember a senator has a private life. That would be the son, J. Marcus George, who flew to help another aviator, and never was heard from again.

And on the mantel a picture of the senator and the little lady who still is known as "Miss Lucy" even though she has been Mrs. G. for well night 53 years.

Then, an hour and 20 minutes late, George arrived, with Miss Lucy fluttering protectively about him. George had a letter to read, from the President, tapping him to be envoy to the North American Treaty Organization.

And suddenly you had the feeling that while you were mooning over his long years in the Senate, George had been delayed by something more practical: He was waiting for that letter from the White House.

George read the letter to the newsmen, apologized for being being late, and said:

"I've got to go now. A committee meeting."

And as Miss Lucy beamed proudly, the Old Champ made his way out of the political ring, still on his feet.

Towson State College Student Drowns

COCKEYSVILLE, Md., May 10 (AP)—Irvin Neil Dobbins, of Catonsville, a 20-year-old Towson State Teachers College student, drowned yesterday at the Beaver Dam quarry near here.

Dobbins went to the quarry for a swim with two other Towson students, Miss Jane Vogeler, 19, and Miss Nancy Lee Normine, 20, both of Baltimore.

Miss Normine said the youth swam out toward a raft and suddenly began thrashing around in the water about 75 to 100 feet from shore.

When the girl asked if he was in trouble, he replied, "Yes, get help."

Miss Vogeler, who remained on shore, went for assistance while Miss Normine attempted to help the struggling youth. Police were told. She was dragged below the water's surface by Dobbins, but managed to free herself.

LINENS, DOMESTICS — THIRD FLOOR

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON — Congress continues to struggle with legislative devices designed to aid the small businessman. I have a strong feeling that the small business man is being gradually smothered out of existence through "wordy concern." For too long the "plight of the small businessman" has been an ever constant theme of speeches on the floor of both House and the Senate. Coupled with the "concern" has been a striking failure to take any direct action that would benefit small- and medium-sized enterprises.

I firmly believe the business structure that best serves the public interest is one that provides room for all sized businesses. And our job as members of Congress is to provide whatever legislation is necessary to make certain the small businessman is not crowded out of the structure completely. If our American system of private competitive enterprises is to be preserved, we must see to it that all business is given every opportunity to aid in the growth and development of the American economy.

The safeguards of our anti-trust laws provide protection but should be augmented by legislation which recognizes the relative ability of business to pay taxes on their incomes. Taxes on small business are too high. They ought to be lowered. We need a taxing formula that would apply the principle of the graduated income tax to business. As in the case of individuals, rates on small earners should be low. Such a law needs to be carefully thought out and well drawn for its principle could be abused.

Meanwhile, I think a step in the right direction would be to raise the exemption on surtax levies. I have a bill pending in the House which would gradually increase the surtax exemption from its present $25,000 to $50,000 over a period of five years. Enactment of this measure would provide the small businessman with needed relief.

ON MY CALENDAR: On May 13, Mrs. Hyde and I will attend the Fort Frederick Bicentennial at Hagerstown. I plan to speak at the meeting of the Cissel-Saxon Post of the American Legion on May 17.

Montgomery Co. Zoning Decision Upset By Court

ANNAPOLIS, May 10 (AP) — The Court of Appeals today upset a Montgomery County zoning decision which had ruled that Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Walker could use three acres of residential land for a parking lot.

The property in question fronts on Goldsboro Road and Avalon Drive, halfway between Massachusetts Avenue and Ramsgate Road.

The appeals court ruled the lower court had exceeded its power in the two cases involving the property.

Originally the county board of appeals denied the Walkers' bid to have the area used as parking for a shopping center planned on nearly four adjoining acres, which are zoned commercial.

The first lower court decision sent the case back to the appeals board, holding the board had made incorrect findings of fact.

The board then ruled the Walkers had met the burden of proof needed in such cases and granted the permit.

The Circuit Court then affirmed the board's finding.

The high court opinion said Circuit Judge Charles W. Woodward found in the first lower court case that the Walkers had not met the burden of proof of showing no nuisance from the operation.

"This being so, the order of the Circuit Court affirming the decision of the board in granting the special exception must be, and is, reversed," the court said.

The Circuit Court has no power to rule on matters of fact in such cases, the court said, but must limit itself to rulings of law.

Wives Can't Escape Court Appearances

HAGERSTOWN, May 10 (AP) — Wives who swear out warrants against their husbands will have to appear in court whether they want to or not, Magistrate William Kreykenbom ruled today.

He said there have been too many instances of wives taking out warrants after a domestic spat and later asking that charges be dropped.

The only out for a wife with a change of heart: She can refuse to testify.

But Kreykenbom said the wives at least will have to appear in court. He said they "are going to come in or be brought in."

Happy Worker Is Safe Worker, Conference Told

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP)—A happy worker is a safe worker, a safety conference speaker said today.

K. Brantley Watson, of McCormick & Co., Inc., told the Governor's Safety-Health Conference there are two kinds of work environment.

He said one, the control method, is based on fear of the employe for his boss. The fear creates tension and frustration which lead to accidents.

The other is the co-operative method. Watson said it recognizes the fundamental well being of people. Management recognizes individual differences and realizes that individuals require recognition and a sense of security.

The McCormick vice president said Americans do not respond to control management because it frightens and angers them.

About 200 persons are attending the 2-day conference.

Joseph F. DiDomenico commissioner of the Department of Labor and Industry, told the conference accidents in Maryland cost $25-million a year.

Various phases of health and safety are to be discussed during the conference.

Patrolman Who Shot Negro Is Suspended

ANNAPOLIS, May 10 (AP) — Patrolman Curtis R. Strength has been suspended from the Annapolis police force for 30 days for the shooting of a 38-year-old Negro at the end of a high speed auto chase.

Commissioner George W. Rawlings also announced that Strength has been put on probation for a year for misuse of his service revolver.

The charges stemmed from a chase through Annapolis early Sunday morning last week.

Strength shot George Graves through the neck and shoulder after the Negro fled from his car which police cruisers chased until it crashed into a parked car. Groves is in satisfactory condition in Anne Arundel General Hospital.

Strength said he meant to shoot over Graves' head, but that his arm may not have come up far enough. He has been suspended from the force since the shooting.

Free Distribution

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — The Fund for the Republic has announced it will finance free distribution of 50,000 copies of a Department of Defense publication entitled "Who Are Communists and Why?" The pamphlet is one of a number of publications to be distributed free by the Fund.

The world's first brick street was laid in Charleston, W. Va.

Hyde Urges Fewer Words And More Aid For Small Business

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—Rep. Hyde (R-Md) said today he felt the small businessman was being gradually smothered out of existence through "wordy concern" of Congress.

"For too long the 'plight of the small businessman' has been an ever constant theme of speeches on the floor of both the House and the Senate," the Western Maryland Congressman said in a statement. "Coupled with the 'concern' has been a striking failure to take any direct action that would benefit small and medium-sized enterprises.

"I firmly believe the business structure that best serves the public interest is one that provides room for all sized businesses."

Hyde said he had a bill pending in the House to gradually increase the surtax exemption from its present $25,000 to $50,000 over a period of five years.

"Enactment of this measure," he said, "would provide the small businessman with needed relief."

The safeguards of antitrust laws provide protection, he added, but they "should be augmented by legislation which recognized the relative ability of business to pay taxes on their income.

"Taxes on small business are too high. They ought to be lowered.

"We need a taxing formula that would apply the principle of the graduated income tax to business."

Montgomery Co. Zoning Decision Upset By Court

ANNAPOLIS, May 10 (AP) — The Court of Appeals today upset a Montgomery County zoning decision which had ruled that Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Walker could use three acres of residential land for a parking lot.

The property in question fronts on Goldsboro Road and Avalon Drive, halfway between Massachusetts Avenue and Ramsgate Road.

The appeals court ruled the lower court had exceeded its power in the two cases involving the property.

Originally the county board of appeals denied the Walkers' bid to have the area used as parking for a shopping center planned on nearly four adjoining acres, which are zoned commercial.

The first lower court decision sent the case back to the appeals board, holding the board had made incorrect findings of fact.

The board then ruled the Walkers had met the burden of proof needed in such cases and granted the permit.

The Circuit Court then affirmed the board's finding.

The high court opinion said Circuit Judge Charles W. Woodward found in the first lower court case that the Walkers had not met the burden of proof of showing no nuisance from the operation.

"This being so, the order of the Circuit Court affirming the decision of the board in granting the special exception must be, and is, reversed," the court said.

The Circuit Court has no power to rule on matters of fact in such cases, the court said, but must limit itself to rulings of law.

Wives Can't Escape Court Appearances

HAGERSTOWN, May 10 (AP) — Wives who swear out warrants against their husbands will have to appear in court whether they want to or not, Magistrate William Kreykenbom ruled today.

He said there have been too many instances of wives taking out warrants after a domestic spat and later asking that charges be dropped.

The only out for a wife with a change of heart: She can refuse to testify.

But Kreykenbom said the wives at least will have to appear in court. He said they "are going to come in or be brought in."

Happy Worker Is Safe Worker, Conference Told

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP)—A happy worker is a safe worker, a safety conference speaker said today.

K. Brantley Watson, of McCormick & Co., Inc., told the Governor's Safety-Health Conference there are two kinds of work environment.

He said one, the control method, is based on fear of the employe for his boss. The fear creates tension and frustration which lead to accidents.

The other is the co-operative method. Watson said it recognizes the fundamental well being of people. Management recognizes individual differences and realizes that individuals require recognition and a sense of security.

The McCormick vice president said Americans do not respond to control management because it frightens and angers them.

About 200 persons are attending the 2-day conference.

Joseph F. DiDomenico commissioner of the Department of Labor and Industry, told the conference accidents in Maryland cost $25-million a year.

Various phases of health and safety are to be discussed during the conference.

Patrolman Who Shot Negro Is Suspended

ANNAPOLIS, May 10 (AP) — Patrolman Curtis R. Strength has been suspended from the Annapolis police force for 30 days for the shooting of a 38-year-old Negro at the end of a high speed auto chase.

Commissioner George W. Rawlings also announced that Strength has been put on probation for a year for misuse of his service revolver.

The charges stemmed from a chase through Annapolis early Sunday morning last week.

Strength shot George Graves through the neck and shoulder after the Negro fled from his car which police cruisers chased until it crashed into a parked car. Groves is in satisfactory condition in Anne Arundel General Hospital.

Strength said he meant to shoot over Graves' head, but that his arm may not have come up far enough. He has been suspended from the force since the shooting.

Free Distribution

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — The Fund for the Republic has announced it will finance free distribution of 50,000 copies of a Department of Defense publication entitled "Who Are Communists and Why?" The pamphlet is one of a number of publications to be distributed free by the Fund.

The world's first brick street was laid in Charleston, W. Va.

Hyde Urges Fewer Words And More Aid For Small Business

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—Rep. Hyde (R-Md) said today he felt the small businessman was being gradually smothered out of existence through "wordy concern" of Congress.

"For too long the 'plight of the small businessman' has been an ever constant theme of speeches on the floor of both the House and the Senate," the Western Maryland Congressman said in a statement. "Coupled with the 'concern' has been a striking failure to take any direct action that would benefit small and medium-sized enterprises.

"I firmly believe the business structure that best serves the public interest is one that provides room for all sized businesses."

Hyde said he had a bill pending in the House to gradually increase the surtax exemption from its present $25,000 to $50,000 over a period of five years.

"Enactment of this measure," he said, "would provide the small businessman with needed relief."

The safeguards of antitrust laws provide protection, he added, but they "should be augmented by legislation which recognized the relative ability of business to pay taxes on their income.

"Taxes on small business are too high. They ought to be lowered.

"We need a taxing formula that would apply the principle of the graduated income tax to business."

One Dies In Fire

U.S. Chemist Gave Reds Information For 17 Years

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP) — An American chemist was quoted as telling the Senate Internal Security subcommittee today that he had supplied technical industrial information to the Russians over a 17-year period—from 1933 until 1950.

Robert Morris, chief counsel for the committee, said the witness gave this testimony to the investigators in executive session.

"In following up testimony of Harry Gold," Morris said, "we subpoenaed various people. The answered questions apparently with great candor and directness."

Gold, convicted of espionage six years ago, testified before the subcommittee last month.

Morris said the chemist told the Senate probers he first worked with the Russians in 1933.

"He said his contact at that time was with a man under cover of the Amtorg Trading Corp.—a name that has come out frequently witness today was subpoenaed and in our hearings," Morris said.

"Then in 1937, he changed to another contact with the cover of the Soviet Red Cross," Morris added.

"He said he worked for the Russians until 1940. His contacts through the 1940s were spotty," Morris said, "and his last contact was in 1950."

The lawyer said the subcommittee is trying to protect the identity of the witness, and will decide later whether to question the chemist further.

Asked where the chemist lived, Morris replied: "The New York area, broadly speaking."

Gold, once a Philadelphia research chemist, was sentenced to 30 years imprisonment in 1950. He is serving his time at the Lewisburg, Pa. prison.

General Thomas J. (Stonewall) Jackson was born in Clarksburg, West Virginia.

'Iron Curtain' Of Age

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—State Industrial Commissioner Isador Lubin wants employers to lift the "iron curtain" of age in hiring. He said as many as 100,000 workers over 45 are walking the streets of New York City looking for jobs. "All too many are running up against an iron curtain called 'age,'" Lubin added.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

WASHINGTON—In my newsletter of April 2, 1956, I suggested that "an independent bipartisan commission should be established on a continuing basis to evaluate the need, character and extent of foreign aid in the light of changing domestic and world conditions." The idea is by no means new, and in recent weeks, others, including Senator George, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, Secretary of State Dulles and President Eisenhower have voiced the need for a re-appraisal of our aid programs.

When the Marshall Plan was first conceived in 1947, Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan proposed that a bi-partisan advisory council of "our ablest and most experienced citizenship" be appointed to determine the extent to which the United States could "safely and wisely" engage in aid to foreign nations. He said further ". . . I recognize that intelligent American self-interest immediately requires a second, over-all inventory of our own resources to determine the latitudes within which we may consider these foreign needs. This comes first because if America ever sags, the world's hopes sag with her."

Accordingly, President Truman, in June of 1947, appointed not one, but three committees, including a non-partisan Advisory Council, to undertake this critical assignment of domestic and global impact. Out of these considerations came the framework of the Marshall Plan (ECA) which was later approved by Congress.

With the approach of the expiration of ECA in 1952, Senator Vandenberg made a similar recommendation in these words, ". . . I think it would be well for another such commission, equally unpartisan and equally impeccable in character, to resume independent, advisory studies of our new responsibilities as the world's largest creditor nation and the world's spearhead in the quest of dependable peace . . ."

That suggestion, in all of its wisdom and import is, in my judgment, as pertinent today as it was in 1952—especially in the light of ever-changing world conditions. Past successes and failures in the apportionment and disbursement of foreign aid must be evaluated in terms of changing Soviet tactics and the shifting world situation. Certainly, there is much historical evidence to demonstrate that independent commissions have very usefully served as a crucible for the blending, in proper measure, of reason, soundness and judgment with emotion, responsibility and objectivity while vaporizing the unreasonable, the unsound and the impractical.

Do you write notes only when etiquette demands? If you do, you miss many a chance to charm.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Be Charming On Paper

Is there a full box of nice notepaper among your possessions? If there isn't there should be. The paper should be quite plain and of good quality, but most important, the box should be handy because nothing should hinder note-writing. It's one of the most charming things you can do.

Note writing is sometimes required by etiquette, and no one with social grace ever fails to write the note she should write, and promptly. But it's those beyond-the-call-of-duty, since, and spontaneous and often gay notes that aren't expected which put you down as the girl who has more than her share of charm.

The wife of a man who was recently given a party as he changed to a new position wrote notes to every guest thanking each for honoring him by being there. Not every guest knew the wife as well as the husband, but no one will forget her. The president of a 'parents' group wrote thank-yous to all members of her many and large committees at the end of the school year. She'll always be a stand-out to them especially because she wrote to their sons and daughters who sometimes helped.

You'll think of many occasions for note writing right now— to the graduate, whether or not you send a gift, to the bride you know fairly well, even if you're not invited to the small wedding, to someone who offered you kindness or help without expecting thanks. The note needn't be, and shouldn't be long, but it should be genuine and very like you. So often the nicest way of doing things is to put your thoughts in your own handwriting.

Busy Season Planned For Park Pool

The City Recreation Department is making plans for the opening of Constitution Park Pool on May 30, according to Robert E. Pence, director.

He said a number of changes will be made in facilities before the pool opens. These will include changes in dressing rooms so they can be supervised by basket checkers at all times, and the building of duckboards to curb dampness and facilitate cleanliness in the dressing rooms.

Other facilities at the pool, he said, are in top condition for the busy season ahead.

Activities will include special pool parties for graduating classes of the high schools of the city.

A water show, with exhibition diving, synchronized swimming, clown diving and swimming races will be scheduled during the summer.

As usual, the department will offer two weeks of free swimming for all children registered at city playgrounds.

Adult swimming classes will be offered in the evenings, and special classes are planned in lifesaving and diving.

Pence said the pool staff this year will include a manager and an assistant manager, so that one of them can be on duty at all times the pool is open.

Small Vessel Safety Bill Signed By Ike

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed a bill aimed at lessening the chances of loss of life from sinking of small commercial vessels carrying passengers.

The legislation is designed at preventing such accidents as the foundering of the Levin J. Marvel last August in the Chesapeake Bay and the sinking of two vessels in 1951 off Montauk Points, Long Island.

The bill provides for inspection and certification by the Coast Guard of such ships which carry more than six passengers.

New Christian Magazine Will Appear Oct. 15

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—For years Dr. L. Nelson Bell had been turning over in his mind the need for a new magazine, one that would present evangelical Christianity attractively and forcefully as an everyday power in every area of life.

A successful Asheville, N.C., surgeon and prominent Presbyterian layman, Bell felt that this brand of Christianity had often been misrepresented by both liberals and fundamentalists.

Finally, in January of last year, he spoke to his son-in-law about his idea.

To his surprise he found that the son-in-law — a Baptist evangelist named Billy Graham — had been thinking about the same thing and had talked to several people about it.

With Graham's encouragement, Bell wrote 20 letters to an interdenominational list of men he thought might help get the project rolling. Now, just 16 months later, these letters cast upon the waters have resulted in announcement that a new fortnightly, Christianity Today, will issue its first number next Oct. 15.

Each of the men on Bell's list responded enthusiastically — and suggested more names. By Labor Day Bell had written more than 1,000 letters, and on that day he and a group of 20 met in New York to get down to cases. They selected a board of directors of 12 — six clergy and six laymen — formed a nonprofit corporation, appointed a staff.

Dr. Bell, who says with obvious sincerity that throughout the whole development he was "only an instrument in the Lord's hands," was named executive editor.

As editor the board chose Carl F. H. Henry, a tall and husky professor of Christian philosophy at Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, Calif.

Bell's letter-writing produced about $100,000 to get the magazine under way. He says he expects to get 50,000 paid subscriptions at $5 a year by Oct. 1.

"Our whole experience with this," he says, "has shown us what can happen when there is a spiritual need, a divine call, when people are sold on what to do. Sixteen months ago this was just an idea, with no means in sight to make it a reality. Money? If a thing is right, the money will come.

"It seems as though everything is working in our favor. We decided on Washington for our office, but we couldn't find a place. We were about to give up when we found this. It's just what we need, and the building manager was so impressed with what we are doing that he redecorated the whole thing and installed partitions just as we wanted them, and didn't charge us for it."

Chinaman's Oath

SCARBOROUGH, England, May 10 (AP) — Chinese laundryman Tung Gong swore by China he would tell the truth. "— if not," he told the judge, "my soul will be cracked like this saucer." The judge looked at the proferred chinaware and accepted the oath as valid.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Springtime and love go hand in hand except on the floors of the Congress.

In the Senate and the House of Representatives, the arrival of the traditional season of harmony means mainly that the congressional session is rushing to a close. And the approach of adjournment day invariably means an increase in tension and conflict.

Some of Capitol Hill's biggest squabbles might explode around legislation which will deal with housing, social security and highways.

Therefore, I thought it would be appropriate at this time to discuss those issues with you.

Housing For Aged

The housing measure, which eventually will be debated by the Senate, will probably include a provision for low-cost construction for the aged. This section seems to have widespread support.

Other items, however, such as the proposals dealing with military housing, seem destined to stir up considerable controversy.

I say that because the completed housing bill as it will go to the floor from committee was compiled from 16 individual measures, many of which drew sharp criticism when they were first introduced independently.

There is no reason to believe that time — or the spirit of spring —has mellowed the opposition.

The proposed social security legislation looms as one of the most touchy issues on the Senate schedule.

According to one of the several plans being promoted in this field, the age at which women would be eligible for pensions would be lowered from 65 to 62, and the age of 50 would be set as the point at which disabled persons of both sexes could begin receiving benefits.

The administration has indicated that the cost of such changes might be prohibitive, and it has been rumored that any bill passed with those features would tempt a presidential veto.

Plan For Superhighways

Of all the major legislation still to be considered, the roads bill is probably in the most enviable position.

In its present form, it is what the administration has been seeking and what anti-administration forces apparently want also.

There might be an argument over certain financing provisions, but most sources seem to feel that a long-range plan for criss-crossing our nation with superhighways will be given the green light before this 84th Congress is history.

MONTREAL, May 10 (AP) — The jails of Ireland, says Ambassador Leo T. McCauley, provide evidence that the Irish are peaceful and lawabiding. The Irish envoy told a civic luncheon here that prison officials in the republic outnumber the inmates.

Paper Firm Studies Housing Area Plans

WESTERNPORT — To meet a long-range need for adequate housing sites in the Tri-Towns area, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company is studying the possibility of developing facilities for a new residential sub-division on Horse Rock Hill, adjacent to the new Bruce High School, it was announced yesterday by John A. Luke, manager of the Luke Mill.

Although its plans have not been finalized, Luke said it was the intention of the company to encourage the development of the area into a model sub-division large enough to accommodate future growth in the community and to make the lots available to persons seeking attractive sites for new homes.

"If the area can be properly developed, our studies indicate that perhaps 25 new houses might be built in the section within the very near future," Luke said.

He stressed, however, that all homes in the new development would be privately built, pointing out that the company definitely would not build houses for sale and would not finance the building of houses in the area.

"While we are naturally interested in making available attractive building sites for our own people, the sale of lots in the development will be open to the community and will not be restricted to employes," Luke said.

The mill manager said that the company had retained the services of J. William Brosius of Frederick, who has had many years of experience in sub-division development, to draw up a long-range community development plan for the area, including standard specifications for the homes to be constructed on the sites.

Details of the company's plans will be announced just as soon as the final plans have been completed, Luke said.

During the war of 1812, Andrew Jackson's 2,000 militiamen defeated 12,000 British regulars in the battle of New Orleans.

Convention Delegates Are Selected

Nine area men have been selected as delegates to the state Republican convention scheduled next week in Baltimore.

James S. Getty, assistant state's attorney and chairman of the Allegany County Committee, announced yesterday that the convention will be staged at the Lord Baltimore Hotel next Wednesday at 1:30 p. m.

Attending from Allegany County will be Getty, Edgar M. Lewis, Victor Hebb, Thomas Elias, Francis Miller, David Williams, George Jeffrey and Samuel M. Berry, all members of the County Committee, and J. Glenn Beall Jr., of Frostburg.

Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the National Republican Committee, will speak.

Eight county Democrats will attend the state Democratic convention. The date has not been selected.

Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the County Committee, said he will attend along with seven delegates.

The delegates are Edward J. Ryan, William L. Wilson Jr., William V. Keegan, Leslie J. Clark, Robert Barnard Jr., Thomas F. Conlon Jr., and Julius E. Schindler.

Unusual Truck Case Heard Here

An unusual case was heard in Trial Magistrate Court this week when a Flintstone area man was charged with operating a truck seven inches over the maximum height for vehicles.

Richard Boyle of the State Roads Commission charged Robert R. Deremer, of RD 2, Flintstone, with having a truck seven inches over height. He was stopped near the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company plant in Luke.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason pointed out that it marked the first time in the history of Allegany County that a trucker had been arrested on such a charge, and that most drivers do not even realize that height, weight, length and width of trucks are covered by law.

Magistrate Mason told Deremer the law states that no vehicle shall be over 12 feet, six inches in height, except motor transport carriers (carrying new autos from the factory) and vehicles loaded with hay or straw in bound bales.

Magistrate Mason noted that the transport carriers and trucks carrying hay or straw must not exceed 13 feet, six inches.

Magistrate Mason also noted that the length of a vehicle may not exceed 55 feet, including the bumpers, and must not be more than 96 inches in width.

The exceptions to the length are trucks carrying utility poles or boats, and the only exception to the law on width of a vehicle is one carrying farm equipment. The law notes that farm equipment may not be hauled over two miles on the highway.

Magistrate Mason fined the man $25 and costs, and then suspended the fine.

Another Child Is Bitten By Dog

A two-year-old local boy became the fifth victim of a dog bite Tuesday when he was bitten on his left ribs.

Treated at Memorial Hospital for the bite was Jeffrey Lindner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lindner, 11 Schiller Terrace.

The Lindner youngster makes the fifth local child to be bitten by dogs and treated at Memorial Hospital within the past two weeks.

Tax Commission Decides Assessment Appeal Case

The State Tax Commission yesterday partially upheld the Allegany County supervisor of assessments in the test of orders of the Allegany County commissioners calling for re-assessment of all new properties built in the county in 1955.

New properties assessed in 1955 and not protested were ordered recorded in the county tax books and those protested will be reviewed.

Albert W. Ward, executive secretary of the State Tax Commission, said the opinion in the hearing held last week was mailed yesterday to those concerned.

The commission heard arguments in the case which arose when Somerville Nicholson, Allegany County supervisor of assessments appealed the February 7 ruling of the majority of the board, —Board President William H. Lemmert and Commissioner James Orr.

Ward said the case involved these orders of the county commissioners:

For Nicholson to provide a new evaluation on new properties in 1955 which the owners protested; a new evaluation of all new properties in 1955, whether or not there had been a protest, and thirdly, that prior to these re-evaluations the county commissioners and the supervisor of assessments shall confer with the State Tax Commission on standards and units of value that are for use in assessing property in Allegany County.

The opinion noted that under the procedure set up by law, Nicholson has reviewed the cases that have been protested and is prepared to submit them to the county commissioners.

The State Tax Commission said that it is now in order for the county commissioners to sit as a board of assessment and review to decide on the protest cases.

The tax commission noted that the county commissioners are the county's original assessing officers and they are charged with both the power and duty to deal with the recommendations of the supervisor of assessments as they see fit.

All agencies concerned with assessing property, the opinion observed, (county commissioners, county assessors, Tax Appeal Court and the State Tax Commission), are bound by the provisions of the state law.

That is that property must be assessed at its full cash value on the date of finality.

In the cases involved by the February 7 ruling, the commission said those protested before the date of finality, January 1, 1956, for the 1955 assessments, are to be reviewed.

Those not protested are to be entered as reported, the commission ordered.

The opinion pointed out that counsel for the commissioners (Gorman E. Getty) admitted at the hearing that the action for re-assessment of all new properties was invalid because of the date of finality.

As far as discussing the standards of assessment, the commission said it has no objection but added that it has no provisions for the standards or rates in Allegany County alone.

The assessments covered in the February 7 orders of the county commissioners involved District 29, LaVale; part of District 23, East Side, and District 5, North End.

Clement C. Moore wrote his poem, "The Night Before Christmas," as a Christmas present for his two daughters.

Tax Commission Decides Assessment Appeal Case

The State Tax Commission yesterday partially upheld the Allegany County supervisor of assessments in the test of orders of the Allegany County commissioners calling for re-assessment of all new properties built in the county in 1955.

New properties assessed in 1955 and not protested were ordered recorded in the county tax books and those protested will be reviewed.

Albert W. Ward, executive secretary of the State Tax Commission, said the opinion in the hearing held last week was mailed yesterday to those concerned.

The commission heard arguments in the case which arose when Somerville Nicholson, Allegany County supervisor of assessments appealed the February 7 ruling of the majority of the board, —Board President William H. Lemmert and Commissioner James Orr.

Ward said the case involved these orders of the county commissioners:

For Nicholson to provide a new evaluation on new properties in 1955 which the owners protested; a new evaluation of all new properties in 1955, whether or not there had been a protest, and thirdly, that prior to these re-evaluations the county commissioners and the supervisor of assessments shall confer with the State Tax Commission on standards and units of value that are for use in assessing property in Allegany County.

The opinion noted that under the procedure set up by law, Nicholson has reviewed the cases that have been protested and is prepared to submit them to the county commissioners.

The State Tax Commission said that it is now in order for the county commissioners to sit as a board of assessment and review to decide on the protest cases.

The tax commission noted that the county commissioners are the county's original assessing officers and they are charged with both the power and duty to deal with the recommendations of the supervisor of assessments as they see fit.

All agencies concerned with assessing property, the opinion observed, (county commissioners, county assessors, Tax Appeal Court and the State Tax Commission), are bound by the provisions of the state law.

That is that property must be assessed at its full cash value on the date of finality.

In the cases involved by the February 7 ruling, the commission said those protested before the date of finality, January 1, 1956, for the 1955 assessments, are to be reviewed.

Those not protested are to be entered as reported, the commission ordered.

The opinion pointed out that counsel for the commissioners (Gorman E. Getty) admitted at the hearing that the action for re-assessment of all new properties was invalid because of the date of finality.

As far as discussing the standards of assessment, the commission said it has no objection but added that it has no provisions for the standards or rates in Allegany County alone.

The assessments covered in the February 7 orders of the county commissioners involved District 29, LaVale; part of District 23, East Side, and District 5, North End.

Clement C. Moore wrote his poem, "The Night Before Christmas," as a Christmas present for his two daughters.

Miller Chooses To Remain Head Of Elkins Division

Offered the job of superintendent of the Hagerstown Division of the Western Maryland Railway Wednesday, Joseph M. Miller, 420 Fayette Street, yesterday declined the position.

Miller chose to remain as superintendent of the Elkins Division of the railroad, a position he has held since May 5, 1943.

Miller said he was highly pleased with the offer of the position, but said he is very satisfied with Cumberland and his position on the railroad here.

Ira B. Chambers, assistant superintendent of the Hagerstown Division in charge of the Port Covington section, who was to be transferred here, yesterday was made acting superintendent of the Hagerstown Division. George M. Leilich, vice president in charge of transportation, said in Baltimore yesterday.

Replacing Chambers at Port Covington will be Robert B. Wooters, division engineer for the Elkins Division. Wooters has been here for over a year.

Wooters' successor in the Cumberland position will be Sidney W. George, who is office engineer in the office of Chief Engineer F. E. Etchison in Baltimore.

Leilich also announced the promotion of C. N. Page from assistant trainmaster at Baltimore to trainmaster there.

Chief Engineer Etchison said that George has been employed by the railroad since 1942. He saw Marine Corps service during World War II. He is a graduate of Georgia Tech.

The chain of promotions was occasioned by the death Monday of the Hagerstown Division superintendent, E. E. Welsh.

Nolle Pros Entered In Damage Suit

A suit brought by Joseph P. and Susan Wasiliwski, operators of the Welcome Inn on West Virginia Route 28 near Short Gap, against the Queen City Brewing Company was interrupted yesterday after attorneys for the plaintiff asked a writ of nolle prosequi.

Testimony had been started in the case, in which Wasiliwski claimed damage against the brewery for loss of business.

William C. and William Walsh represented the brewery while Peter J. Carpenti and Donald W. Mason were counsel for Wasiliwski. Chief Judge George Henderson presided at the trial before a jury.

Mason said that under the law the plaintiff still has the right to file suit without prejudice.

Angel Of Dienbienphu Deserves A Salute

The spectacle of the person cast by fate in a heroic role who makes a lifetime career out of his fame is only too familiar. These people believe, or at least try to make others believe, that the world owes them a living. But happily the stuff of heroes goes into such molds only occasionally.

Thoughts are directed along these lines by newspaper mention of a woman and a heroine who quietly adjusted her life when she was able to step out of the world spotlight. Remember Mlle. Genevieve de Galard-Terraube, the French nurse who in 1954 was "The Angel of Dienbienphu?" Her care of the wounded French soldiers in that two-month siege was one of the factors that kept world attention focused upon the fighting there.

Mlle. de Galard-Terraube was a much feted person upon her return to France. But it is suspected that she submitted to most of the fuss that was made over her only at the direction of her superiors in the French Air Force, in which at that time she was a lieutenant.

Somewhere in the months that followed — months in which her name gradually passed out of the news columns — she resigned from the French military service. This she did because in the Air Force she would have been unable to carry out a pledge she made to herself during the 1954 siege. It was then that she determined to dedicate her life to rehabilitation work among handicapped veterans.

Since last year Mlle. de Galard-Terraube has been training for that work in New York. Now, prepared to make good her pledge, she is returning to France.

The world saluted her in 1954. It should salute again this young woman who was able to keep her poise amid world acclaim and then quietly turn to the great humanitarian work to which she dedicated herself.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Planned Emigration

There has probably been no period in human history when so many persons have wanted to be elsewhere than where they happen to be. This has resulted in an enormous movement of human beings since the end of World War II. By the end of 1955, for instance, more than 400,000 Europeans had been assisted by the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration which had been created in 1951. There is a large migration within Soviet Russia to Siberia and a migration from Red China about which we know very little. These may be larger in numbers than the mass migration movements in Europe. At one time, it was believed that Chinese were being moved to the Karakum Desert near the Caspian Sea but there really is no authentic information on the subject.

The European problem is very serious due to overpopulation. Whereas during the first years after the war, most of the European migrants were refugees from either Hitler's or Stalin's terror, those who are presently involved in this problem are not so much refugees as families who seek to improve their economic and social status by moving from over-crowded to sparsely settled areas where the opportunities are better for hard workers. They are much like the pioneer stock that in the 17th and 18th centuries settled our own country. They are not city dwellers who are dispossessed, but people who go to areas that need additional population. Canada, for instance, is willing to take some 175,000 immigrants a year, while Australia is engaged in a conscious and systematic building of additional population of European origin to the amount of 100,000 a year. Australia learned, during the war, that it needs more population.

Countries such as Holland, Italy, and Greece have been overpopulated for long periods and have been sending migrants to North and South America and other continents. The value of the ICEM is that it makes it its business to know where people are wanted, what kinds are wanted in what places and where it is advantageous for particular individuals to go. And it helps them get there. Dutch farmers, for instance, are particularly welcomed in Canada, Australia and Brazil where farmers are needed and where these people fit well into local populations.

The Italian problem is a very serious one. About 10 per cent of the Italian labor force has been unemployed for several years which must mean political and social discontent. Italian migrants now find a special welcome in Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela and Chile. Some, of course, go to Canada and Australia. These Italian migrants are not only farmers, but semi-skilled workers who are needed for the building of industry. There is still an Italian migration into the United States, but it is larger to the South American countries where the opportunities are better. The demand for skilled artisans is great everywhere and those Italians who possess specific skills are very fortunate when they migrate from low wage to higher wage countries.

Therefore, vocational courses are being given to Italians who desire to migrate. They are also taught Portuguese, Spanish and English so that on arrival in a new country they are not altogether greenhorns. The principal objection to the immigrant is that as he is not adjustable to the conditions of his new country, he creates social problems

The task of the ICEM and of national emigration bureaus is to assist the proposed migrant to prepare himself linguistically and socially for his new environment in advance of leaving his old one, so that he becomes more assimilable and adjustable and therefore is not offensive. This is a constructive program of which too little is known.

The problem in Greece is also one of unemployment and of frightfully low wages. Greece was hit unusually hard by the war and its high birth-rate gives it a larger population than it can find employment for. Greeks have found good work, in recent migrations, in Australia, Canada and Brazil. Whereas in the United States, we think of the Greek as a semi-skilled worker in the food business, such as restaurants and markets, actually he is a splendid farmer and shepherd, and he readily adjusts to new environments. Chotiner's Legal Business In East Included Top Philadelphia Racketeer

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—More is leaking out regarding the gentleman whom The New York Times describes as Vice President Nixon's "anchor man," Murray Chotiner. All of it indicates both the closeness of Chotiner to Nixon and the interesting manner in which Chotiner's law practice zoomed from coast to coast after Nixon became vice president.

Here are some additional close associations Chotiner had with the man who has a fair chance of becoming President of the United States:

Just before the 1952 Convention—Chotiner sent 23,000 letters out to leading Californians under Senator Nixon's frank, taking a poll regarding Eisenhower and Governor Warren. It had the effect of cutting the ground out from under Warren, thus paving the way for Nixon for vice President.

Went To Mexico

During the GOP Convention—Chotiner, according to Mrs. Nixon's magazine memoirs, was with her husband in his hotel suite when Brownell called to say that Nixon had been picked for second place.

After the election—When Nixon asked Truman to let him go to Mexico for the inauguration of Ruiz Cortinas, Chotiner went along as his assistant. Truman was still in office, and at Nixon's request space was made on the government plane for Chotiner to ride from Washington to Mexico City.

Before the coming GOP Convention—Chotiner acted for Nixon in selecting one-third of the California delegates to attend the convention. According to the San Francisco Chronicle, Chotiner sat in the St. Francis Hotel on the night of March 2, just two months ago, and, with Bernard C. Brennan of Los Angeles, represented Nixon in picking the Nixon-California delegates.

Chotiner has also signed letters acting as the attorney for the vice president as recently as March 22 of this year.

Thus, some of the most intimate events in Nixon's life have been connected with or entrusted to Murray Chotiner, right up to the present.

Chotiner's Clients

Here is the background of some of Chotiner's other clients:

Marco Reginelli of Philadelphia and Camden, N. J., was arrested 16 times between 1917 and 1942. He was convicted six times, ending in three prison sentences and three fines. When his citizenship was challenged, he retained a man of influence, Chotiner, to block his deportation. Chotiner had nothing to do with it, but the character of his client is shown by the fact that deportation proceedings touched off gang warfare and killed five men in South Philadelphia and South New Jersey.

Five men—Joseph "Joe Italy" Suero; Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bellona, Marshall Venezrale, Anthony Benedetto, and Emanuel Gottobrio—were killed in the battle to take over Reginelli's numbers racket.

The Philadelphia Police Bureau in a confidential letter dated July 19, 1949, reported that the New Jersey Italian mob was "headed by Marco Reginelli, alias 'The Little Guy', who is absolute czar of the Italians in the South Jersey and Philadelphia area."

The Federal Narcotics Bureau furnished the Kefauver Crime Investigating Committee with a list of Mafia members. On the list was Marco Reginelli. He was also included on a list of notorious racketeers that the Justice Department turned over to the Kefauver Committee.

Daniel Sullivan, former chief of the Miami Crime Commission, describing northern mobsters moved to Florida, told the Kefauver Committee:

"Closely associated with them at the Sands Hotel was Marco Reginelli of Camden, N. J., also known as 'The Little Guy' who also appeared to be a party in interest in their gambling operations . . . In February 1949, the wire service was shut off in the Miami Beach area. On the Sunday subsequent to that shut-off there was a meeting at the hotel at which Marco Reginelli, along with 'Nig' Rosen, and a very few others in the same group attended."

Why He Hired Chotiner

Reginelli's police record shows a conviction in 1942 under the Mann Act for transporting Mrs. Louise Abate from New Jersey to Florida for immoral purposes. Mrs. Abate was found dead last year in a motel in Margate City, N. J. Reginelli was questioned about the death, but the coroner finally decided that death was caused by acute alcoholism.

Herbert Levy, the U. S. naturalization examiner, estimated that Reginelli's income runs around $40,000 to $50,000 a year. Of this, only $7,500 was visible income from legitimate business enterprises.

When Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia was district attorney, his agents placed wiretaps on what appeared to be an abandoned and forgotten wire in the attic of a South Philadelphia home. It turned out to be a direct wire frequently used by the mobsters, and among the phone conversations picked up were some by Reginelli himself.

Reginelli has hired a host of lawyers, all of them from the East. But in 1952, James McGrannery, Truman's attorney general, listed him for deportation along with about 100 other racketeers. Born in Neprazzono, Italy, Reginelli had never taken out citizenship papers, but finally managed to get them on June 21, 1955.

This was three years after the Truman administration had moved to deport him and after Herbert Brownell had taken over the Justice Department.

It was quite recently, with the hot breath of deportation panting down his neck, that Reginelli reached all the way to the West Coast to hire the campaign manager and personal attorney of Vice President Nixon.

Reginelli had learned about Chotiner through Herman and Sam Kravitz, who were in income tax trouble, and from Joey Adams, all of whom had retained Chotiner. Chotiner also represented William A. Parzow of Miami, who refused to tell Senate investigators what he did with checks for $74,000.

Democratic Party Split Wide On U. S. World Policy

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The Democratic party is split wide open on the main issue of the day—what should be done in world policy by the United States.

Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrat—high up in Stevenson's camp—complains that the Eisenhower administration is still pursuing "the same old approach" of placing primary emphasis on military aid abroad.

Senator Symington of Missouri, Democrat——a potential candidate of the presidency on his own—complains that the Eisenhower administration isn't providing adequate armament, and is endeavoring to show that enough money isn't being spent on air power.

One wing of the Democratic party—which might be called the group favoring a "giveaway of money without strings"—insists that the United States isn't revamping its foreign-aid program to meet the "Soviet economic threat."

Stevenson "Appeasement" Group

Another group—which by some will be called the militaristic group—wants more emphasis on military power as "deterrent" and argues that the United States is being outstripped in the building of long-range bombers that carry H-bombs.

Still a third point of view appears to be held by intimate advisers of Adlai Stevenson. This is the "appeasement" group, which would acquiesce in the admission of Red China to the U. N. and also would abandon to their fate the suppressed peoples in the satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain.

The principal architects of this policy apparently are relying on the advice of George Kennan, former ambassador to Soviet Russia, who was the head of the State Department's policy planning board under the Truman administration. Mr. Kennan had his picture in the New York Times the other day as one of a group of advisers behind the Stevenson campaign. On another page in the same issue was a dispatch by James Reston, who reported that Mr. Kennan is privately circulating a paper on foreign policy with many provocative statements in it. On the subject of the Soviet satellites, Mr. Kennan is represented as saying that, while he condemns the "hideous injustices" committed by the Soviet Union in Eastern Europe, "there is a finality, for better or for worse, about what has occurred in Eastern Europe."

This is exactly what the refugees from the Iron Curtain countries have feared most—namely, that makers of American foreign policy might be prevailed upon to accept the "status quo" in Eastern Europe. Mr. Kennan is reported, moreover, to hold that it is no service to the satellites to encourage them to believe that they can return and pick up where they left off, ten or twenty years ago.

Would Lose Votes

Such an attitude would be regarded as manifest abandonment of the moral support hitherto given by the United States to the peoples of the Iron Curtain countries which aspire to regain their independence. Politically speaking, the Democratic party, if it accepts any such advice from Mr. Kennan, can be prepared to lose the votes of Poles, Czechs, Hungarians, Lithuanians, Estonians, Latvians and Bulgarians in some of the thickly populated wards of New York, Chicago, Cleveland and other cities where there is a strong bond of sympathy with the people who have been enslaved by the Communist dictatorship.

Mr. Kennan hints at an appeasement policy also for West Germany. He says:

"It seems to me that American policy should be aimed at the reunification of Germany and the earliest possible re-establishment of that country as a neutral factor that can blunt the sharp edge of military bipolarity in Europe and help, eventually, to mitigate the intensity of the conflict between East and West."

The Soviets, of course, want Germany to be neutral——that's the price they ask for consenting to unification. The West German leaders, however, say they want to remain in an alliance with the Western democracies. To make Germany a "neutral factor" means detachment of all of Germany from the West. If Mr. Stevenson wants to accept any such advice, he will find himself losing a lot of votes among the Americans in this country who don't want to see their kinsmen in Germany left to struggle alone with the Soviet aggressors.

Shouldn't Obstruct Red China

As for Red China, Mr. Kennan says he doesn't think admission of Red China into the U. N. should be supported by the United States itself but that this country, on the other hand, should not try to obstruct Red China's entry if the majority of the members of the U. N. want it. Any hint of lukewarmness by America toward Nationalist China will, of course, help to bring about a majority in the U. N. for Red China overnight.

If that's to be the Democratic party's contribution to a "revamped" foreign policy, then the sooner the spokesmen of the party in Congress come out in the open to be heard on the subject, the more quickly will the electorate be able to form a judgment on what all the recent propaganda about a "new approach" in foreign policy really has behind it.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

There have been enough compromise bills in Congress this reluctant semester to elect a compromise candidate.

That's a fellow who's invited along to be the ants at another man's picnic.

A compromise bill is one that punches out the last hole in a Pennsylvania Avenue commutation ticket. It's been back and forth oftener than a waiter without a menu.

It's a bill that nobody wants and everybody votes for.

It's based on the hope it annoys the opposition more than it does you.

It's usually aimed at reform without extenuating circumstances.

And not since Henry Clay has one accomplished anymore than an idiot nailing shadows on a wall.

The last you usually hear of a compromise bill is it's back in subcommittee for another compromise.

Vulnerable Boom Town

By Joseph Alsop

KUWAIT, Persian Gulf

Here in Kuwait, the West's extreme vulnerability to the new Soviet flank attack in the Middle East is brought home with extreme vividness.

This tiny desert sheikdom at the head of the Persian Gulf is now little more than a vast oil well with a small town on top of it. Kuwait's oil output now substantially exceeds the combined output of Iran and Iraq. The famous "sweet crude" of the Kuwait wells now provides two-thirds of the oil fuel of the British Isles.

The 50 per cent of profits paid to the Sheik of Kuwait by the half British, half American Kuwait Oil Company currently amounts to about $260,000,000 a year, or rather more than $1,000 a year per head of the whole population of the sheikdom. And the people here are getting good pay, too, from the oil company and on all the construction and other projects that have been started by the influx of oil money.

Puts Broadway To Shame

In these circumstances, it is hardly surprising that Kuwait is a boom town. By Saudi Arabian standards, the ruling clan of Kuwait, the House of al-Subah, is distinctly restrained, yet the desert is dotted with their palaces which they like to illuminate by night in a way that puts Broadway to shame. With a lavish hand, the Sheik is also building schools, hospitals, new roads, water distillation plants and great numbers of houses for his people.

Even after all these expenditures, so much is left over that the British government thought it worth while to send the British ambassador in Washington, Sir Roger Makins, on special mission here when he was one of the top officials in the Foreign Office. Sir Roger's task was to persuade the Sheik of Kuwait to invest his reserve funds in London. The Sheik complied. Today his money is probably the biggest single sum of new capital annually available for investment in the sterling area.

In these circumstances, it is not surprising that the British regard the Persian Gulf sheikdoms, and especially Kuwait, as their hole card.

The entire population of the three oil producing sheikdoms, Kuwait, Bahrein, and Qatar, hardly amounts to more than 400,000 persons. But even if all the other Western positions in the Middle East crumble in the end under the pressure of the new Arab nationalism, spurred on and supported by the Soviets, the oil wells of these little sheikdoms can be made to meet Britain's and Western Europe's requirement for fuel — lifeblood for a long time to come.

If these grim circumstances ever arise, Britain will have to choose between holding the sheikdoms and surviving, and risking the loss of the sheikdoms and ending her career as a serious world power. The choice has already been made in London. The sheikdoms will be held, by naked force if necessary. The ugly war in Cyprus is being fought to make sure of a transit base for troops bound to this region.

The question is whether this British strategy of the hole card will really work. Certainly it will be difficult to execute. To be sure, there is little of the popular unrest in Kuwait that is creating such a problem in Bahrein. The house of al-Subah really rules its sheikdom, and with an iron hand. Most Kuwaitis are contented by the new prosperity, and for any who are known to be subversive, there is harsh and summary punishment.

Could Cause Trouble

But even the house of al-Subah will be anything but pleased by a military occupation, if this becomes necessary to protect the Kuwait oil source from the drive of nationalism in the rest of the Arab world. The trouble in Bahrein, in this event, would of course be even worse. Furthermore, if the Arab nationalist drive finally forces Britain to play her hole card, one can foresee all sorts of other very grave troubles, perhaps on the borders here, certainly at Suez, and quite probably at Aden.

The problem in the Middle East, therefore, is not just to prevent a new outbreak of Arab-Israeli fighting. The problem is to find a firm, united, imaginative and generous Anglo-American policy towards Arab nationalism which will frustrate the Soviet stategy and protect the oil source without recourse to desperate measures.

Food And Drug Protection Anniversary Coming Up

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

In June of this year, the United States Post Office Department will issue 100 million three-cent commemorative stamps in honor of Harvey W. Wiley. Dr. Wiley was one of America's great health crusaders and will be remembered always as the father of the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Every month we see evidence of his plan in action. The Food and Drug Administration, constantly on the alert, sends out monthly reports on shipments of foods they have seized as unfit for consumption. Most of these products had decomposed or were contaminated by insects or rodents after shipments or while in storage.

The act also guards against interstate shipment of unlabeled or misbranded medicines, hormones, and antiseptics and over the counter sale of barbituates, amphetamines, thyroid, and other potently dangerous drugs without a prescription. This is done with a staff of less than 1,000 employes.

The occasion for the new stamp is the golden anniversary of the passage of this law in 1906. 1938, cosmetics were added to the act. Before this protective law went into effect, unscruplous manufacturers could get away with murder; they felt no responsibility for the safety and purity of products they prepared and sold. State rules and regulations could not control interstate shipments hence the need for federal supervision.

The Food and Drug Department aims to establish high standards of safety and part of the program involves the proper and truthful labeling of products. This extra protection has helped the reputable manufacturer as well as the consumer. It has not hurt sales. Our food, drug, and cosmetics industries are among the biggest and most fabulous businesses. The annual food bill is in the neighborhood of 60 billion dollars; drugs, 4½ billion, and cosmetics, 1 billion.

It is up to this agency to regulate and inspect these products. They work with reliable manufacturers to insure the maintenance of our high standards and to strengthen the efficiency of the law at all levels of government.

Food regulations are as old as man. The ancient Hebrew dietary laws regarding pork are well known. In the middle ages, guilds were organized to prevent adulteration of foods. By 1900 all the states in the United States had pure food laws of some sort. Mass production brought new problems and the need for federal supervision became apparent.

Dr. Wiley was chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture in Washington from 1883 to 1912. He worked for 23 years to convince the American people of the benefits derived from such a program. Since the passage of the law the nation's health has prospered and the consumer has been protected.

TOMORROW: Cross-eyed children.

RENAL STONES

P. C. writes: Can kidney stones be diagnosed with a urine test?

REPLY

If a kidney stone should tear the lining of the renal tract, bleeding may occur. When blood is detected in the urine, the physician suspects kidney stone and suggests X-rays. But other lesions produce similar findings and in this respect, urinalysis is not a specific test for stones.

FOWL BALL

F. N. writes: I understand chickens are very allergic to cancer. Would you consider them spreaders of this disease?

REPLY

Poppycock. There's no need for you to worry if you appreciate how many of these birds are consnmed daily throughout the world.

ACHING ELBOW

T. C. writes: Can arthritis occur in the elbow?

REPLY

Yes, this is a frequent site of involvement.

PANICS IN TRAFFIC

E. O. writes: I'm 65 years old and become panicky when crossing the street if an impatient driver honks his horn. Is there any way to control my fear?

REPLY

This reaction is not unusual because when man and auto meet, man gets the worst of it. On the other hand, you may be an unusually high-strung or impatient pedestrian who becomes overly irritated by horn blowing and other trying situations. If this is so, and you cannot curb your annoyance, your physician may prescribe a tranquilizing agant to keep you on a more even keel.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

George Allen tells how a lawyer-friend accomplished the acquittal of a notorious moonshine salesman some years ago. The lawyer pointed dramatically at his bleary-eyed, crimson-beaked client and boomed, "Look at him, gentlemen of the jury. Can any one of you possibly believe that if this fellow ever got his hands on a bottle of hard likker he'd sell it?" The jury voted acquittal without leaving the box.

"What," asked the teacher in a Manhattan elementary school, "is a traffic light?" A knowing pupil answered, "It's a contraption they use to get you half way across Park Avenue in safety."

"What's this coat made of?" a lady asked the clerk who was waiting on her. "Broadtail," said the clerk. "Take it away!" screamed the lady. "My husband rather fancies himself as a comedian."

Angel Of Dienbienphu Deserves A Salute

The spectacle of the person cast by fate in a heroic role who makes a lifetime career out of his fame is only too familiar. These people believe, or at least try to make others believe, that the world owes them a living. But happily the stuff of heroes goes into such molds only occasionally.

Thoughts are directed along these lines by newspaper mention of a woman and a heroine who quietly adjusted her life when she was able to step out of the world spotlight. Remember Mlle. Genevieve de Galard-Terraube, the French nurse who in 1954 was "The Angel of Dienbienphu?" Her care of the wounded French soldiers in that two-month siege was one of the factors that kept world attention focused upon the fighting there.

Mlle. de Galard-Terraube was a much feted person upon her return to France. But it is suspected that she submitted to most of the fuss that was made over her only at the direction of her superiors in the French Air Force, in which at that time she was a lieutenant.

Somewhere in the months that followed — months in which her name gradually passed out of the news columns — she resigned from the French military service. This she did because in the Air Force she would have been unable to carry out a pledge she made to herself during the 1954 siege. It was then that she determined to dedicate her life to rehabilitation work among handicapped veterans.

Since last year Mlle. de Galard-Terraube has been training for that work in New York. Now, prepared to make good her pledge, she is returning to France.

The world saluted her in 1954. It should salute again this young woman who was able to keep her poise amid world acclaim and then quietly turn to the great humanitarian work to which she dedicated herself.

These Days

Planned Emigration

There has probably been no period in human history when so many persons have wanted to be elsewhere than where they happen to be. This has resulted in an enormous movement of human beings since the end of World War II. By the end of 1955, for instance, more than 400,000 Europeans had been assisted by the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration which had been created in 1951. There is a large migration within Soviet Russia to Siberia and a migration from Red China about which we know very little. These may be larger in numbers than the mass migration movements in Europe. At one time, it was believed that Chinese were being moved to the Karakum Desert near the Caspian Sea but there really is no authentic information on the subject.

The European problem is very serious due to overpopulation. Whereas during the first years after the war, most of the European migrants were refugees from either Hitler's or Stalin's terror, those who are presently involved in this problem are not so much refugees as families who seek to improve their economic and social status by moving from over-crowded to sparsely settled areas where the opportunities are better for hard workers. They are much like the pioneer stock that in the 17th and 18th centuries settled our own country. They are not city dwellers who are dispossessed, but people who go to areas that need additional population. Canada, for instance, is willing to take some 175,000 immigrants a year, while Australia is engaged in a conscious and systematic building of additional population of European origin to the amount of 100,000 a year. Australia learned, during the war, that it needs more population.

Countries such as Holland, Italy, and Greece have been overpopulated for long periods and have been sending migrants to North and South America and other continents. The value of the ICEM is that it makes it its business to know where people are wanted, what kinds are wanted in what places and where it is advantageous for particular individuals to go. And it helps them get there. Dutch farmers, for instance, are particularly welcomed in Canada, Australia and Brazil where farmers are needed and where these people fit well into local populations.

The Italian problem is a very serious one. About 10 per cent of the Italian labor force has been unemployed for several years which must mean political and social discontent. Italian migrants now find a special welcome in Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela and Chile. Some, of course, go to Canada and Australia. These Italian migrants are not only farmers, but semi-skilled workers who are needed for the building of industry. There is still an Italian migration into the United States, but it is larger to the South American countries where the opportunities are better. The demand for skilled artisans is great everywhere and those Italians who possess specific skills are very fortunate when they migrate from low wage to higher wage countries.

Therefore, vocational courses are being given to Italians who desire to migrate. They are also taught Portuguese, Spanish and English so that on arrival in a new country they are not altogether greenhorns. The principal objection to the immigrant is that as he is not adjustable to the conditions of his new country, he creates social problems.

The task of the ICEM and of national emigration bureaus is to assist the proposed migrant to prepare himself linguistically and socially for his new environment in advance of leaving his old one, so that he becomes more assimilable and adjustable and therefore is not offensive. This is a constructive program of which too little is known.

The problem in Greece is also one of unemployment and of frightfully low wages. Greece was hit unusually hard by the war and its high birth-rate gives it a larger population than it can find employment for. Greeks have found good work, in recent migrations, in Australia, Canada and Brazil. Whereas in the United States, we think of the Greek as a semi-skilled worker in the food business, such as restaurants and markets, actually he is a splendid farmer and shepherd, and he readily adjusts to new environments. This type of immigrant is particularly desired in Australia which has large unpopulated areas that can only be developed by courageous and energetic pioneers.

Senator Symington of Missouri, Democrat——a potential candidate of the presidency on his own—complains that the Eisenhower administration isn't providing adequate armament, and is endeavoring to show that enough money isn't being spent on air power.

One wing of the Democratic party—which might be called the group favoring a "giveaway of money without strings"—insists that the United States isn't revamping its foreign-aid program to meet the "Soviet economic threat."

Stevenson "Appeasement" Group

Another group—which by some will be called the militaristic group—wants more emphasis on military power as "deterrent" and argues that the United States is being outstripped in the building of long-range bombers that carry H-bombs.

Still a third point of view appears to be held by intimate advisers of Adlai Stevenson. This is the "appeasement" group, which would acquiesce in the admission of Red China to the U. N. and also would abandon to their fate the suppressed peoples in the satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain.

The principal architects of this policy apparently are relying on the advice of George Kennan, former ambassador to Soviet Russia, who was the head of the State Department's policy planning board under the Truman administration. Mr. Kennan had his picture in the New York Times the other day as one of a group of advisers behind the Stevenson campaign. On another page in the same issue was a dispatch by James Reston, who reported that Mr. Kennan is privately circulating a paper on foreign policy with many provocative statements in it. On the subject of the Soviet satellites, Mr. Kennan is represented as saying that, while he condemns the "hideous injustices" committed by the Soviet Union in Eastern Europe, "there is a finality, for better or for worse, about what has occurred in Eastern Europe."

This is exactly what the refugees from the Iron Curtain countries have feared most—namely, that makers of American foreign policy might be prevailed upon to accept the "status quo" in Eastern Europe. Mr. Kennan is reported, moreover, to hold that it is no service to the satellites to encourage them to believe that they can return and pick up where they left off, ten or twenty years ago.

Would Lose Votes

Such an attitude would be regarded as manifest abandonment of the moral support hitherto given by the United States to the peoples of the Iron Curtain countries which aspire to regain their independence. Politically speaking, the Democratic party, if it accepts any such advice from Mr. Kennan, can be prepared to lose the votes of Poles, Czechs, Hungarians, Lithuanians, Estonians, Latvians and Bulgarians in some of the thickly populated wards of New York, Chicago, Cleveland and other cities where there is a strong bond of sympathy with the people who have been enslaved by the Communist dictatorship.

Mr. Kennan hints at an appeasement policy also for West Germany. He says:

"It seems to me that American policy should be aimed at the reunification of Germany and the earliest possible re-establishment of that country as a neutral factor that can blunt the sharp edge of military bipolarity in Europe and help, eventually, to mitigate the intensity of the conflict between East and West."

The Soviets, of course, want Germany to be neutral——that's the price they ask for consenting to unification. The West German leaders, however, say they want to remain in an alliance with the Western democracies. To make Germany a "neutral factor" means detachment of all of Germany from the West. If Mr. Stevenson wants to accept any such advice, he will find himself losing a lot of votes among the Americans in this country who don't want to see their kinsmen in Germany left to struggle alone with the Soviet aggressors.

Shouldn't Obstruct Red China

As for Red China, Mr. Kennan says he doesn't think admission of Red China into the U. N. should be supported by the United States itself but that this country, on the other hand, should not try to obstruct Red China's entry if the majority of the members of the U. N. want it. Any hint of lukewarmness by America toward Nationalist China will, of course, help to bring about a majority in the U. N. for Red China overnight.

If that's to be the Democratic party's contribution to a "revamped" foreign policy, then the sooner the spokesmen of the party in Congress come out in the open to be heard on the subject, the more quickly will the electorate be able to form a judgment on what all the recent propaganda about a "new approach" in foreign policy really has behind it.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

There have been enough compromise bills in Congress this reluctant semester to elect a compromise candidate.

That's a fellow who's invited along to be the ants at another man's picnic.

A compromise bill is one that punches out the last hole in a Pennsylvania Avenue commutation ticket. It's been back and forth oftener than a waiter without a menu.

It's a bill that nobody wants and everybody votes for.

It's based on the hope it annoys the opposition more than it does you.

It's usually aimed at reform without extenuating circumstances.

And not since Henry Clay has one accomplished anymore than an idiot nailing shadows on a wall.

Vulnerable Boom Town

By Joseph Alsop

KUWAIT, Persian Gulf

Here in Kuwait, the West's extreme vulnerability to the new Soviet flank attack in the Middle East is brought home with extreme vividness.

This tiny desert sheikdom at the head of the Persian Gulf is now little more than a vast oil well with a small town on top of it. Kuwait's oil output now substantially exceeds the combined output of Iran and Iraq. The famous "sweet crude" of the Kuwait wells now provides two-thirds of the oil fuel of the British Isles.

The 50 per cent of profits paid to the Sheik of Kuwait by the half British, half American Kuwait Oil Company currently amounts to about $260,000,000 a year, or rather more than $1,000 a year per head of the whole population of the sheikdom. And the people here are getting good pay, too, from the oil company and on all the construction and other projects that have been started by the influx of oil money.

Puts Broadway To Shame

In these circumstances, it is hardly surprising that Kuwait is a boom town. By Saudi Arabian standards, the ruling clan of Kuwait, the House of al-Subah, is distinctly restrained, yet the desert is dotted with their palaces which they like to illuminate by night in a way that puts Broadway to shame. With a lavish hand, the Sheik is also building schools, hospitals, new roads, water distillation plants and great numbers of houses for his people.

Even after all these expenditures, so much is left over that the British government thought it worth while to send the British ambassador in Washington, Sir Roger Makins, on special mission here when he was one of the top officials in the Foreign Office. Sir Roger's task was to persuade the Sheik of Kuwait to invest his reserve funds in London. The Sheik complied. Today his money is probably the biggest single sum of new capital annually available for investment in the sterling area.

In these circumstances, it is not surprising that the British regard the Persian Gulf sheikdoms, and especially Kuwait, as their hole card.

The entire population of the three oil producing sheikdoms, Kuwait, Bahrein, and Qatar, hardly amounts to more than 400,000 persons. But even if all the other Western positions in the Middle East crumble in the end under the pressure of the new Arab nationalism, spurred on and supported by the Soviets, the oil wells of these little sheikdoms can be made to meet Britain's and Western Europe's requirement for fuel — lifeblood for a long time to come.

If these grim circumstances ever arise, Britain will have to choose between holding the sheikdoms and surviving, and risking the loss of the sheikdoms and ending her career as a serious world power. The choice has already been made in London. The sheikdoms will be held, by naked force if necessary. The ugly war in Cyprus is being fought to make sure of a transit base for troops bound to this region.

The question is whether this British strategy of the hole card will really work. Certainly it will be difficult to execute. To be sure, there is little of the popular unrest in Kuwait that is creating such a problem in Bahrein. The house of al-Subah really rules its sheikdom, and with an iron hand. Most Kuwaitis are contented by the new prosperity, and for any who are known to be subversive, there is harsh and summary punishment.

Could Cause Trouble

But even the house of al-Subah will be anything but pleased by a military occupation, if this becomes necessary to protect the Kuwait oil source from the drive of nationalism in the rest of the Arab world. The trouble in Bahrein, in this event, would of course be even worse. Furthermore, if the Arab nationalist drive finally forces Britain to play her hole card, one can foresee all sorts of other very grave troubles, perhaps on the borders here, certainly at Suez, and quite probably at Aden.

The problem in the Middle East, therefore, is not just to prevent a new outbreak of Arab-Israeli fighting. The problem is to find a firm, united, imaginative and generous Anglo-American policy towards Arab nationalism which will frustrate the Soviet stategy and protect the oil source without recourse to desperate measures.

Food And Drug Protection Anniversary Coming Up

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

In June of this year, the United States Post Office Department will issue 100 million three-cent commemorative stamps in honor of Harvey W. Wiley. Dr. Wiley was one of America's great health crusaders and will be remembered always as the father of the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Every month we see evidence of his plan in action. The Food and Drug Administration, constantly on the alert, sends out monthly reports on shipments of foods they have seized as unfit for consumption. Most of these products had decomposed or were contaminated by insects or rodents after shipments or while in storage.

The act also guards against interstate shipment of unlabeled or misbranded medicines, hormones, and antiseptics and over the counter sale of barbituates, amphetamines, thyroid, and other potently dangerous drugs without a prescription. This is done with a staff of less than 1,000 employes.

The occasion for the new stamp is the golden anniversary of the passage of this law in 1906. 1938, cosmetics were added to the act. Before this protective law went into effect, unscruplous manufacturers could get away with murder; they felt no responsibility for the safety and purity of products they prepared and sold. State rules and regulations could not control interstate shipments hence the need for federal supervision.

The Food and Drug Department aims to establish high standards of safety and part of the program involves the proper and truthful labeling of products. This extra protection has helped the reputable manufacturer as well as the consumer. It has not hurt sales. Our food, drug, and cosmetics industries are among the biggest and most fabulous businesses. The annual food bill is in the neighborhood of 60 billion dollars; drugs, 4½ billion, and cosmetics, 1 billion.

It is up to this agency to regulate and inspect these products. They work with reliable manufacturers to insure the maintenance of our high standards and to strengthen the efficiency of the law at all levels of government.

Food regulations are as old as man. The ancient Hebrew dietary laws regarding pork are well known. In the middle ages, guilds were organized to prevent adulteration of foods. By 1900 all the states in the United States had pure food laws of some sort. Mass production brought new problems and the need for federal supervision became apparent.

Dr. Wiley was chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture in Washington from 1883 to 1912. He worked for 23 years to convince the American people of the benefits derived from such a program. Since the passage of the law the nation's health has prospered and the consumer has been protected.

TOMORROW: Cross-eyed children.

RENAL STONES

P. C. writes: Can kidney stones be diagnosed with a urine test?

REPLY

If a kidney stone should tear the lining of the renal tract, bleeding may occur. When blood is detected in the urine, the physician suspects kidney stone and suggests X-rays. But other lesions produce similar findings and in this respect, urinalysis is not a specific test for stones.

FOWL BALL

F. N. writes: I understand chickens are very allergic to cancer. Would you consider them spreaders of this disease?

REPLY

Poppycock. There's no need for you to worry if you appreciate how many of these birds are consnmed daily throughout the world.

ACHING ELBOW

T. C. writes: Can arthritis occur in the elbow?

REPLY

Yes, this is a frequent site of involvement.

PANICS IN TRAFFIC

E. O. writes: I'm 65 years old and become panicky when crossing the street if an impatient driver honks his horn. Is there any way to control my fear?

REPLY

This reaction is not unusual because when man and auto meet, man gets the worst of it. On the other hand, you may be an unusually high-strung or impatient pedestrian who becomes overly irritated by horn blowing and other trying situations. If this is so, and you cannot curb your annoyance, your physician may prescribe a tranquilizing agant to keep you on a more even keel.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

George Allen tells how a lawyer-friend accomplished the acquittal of a notorious moonshine salesman some years ago. The lawyer pointed dramatically at his bleary-eyed, crimson-beaked client and boomed, "Look at him, gentlemen of the jury. Can any one of you possibly believe that if this fellow ever got his hands on a bottle of hard likker he'd sell it?" The jury voted acquittal without leaving the box.

"What," asked the teacher in a Manhattan elementary school, "is a traffic light?" A knowing pupil answered, "It's a contraption they use to get you half way across Park Avenue in safety."

"What's this coat made of?" a lady asked the clerk who was waiting on her. "Broadtail," said the clerk. "Take it away!" screamed the lady. "My husband rather fancies himself as a comedian."

Strawberry Chiffon Cake

1½ teaspoons unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
3 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
⅛ cup lemon juice
1 (8-ounce) bakers' angel food cake
1 pint sliced, cleaned strawberries
⅛ cup confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind

Soften gelatin in cold water. Beat egg yolks slightly in a medium-sized saucepan and add sugar and lemon juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture coats the spoon. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Let cool until mixture just begins to thicken. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold them into custard. Cut the cake to form a shell by leaving a ½ inch outer rim and removing the top inside portion of the cake to half the depth of the cake itself. Spread part of the lemon chiffon mixture over the inside of the cake shell. Combine strawberries and confectioners' sugar and arrange them in cake shell, filling it to the top with berries. Spread remaining lemon chiffon mixture over top and sides of cake. Sprinkle grated lemon rind evenly over top of cake. Garnish bottom edgs of cake with remaining strawberry halves.

Yields: 8-10 servings.

Canned Luncheon Meat Varied Three Ways

Luncheon meat, versatile main dish from the canned food shelf, goes well with fruit garnishes. Here, the popular ready-to-serve meat may be styled and enjoyed three different ways with orange slices, an applesauce glaze or with spiced peaches.

Canned luncheon meat, the 12-ounce pack originated in 1937 and still the best selling canned meat, is easily varied with a fruit glaze or garnish. For example, since this canned meat is predominately pork, it is natural to combine it with applesauce. Delicately spiced applesauce glazes the meat during a short baking period, and the meat and fruit flavors offer an interesting flavor medley.

For two other serving variations, luncheon meat may be sliced and studded with orange slices or spiced peaches. The light fruit touch harmonizes excellently with the savory meat.

Each 12-ounce can of luncheon meat provides four generous servings.

Spiced Apple Glazed Luncheon Meat

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat
Whole cloves
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 can (1 pound) applesauce

Place meat in shallow pan. Score with sharp knife, making diagonal lines ¾ inch apart. Place a whole clove in the center of each square. Combine brown sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and vinegar in saucepan. Add applesauce; blend well; heat. Spoon part of applesauce mixture over scored meat loaf. Bake in moderate oven, (350° F.) 30 minutes. Heat remaining mixture and serve with loaf.

Yield: 4 servings.

Glazed Peach Luncheon Meat

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat
1 can (1 pound) cling peach slices
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar

Place meat in shallow pan; cut loaf into 6 slices about ½ inch from bottom. Drain peaches; reserve syrup. Place some of the peach slices between meat slices. Combine peach syrup, brown sugar and vinegar in saucepan. Bring to a boil; boil rapidly 2 minutes. Baste loaf with part of the syrup. Bake in a moderate oven, (350° F.) 30 minutes, basting occasionally. Add remaining peaches to remaining syrup; heat. Use to serve with loaf.

Yield: 4 servings.

Orange Glazed Luncheon Meat

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat
1 orange
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon flour
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons unsulphured molasses

Place meat in shallow pan, cut loaf into 6 slices about ½-inch from bottom. Cut peel from orange in circular motion removing white membrane with peel. Cut orange in 4 slices; halve; insert between meat slices. Dice remaining orange; reserve. Combine sugar, dry mustard and flour in saucepan; stir in orange juice, molasses, and diced orange. Bring to a boil; spoon over meat. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes, basting occasionally.

Yield: 4 servings.

Cherries Andaluz

For a light flavorful dessert, mix a cup of Bing cherries with raspberry gelatin, stirring in three tablespoons of dry Spanish sherry, either a fino or amontillado. Tastes even better than it looks.

The waters of the Rio Negro river in Argentina are inky black in color.

Fruit The Spanish Way

Fruit cocktails are delicious to start warm-weather meals, and nothing brings out the flavor of fresh diced fruits like Spanish sherry, either a medium amontillado or sweeter oloroso. A tablespoon of sherry for each cup of fruit is about right, and you might remember that this fruit mixture is marvelous on ice cream, for a party dessert.

Vegetable Soup For Sauces

Prepare tasty round steak Swiss style with vegetable soup so there's lots of extra "sauce." Scoop onto a platter of noodles and companion with spring garden touches of fresh asparagus in lemon butter and lettuce wedges perked with a zippy dressing.

If spring fever lures you to hammock and seed catalog or garden and hoe, here are some food suggestions that will deceive your family into believing you spent an inspired afternoon in the kitchen. They'll enjoy the deception!

Let your green thumb work at planting seeds in the spring sunshine and leave to packers of condensed soups the indoor chores of scrubbing, paring, chopping and cooking vegetables. They do it so well! In this round steak sauce (which comes highly recommended) condensed vegetable soup and a little sour cream give you a yummy taste of home-raised goodness. Cooking with vegetable soup adds that spring garden touch to many favorite foods. . . even round steak.

Swiss Steak Country Style

- 1½ pounds round steak
- ¼ cup flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash of black pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ½ cup water
- 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed vegetable soup
- ½ cup sour cream

Sprinkle steak with flour, salt and pepper; pound with a meat hammer or edge of saucer until flour is absorbed. Brown steak in butter; add water; cover and simmer until meat is tender—about 30 minutes. Pour in vegetable soup and sour cream; cover and cook about 10 minutes longer. 4 generous servings.

A lunch or snack time treat is awaiting you . . . in this tempting hot Vegburger.

Vegeburger Sandwich Filling

- 1 pound ground beef
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed vegetable soup
- 2 tablespoons ketchup
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- 8 buns, split and toasted

Brown beef and onion in skillet. Add soup, ketchup, mustard, black pepper. Simmer about 5 minutes to blend flavor. Serve on toasted buns. 8 servings.

Bubbles In Jelly

(a) If they are standing still, pan from which poured was not held close to top of jar or else jelly was poured slowly. Either way, air was trapped in the hot jelly. (b) If they are moving, jelly is spoiling. Try hot sealing next time!

Doubled Recipes Are Doublecrossing

Cook all jelly in small batches. Never increase the recipe supplied by the manufacturer of pectin. If making without added pectin, use no more than 8 cups juice to the batch; 5 or 6 are better.

Crab Bisque Andaluz

All soups taste better when a teaspoon of dry Spanish sherry is added to each bowl just before serving, but for something special for a party buffet, add half a cup of dry fino or a medium oloroso to a cup of crab meat. Let this stand for an hour, then blend cans of tomato and green pea soup with a can full of milk or light cream, half a teaspoon of paprika and a pinch of curry powder. Heat this mixture slowly, add the sherried crab meat, bring to a boil and serve at once.

Light As Sea Foam

Souffles can be satisfying as well as "feather light" when made with a can of rich, nourishing salmon. Minerals and vitamins abound in this food from the sea and can change an uninspired souffle into a fine flavored main dish. Add a dash of mace for a spicy touch and serve piping hot—right from the oven.

SALMON SOUFFLE

½ pound can salmon
⅓ cup butter
⅓ cup flour
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon onion salt
¼ teaspoon mace
Few grains pepper
2 eggs, separated

Drain salmon, save liquid. Flake into small pieces. Melt butter in saucepan; stir in flour. Add milk, onion salt, mace, pepper and salmon liquid. Stir and cook until thick and smooth. Add salmon and egg yolks, beat until well mixed. Beat egg whites until stiff, fold into salmon mixture. Place in ungreased 1½ quart casserole and bake at 325° for 1 hour. Makes 4-5 servings.

Super Salmonburgers

There's no doubt that the "burger" is here to stay. Salmonburgers achieve new glory when the filling includes grated cheese. Placed between buns with lettuce and a tomato slice, this is a good variation on an already popular salmon treat . . . the sandwich.

SALMONBURGERS DE LUXE

½ pound can salmon
½ cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup grated cheddar cheese
3 tablespoons salad dressing
¼ medium tomato
Lettuce
Butter

Drain salmon. Flake into bowl. Add cheese, celery, salad dressing, salt and mix together. Slice tomato crosswise into fourths. Slice rolls in half and toast if desired. Spread bottom half with butter, then with ¼ amount salmon mixture. Top with tomato slice, lettuce and top half of roll. Serve with pickles or olives. Makes 4 servings.

Butter As Flavor Carrier Needs Carton Protection

"Melt butter in top of double boiler or chafing dish . . ." so starts the smoothness and richness of Lobster Newburg and Chicken a la King. Where a sauce blends the flavors of a main dish and adds to its taste completeness, butter is certain to be in the picture.

Much of the quality of such main dishes as Lobster Newburg and Chicken a la King comes from the portion of butter which enriches them. Both the seafood and poultry ingredients are subtle and delicate of flavor and are highlighted rather than masked when butter is a seasoner.

Butter enriches. It also acts as a carrying agent to distribute the flavor of mushrooms or herbs sauteed in it to the last savored mouthful of a dish.

Since butter is a flavor carrier, it must be protected until time of use from stronger accented foods near it in the refrigerator. The paraffined carton plus foil or parchment inner-wrapped quarters has been developed as the most efficient and economical packaging.

If the lobster and chicken are ready cooked before starting the Newburg and a la King dishes, the sauces may be made and the dishes ready for serving within a matter of minutes.

Chicken a la King

½ cup (1 stick) butter
½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons flour
teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Ac'cent (monosodium glutamate)
1 cup chicken stock
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 cup evaporated milk
¼ cup diced pimiento
2 cups diced cooked chicken

Melt butter in top of double boiler or in chafing dish. Add mushrooms and cook about 5 minutes. Add flour, salt and Ac'cent; stir until blended. Add chicken stock, Hot sauce and evaporated milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add pimiento and chicken; heat. Serve on toast points, waffles or biscuits.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Lobster Newburg

6 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
⅛ cup light cream

Light As Sea Foam

Souffles can be satisfying as well as "feather light" when made with a can of rich, nourishing salmon. Minerals and vitamins abound in this food from the sea and can change an uninspired souffle into a fine flavored main dish. Add a dash of mace for a spicy touch and serve piping hot—right from the oven.

SALMON SOUFFLE

½ pound can salmon
⅓ cup butter
⅓ cup flour
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon onion salt
¼ teaspoon mace
Few grains pepper
2 eggs, separated

Drain salmon, save liquid. Flake into small pieces. Melt butter in saucepan; stir in flour. Add milk, onion salt, mace, pepper and salmon liquid. Stir and cook until thick and smooth. Add salmon and egg yolks, beat until well mixed. Beat egg whites until stiff, fold into salmon mixture. Place in ungreased 1½ quart casserole and bake at 325° for 1 hour. Makes 4-5 servings.

Super Salmonburgers

There's no doubt that the "burger" is here to stay. Salmonburgers achieve new glory when the filling includes grated cheese. Placed between buns with lettuce and a tomato slice, this is a good variation on an already popular salmon treat . . . the sandwich.

SALMONBURGERS DE LUXE

½ pound can salmon
½ cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup grated cheddar cheese
3 tablespoons salad dressing
¼ medium tomato
Lettuce
Butter

Drain salmon. Flake into bowl. Add cheese, celery, salad dressing, salt and mix together. Slice tomato crosswise into fourths. Slice rolls in half and toast if desired. Spread bottom half with butter, then with ¼ amount salmon mixture. Top with tomato slice, lettuce and top half of roll. Serve with pickles or olives. Makes 4 servings.

Butter As Flavor Carrier Needs Carton Protection

"Melt butter in top of double boiler or chafing dish . . ." so starts the smoothness and richness of Lobster Newburg and Chicken a la King. Where a sauce blends the flavors of a main dish and adds to its taste completeness, butter is certain to be in the picture.

Much of the quality of such main dishes as Lobster Newburg and Chicken a la King comes from the portion of butter which enriches them. Both the seafood and poultry ingredients are subtle and delicate of flavor and are highlighted rather than masked when butter is a seasoner.

Butter enriches. It also acts as a carrying agent to distribute the flavor of mushrooms or herbs sauteed in it to the last savored mouthful of a dish.

Since butter is a flavor carrier, it must be protected until time of use from stronger accented foods near it in the refrigerator. The paraffined carton plus foil or parchment inner-wrapped quarters has been developed as the most efficient and economical packaging.

If the lobster and chicken are ready cooked before starting the Newburg and a-la King dishes, the sauces may be made and the dishes ready for serving within a matter of minutes.

Chicken a la King

½ cup (1 stick) butter
½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons flour
teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Ac'cent (mono-sodium glutamate)
1 cup chicken stock
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 cup evaporated milk
¼ cup diced pimiento
2 cups diced cooked chicken

Melt butter in top of double boiler or in chafing dish. Add mushrooms and cook about 5 minutes. Add flour, salt and Ac'cent; stir until blended. Add chicken stock, Hot sauce and evaporated milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add pimiento and chicken; heat. Serve on toast points, waffles or biscuits.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Lobster Newburg

6 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
⅛ cup light cream
1 cup milk
3 cups cut-up cooked or canned lobster
2 egg yolks slightly beaten
2 tablespoons sherry

Melt butter in top of double boiler or in chafing dish. Add flour, dry mustard and nutmeg; stir to a smooth paste. Add light cream and milk; gradually stir into flour mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add lobster; heat. Just before serving combine beaten egg yolks and sherry; add and continue stirring until mixture is thickened slightly. Serve on toast points or in patty shells. YIELD: 6 servings.

Pineapple-Almond Angel Cake

½ cup drained crushed pineapple
¼ cup slivered toasted almonds
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 (8-ounce) bakers' angel food cake

Fold pineapple and almonds into whipped cream. Slice angel food cake horizontally into three equal-sized layers. Spread pineapple-almond mixture between layers and on top of cake. Chill until mixture is firm.

Note: Dessert may be refrigerated overnight.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Spanish Gingerbread

When hot gingerbread comes from the oven, sprinkle a tablespoon of Spanish sherry on it, either a sweet oloroso or drier amontillado, to add extra richness to its taste and aroma without adding calories.

When To Skim

Jellies and jams may be skimmed either before or after pouring. slow workers should skim before pouring. Fast workers may do it afterwards. A thin soup spoon is a good tool for skimming after pouring.

The western name of Formosa was given by Portuguese sailors who called it Ilha Formosa, or "beautiful island."

Smoked Shoulder Butt Good Buy For Small Family

One to four pounds of flavorful meat is yours when you buy a boneless smoked shoulder butt. Sometimes called a "cottage roll," the smoked butt is actually a nugget of ham-like flavored meat carved out of the pork shoulder. Cured and smoked like ham or bacon, the boneless butt is an excellent buy for small families, since it is available in sizes ranging in weight from one to four pounds.

Simmering is the best method of cooking the smoked shoulder butt, unless the meat is labeled "cooked, ready-to-eat" when you buy it. To simmer, cover the meat with hot water and add 1 medium onion, sliced, and a bay leaf. Cover and cook over low heat until meat is fork-tender, about 45 minutes per pound.

Slice the cooked smoked pork butt and serve hot with assorted vegetables, and a salad, for a thrifty but hearty meal, or cool the meat and use it to prepare the following recipe for sliced smoked pork butt with fruit sauce.

Sliced Smoked Pork Butt With Fruit Sauce

- 12 slices cooked smoked pork butt, ½ inch thick
- 6 slices canned pineapple
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup pineapple juice
- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch

Place 6 slices of meat in shallow baking dish. Arrange pineapple slices over meat and top with remaining cooked smoked pork butt slices. Simmer raisins in pineapple juice and water 10 minutes. Mix cornstarch with 2 tablespoons cold water, and stir into fruit juice. Continue cooking, stirring, until mixture is thickened and smooth. Pour sauce over meat and bake 20 minutes at 350° F. Serve each "sandwich" with sauce spooned over top. Six servings.

Thick slices of cooked smoked pork butt are sandwiched with pineapple for this luncheon or supper entree. Raisin sauce is baked with the "sandwiches," then spooned over individual servings. Serve with green beans in lemon twists, if you like.

New Ways With Old Favorites

Every homemaker likes to continue to please her family and friends with new ways of serving old favorites. High up on the list of popular foods are kraut and frankfurters. This pair is so versatile that there's no need to follow the same old methods of preparation. For instance, you might like to follow these recipes.

HOME-STYLE KRAUT AND FRANKFURTERS

(Makes 6 servings)

- 2 slices bacon
- 3 medium-sized onions, thinly sliced
- 1 large green pepper, sliced
- frankfurters, cut in 2-inch pieces
- 1 12-ounce can whole-kernel corn
- ½ teaspoon sage
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 No. 2½ can sauerkraut

Pan-fry bacon until crisp. Drain on absorbent paper and crumble. Cook onions, green pepper and frankfurters in bacon drippings until onions are tended. Add remaining ingredients and cook, covered, over low heat 20 minutes.

KRAUTFURTER ORANGE CASSEROLE

(Makes 4-6 servings)

- 1 No. 2½ ean sauerkraut
- 2 cups finely diced apples
- ¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- ½ cup orange juice
- 6 whole cloves
- 6-8 frankfurters

Combine kraut, apples, brown sugar, orange juice and cloves. Turn into 1½ - quart casserole. Bake, covered, in moderate oven (350°) 30-40 minutes, or until apples are tender. Top casserole with frankfurters; return to oven and bake, uncovered 15 minutes.

GIANT KRAUTFURTER

(Makes 4 servings)

- 1 No. 2 can sauerkraut
- ½ cup chopped onions
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 4 frankfurters, sliced lengthwise
- 1 medium-sized loaf French bread
- Prepared mustard
- Mayonnaise
- 1 5-ounce jar pimiento-cheese spread
- 5 slices boiled ham

Combine sauerkraut, onions and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; cook over low heat 20 minutes. Add frankfurters and continue cooking 5 to 10 minutes, or until heated through. Meanwhile, slice bread into three lengthwise slices; spread each slice with remaining 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and thin layers of mustard and mayonnaise. Spread pimiento cheese on top slice and 1 side of middle slice; arrange ham on top slice of bread over cheese. Place cooked frankfurters on bottom slice of bread and arrange cooked sauerkraut over frankfurters. Put three slices together with cheese side of middle slice toward sauerkraut. Cut loaf into 4 crosswise pieces to serve.

Spanish Gingerbread

When hot gingerbread comes from the oven, sprinkle a tablespoon of Spanish sherry on it, either a sweet oloroso or drier amontillado, to add extra richness to its taste and aroma without adding calories.

When To Skim

Jellies and jams may be skimmed either before or after pouring. Slow workers should skim before pouring. Fast workers may do it afterwards. A thin soup spoon is a good tool for skimming after pouring.

Smoked Shoulder Butt Good Buy For Small Family

One to four pounds of flavorful meat is yours when you buy a boneless smoked shoulder butt. Sometimes called a "cottage roll," the smoked butt is actually a nugget of ham-like flavored meat carved out of the pork shoulder. Cured and smoked like ham or bacon, the boneless butt is an excellent buy for small families, since it is available in sizes ranging in weight from one to four pounds.

Simmering is the best method of cooking the smoked shoulder butt, unless the meat is labeled "cooked, ready-to-eat" when you buy it. To simmer, cover the meat with hot water and add 1 medium onion, sliced, and a bay leaf. Cover and cook over low heat until meat is fork-tender, about 45 minutes per pound.

Slice the cooked smoked pork butt and serve hot with assorted vegetables, and a salad, for a thrifty but hearty meal, or cool the meat and use it to prepare the following recipe for sliced smoked pork butt with fruit sauce.

Sliced Smoked Pork Butt With Fruit Sauce

- 12 slices cooked smoked pork butt, ½ inch thick
- 6 slices canned pineapple
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup pineapple juice
- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch

Place 6 slices of meat in shallow baking dish. Arrange pineapple slices over meat and top with remaining cooked smoked pork butt slices. Simmer raisins in pineapple juice and water 10 minutes. Mix cornstarch with 2 tablespoons cold water, and stir into fruit juice. Continue cooking, stirring, until mixture is thickened and smooth. Pour sauce over meat and bake 20 minutes at 350° F. Serve each "sandwich" with sauce spooned over top. Six servings.

Thick slices of cooked smoked pork butt are sandwiched with pineapple for this luncheon or supper entree. Raisin sauce is baked with the "sandwiches," then spooned over individual servings. Serve with green beans in lemon twists, if you like.

New Ways With Old Favorites

Every homemaker likes to continue to please her family and friends with new ways of serving old favorites. High up on the list of popular foods are kraut and frankfurters. This pair is so versatile that there's no need to follow the same old methods of preparation. For instance, you might like to follow these recipes.

HOME-STYLE KRAUT AND FRANKFURTERS

(Makes 6 servings)

- 2 slices bacon
- 3 medium-sized onions, thinly sliced
- 1 large green pepper, sliced
- frankfurters, cut in 2-inch pieces
- 1 12-ounce can whole-kernel corn
- ½ teaspoon sage
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 No. 2½ can sauerkraut

KRAUTFURTER ORANGE CASSEROLE

(Makes 4-6 servings)

- 1 No. 2½ ean sauerkraut
- 2 cups finely diced apples
- ¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- ½ cup orange juice
- 6 whole cloves
- 6-8 frankfurters

Combine kraut, apples, brown sugar, orange juice and cloves. Turn into 1½ - quart casserole. Bake, covered, in moderate oven (350°) 30-40 minutes, or until apples are tender. Top casserole with frankfurters; return to oven and bake, uncovered 15 minutes.

GIANT KRAUTFURTER

(Makes 4 servings)

- 1 No. 2 can sauerkraut
- ½ cup chopped onions
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 4 frankfurters, sliced lengthwise
- 1 medium-sized loaf French bread
- Prepared mustard
- Mayonnaise
- 1 5-ounce jar pimiento-cheese spread
- 5 slices boiled ham

Combine sauerkraut, onions and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; cook over low heat 20 minutes. Add frankfurters and continue cooking 5 to 10 minutes, or until heated through. Meanwhile, slice bread into three lengthwise slices; spread each slice with remaining 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and thin layers of mustard and mayonnaise. Spread pimiento cheese on top slice and 1 side of middle slice; arrange ham on top slice of bread over cheese. Place cooked frankfurters on bottom slice of bread and arrange cooked sauerkraut over frankfurters. Put three slices together with cheese side of middle slice toward sauerkraut. Cut loaf into 4 crosswise pieces to serve.

Lonaconing Gets Main St. Traffic Light

Council Follows Mayor's Suggestion

LONACONING — A new traffic signal light has been installed at the intersection of Douglas Avenue and Main Street, in an effort to control excessive speeding in the community and facilitate the movement of traffic.

Mayor Virgil Alexander proposed to council several weeks ago that a light be placed at this point and suggested that council study the problem. After an investigation, councilmen concurred and the light was ordered.

Mayor Alexander had the light installed Wednesday, and as an added safety factor, had a control line run to the Good Will Volunteer Fire Company Hall where a switch was installed. The purpose of this control device, he explained, is to give firemen a chance to hold the light on the green signal so they can bring the truck safely onto Main Street, in the event of a fire call.

The mayor also observed that police are cautioning drivers who ignore or do not see the light. Until residents and others become aware that the light is installed and functioning, he said no arrests for ignoring it are contemplated. However, beginning Monday, the town police officers have been instructed to more rigidly enforce the ordinance governing the traffic signal.

Underwood - Mollohan Win Gubernatorial Nominations

Marland-Revercomb Opponents In Contest For US Senate Seat

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 10 (AP)—The uncertainty of a close primary race ended today, and 33-year-old Cecil H. Underwood of Sistersville emerged as the Republican nominee for governor of West Virginia.

And if any doubt remained about the contest for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, it was erased today as Gov. Marland's lead over another 33-year-old candidate, Atty. Gen. John G. Fox, grew to almost 13,000 votes.

Underwood, minority leader of the House of Delegates, will run in November against Rep. Robert H. Mollohan of Fairmont, the 1st District congressman. Mollohan came out well on top of the five-man contest for the Democratic nomination for governor in Tuesday's primary election.

Marland, who at 38 is completing a term as the youngest governor in state history, will face former Sen. Chapman Revercomb of Charleston, the GOP nominee, in the November general election. Each was the winner in a five-man primary scramble for the two-year unexpired U. S. Senate term of the late Harley M. Kilgore.

Underwood's main primary opponent, Charleston Mayor John T. Copenhaver, conceded defeat this morning. He wired his "congratulations and best wishes" to Underwood.

In a statement after his victory became definite, Underwood said, "I invite those who opposed my nomination to join hands as we prepare to wage the most aggressive campaign in the history of our state."

For Copenhaver, it was the second straight defeat in an attempt to win the Republican nomination for governor. Four years ago he ran second to the late Rush D. Holt in a four-man primary contest.

Associated Press tabulations of the top races that remained uncertain until today showed these results:

Republican for governor, 2,719 out of 2,810 precincts — Underwood, 93,633; Copenhaver, 88,879, and Millard A. Holliday, Sr., of Garten, 5,900.

Democrat for U. S. Senate, 2,710 precincts—Marland, 110,494; Fox 97,515; Byron B. Randolph of Clarksburg, 51,098; Walter G. Crichton, Jr., of Charleston, 24,841, and Joseph Arcuri of Fairmont, 10,395.

Candidates in a half-dozen other close statewide and congressional district races waited anxiously as results trickled in from the missing precincts that could tell the story.

AOH Auxiliary Has Election

FROSTBURG—The Ladies auxiliary of the AOH held their county convention last Sunday in St. Michael's School, Frostburg. Mrs. Catherine McKenzie, county president, was in charge of the meeting and reports were given by retiring officers.

The following county officers were elected to serve for a two year term: Miss Kathleen McDermott, Division 7, Mt. Savage, president; Miss Loretta Kenny, Division 6, Cumberland, first vice president; Mrs. Anna M. Bever, Division 7, Mt. Savage, recording secretary; Mrs. Nellie Fannon, Division 7, Mt. Savage, treasurer; Mrs. Genevieve Goldsworthy, chairlady of Irish history; Mrs. Mary C. Fannon, Division 7, Mt. Savage, chairlady of Catholic missions; Mrs. Mary Dickel, Division 7, Mt. Savage, Catholic action; Rev. Patrick J. Bradley, chaplain.

The new officers were installed by Mrs. Katherine McKenzie, retiring county president. Each division will send two delegates to the state convention in the Stafford Hotel, Baltimore, June 9 and 10.

Voters Elect Entirely New School Board

ROMNEY — The slate of candidates backed by a "Citizens Committee for Better Schools" emerged victorious in Tuesday's balloting for membership on the non-partisan Hampshire County Board of Education.

The trio, P. Cary Adams, Roscoe Tutwiler and Russell B. Oates, polled with 100 votes of each other, with the low man receiving some 500 votes more than the highest of the two incumbents.

Tutwiler received 2,394 votes; Oates, 2,347, and Adams, 2,325. John H. Houser, incumbent, received 1,828 votes; Dr. W. C. McDonald, 1,798, and I. Russell Pugh, incumbent, 1,709.

The school board election was a major issue in the Hampshire County campaign, with the Citizens Committee pledged to a program which called for replacement of the present superintendent of schools, A. Clinton Loy, and the "elimination of politics from school affairs."

Staggers Wins Nomination

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Democratic Rep. Harley O. Staggers was renominated for a fifth term in congress from West Virginia's Second District by a 3-1 margin, unofficial returns showed today, but his Republican opponent still had not been selected.

Staggers defeated Cyrus S. Kump of Elkins.

Returns from 441 of 465 precincts gave Staggers 32,746 votes to 9,865 for Kump.

On the Republican side Mrs. Davis Elkins of Morgantown, wife of the former U. S. Senator, led Bradley D. Nash of Harpers Ferry by 2,600 votes. A third candidate trailed.

With 359 precincts reporting the count was Mrs. Elkins 12,819, Nash 10,156 and James W. Poisal of Hedgesville, 2,124.

Underwood - Mollohan Win Gubernatorial Nominations

Marland-Revercomb Opponents In Contest For US Senate Seat

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 10 (AP)—The uncertainty of a close primary race ended today, and 33-year-old Cecil H. Underwood of Sistersville emerged as the Republican nominee for governor of West Virginia.

And if any doubt remained about the contest for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, it was erased today as Gov. Marland's lead over another 33-year-old candidate, Atty. Gen. John G. Fox, grew to almost 13,000 votes.

Underwood, minority leader of the House of Delegates, will run in November against Rep. Robert H. Mollohan of Fairmont, the 1st District congressman. Mollohan came out well on top of the five-man contest for the Democratic nomination for governor in Tuesday's primary election.

Marland, who at 38 is completing a term as the youngest governor in state history, will face former Sen. Chapman Revercomb of Charleston, the GOP nominee, in the November general election. Each was the winner in a five-man primary scramble for the two-year unexpired U. S. Senate term of the late Harley M. Kilgore.

Underwood's main primary opponent, Charleston Mayor John T. Copenhaver, conceded defeat this morning. He wired his "congratulations and best wishes" to Underwood.

In a statement after his victory became definite, Underwood said, "I invite those who opposed my nomination to join hands as we prepare to wage the most aggressive campaign in the history of our state."

For Copenhaver, it was the second straight defeat in an attempt to win the Republican nomination for governor. Four years ago he ran second to the late Rush D. Holt in a four-man primary contest.

Associated Press tabulations of the top races that remained uncertain until today showed these results:

Republican for governor, 2,719 out of 2,810 precincts — Underwood, 93,633; Copenhaver, 88,879, and Millard A. Holliday, Sr., of Garten, 5,900.

Democrat for U. S. Senate, 2,710 precincts—Marland, 110,494; Fox 97,515; Byron B. Randolph of Clarksburg, 51,098; Walter G. Crichton, Jr., of Charleston, 24,841, and Joseph Arcuri of Fairmont, 10,395.

Candidates in a half-dozen other close statewide and congressional district races waited anxiously as results trickled in from the missing precincts that could tell the story.

Some ancient peoples classed gloves as ornamentation and women were not allowed to wear them.

AOH Auxiliary Has Election

FROSTBURG—The Ladies auxiliary of the AOH held their county convention last Sunday in St. Michael's School, Frostburg. Mrs. Catherine McKenzie, county president, was in charge of the meeting and reports were given by retiring officers.

The following county officers were elected to serve for a two year term: Miss Kathleen McDermott, Division 7, Mt. Savage, president; Miss Loretta Kenny, Division 6, Cumberland, first vice president; Mrs. Anna M. Bever, Division 7, Mt. Savage, recording secretary; Mrs. Nellie Fannon, Division 7, Mt. Savage, treasurer; Mrs. Genevieve Goldsworthy, chairlady of Irish history; Mrs. Mary C. Fannon, Division 7, Mt. Savage, chairlady of Catholic missions; Mrs. Mary Dickel, Division 7, Mt. Savage, Catholic action; Rev. Patrick J. Bradley, chaplain.

The new officers were installed by Mrs. Katherine McKenzie, retiring county president. Each division will send two delegates to the state convention in the Stafford Hotel, Baltimore, June 9 and 10.

Voters Elect Entirely New School Board

ROMNEY — The slate of candidates backed by a "Citizens Committee for Better Schools" emerged victorious in Tuesday's balloting for membership on the non-partisan Hampshire County Board of Education.

The trio, P. Cary Adams, Roscoe Tutwiler and Russell B. Oates, polled with 100 votes of each other, with the low man receiving some 500 votes more than the highest of the two incumbents.

Tutwiler received 2,394 votes; Oates, 2,347, and Adams, 2,325. John H. Houser, incumbent, received 1,828 votes; Dr. W. C. McDonald, 1,798, and I. Russell Pugh, incumbent, 1,709.

The school board election was a major issue in the Hampshire County campaign, with the Citizens Committee pledged to a program which called for replacement of the present superintendent of schools, A. Clinton Loy, and the "elimination of politics from school affairs."

Staggers Wins Nomination

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Democratic Rep. Harley O. Staggers was renominated for a fifth term in congress from West Virginia's Second District by a 3-1 margin, unofficial returns showed today, but his Republican opponent still had not been selected.

Staggers defeated Cyrus S. Kump of Elkins.

Returns from 441 of 465 precincts gave Staggers 32,746 votes to 9,865 for Kump.

On the Republican side Mrs. Davis Elkins of Morgantown, wife of the former U. S. Senator, led Bradley D. Nash of Harpers Ferry by 2,600 votes. A third candidate trailed.

With 359 precincts reporting the count was Mrs. Elkins 12,819, Nash 10,156 and James W. Poisal of Hedgesville, 2,124.

Stock Market Suffers Its Worst Setback In Month

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—A sharp break in the afternoon sent the Stock Market today into its worst decline on average since April 10.

Prices of leading issues skidded from around 1 to 5 points a share. A slight tendency to recover was shown near the close, bringing some stocks above their worst for the day.

The performance disappointed the bullish element of Wall Street who had hoped that the industrials might confirm yesterday's rise by the rails which sent that average to its best in history.

While the sell-off was concentrated on the higher-priced blue chips the decline affected all major divisions of the list.

A feeling of bearishness spread after General Motors announced it would close all of its auto assembly plants for one day tomorrow. News that Chrysler would idle 6,500 workers also was depressing, despite the general flow of good news about many businesses and the economy in general.

The Associated Press Average of 60 stocks fell $2.50 to $187.90, the sharpest dip since April 10 when the average dropped $2.60. The industrial component was off $3.50, the rails $2.90 and the utilities 30 cents.

With 1,229 issues traded the market was broader than yesterday's. There were 232 advances and 808 declines. New highs totaled 42 and new lows 58.

Volume swelled to 2,850,000 shares compared with 2,550,000 yesterday.

British Captain Dismissed; Made Recruit Lick Foot

SHREWSBURY, England, May 10 (AP)—A British army captain was dismissed from the service this week after a court-martial heard testimony that he made a recruit lick his foot.

Capt. Dennis Merrick John, 27, of the Royal Artillery Training Regiment, pleaded guilty to a charge of behaving in a scandalous manner. The sentence is subject to confirmation.

The prosecution said the offense took place at Park Hill Camp at Oswestry. Soldiers were undergoing 10 weeks of basic training. The prosecution said John was annoyed because he found one soldier with dirty feet.

Stock Market Suffers Its Worst Setback In Month

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP)—A sharp break in the afternoon sent the Stock Market today into its worst decline on average since April 10.

Prices of leading issues skidded from around 1 to 5 points a share. A slight tendency to recover was shown near the close, bringing some stocks above their worst for the day.

The performance disappointed the bullish element of Wall Street who had hoped that the industrials might confirm yesterday's rise by the rails which sent that average to its best in history.

While the sell-off was concentrated on the higher-priced blue chips the decline affected all major divisions of the list.

A feeling of bearishness spread after General Motors announced it would close all of its auto assembly plants for one day tomorrow. News that Chrysler would idle 6,500 workers also was depressing, despite the general flow of good news about many businesses and the economy in general.

The Associated Press Average of 60 stocks fell $2.50 to $187.90, the sharpest dip since April 10 when the average dropped $2.60. The industrial component was off $3.50, the rails $2.90 and the utilities 30 cents.

With 1,229 issues traded the market was broader than yesterday's. There were 232 advances and 808 declines. New highs totaled 42 and new lows 58.

Volume swelled to 2,850,000 shares compared with 2,550,000 yesterday.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

ABOARD U.S.S. MT. McKINLEY, Eniwetok Proving Ground, May 10 (INS) — The other day on Parry Island we met an important target for the Russians in their propaganda attack on the United States as a colonial-minded nation. He is E. H. Nucker, a quiet-spoken and friendly Hoosier who is high commissioner of U.N.'s trust territory for this part of the world.

He makes you proud to be an American.

He is the undemanding Great White Father of 2,141 coral buttons flung over an ocean area just a bit larger than the United States. The population is 60,000, which would be a disappointing World Series crowd at the Cleveland stadium or a cause to fire the coach at Ohio State.

"These are old and wonderful peoples," Commissioner Nucker commented as we sat on the lanai of the waterside quarters of Rear Admiral Yall Hanlon, Joint Task Force Seven commander in charge of atomic Operation Redwing. "They survived domination by Spaniards, Germans and Japanese through the last century but managed to maintain their culture and their traditions. We'd hesitate to try to change them either. They've evolved ways of life that we ourselves haven't achieved as yet.

"We're wrestling with what to do about our aged people and we have great conferences on geriatrics and the role of senior citizen. Out here, the older a person grows the more revered and waited-upon he is. Age is prestige, wisdom, experience, rank. Literally, they bring their oldsters their slippers and see that they never want for anything. Isn't that better than social security?

"There is no despotism, no entrenched cruelty. On one of the islands the king insists that those leaving his presence crawl out backwards on all fours. But the people like the way he works for them. When they stop liking him they can vote him out of office almost instantly. This king was hit by a one man sit-down strike recently. A native refused to do his community work. As punishment he was banished to a neighboring treeless reef for the day, without food or water. He paddled back in late afternoon and went to work."

We asked Commissioner Nucker for additional contrasts between life in the U. S. and in the Marshall Islands.

"Well, let's take baby-sitting," he smiled.

"There is no need to hire a baby sitter out here. A four-year-old child looks after his two-year-old brother or sister. A six-year-old child looks to the safety of the four-year-old who is looking to the safety of the two-year-old. And so it goes up the line to, let's say, sixteen. A sixteen-year-old would be in complete charge of everything. They do it without pay, as I say, and without television, and without lock and key."

We asked about the plight, as we had come to call it, of King Juda and his people, who once lived on Bikini before being bodily removed by the U. S. to make way for its atomic fireworks. Juda, when last heard from, was said to be hopping mad. Commissioner Nucker shook his head. "The new island suits Juda and his people fine," he said.

"I was talking to him day before yesterday and he put in a big order for taro roots. He's laying out whole new groves of cocoanut."

Through Nucker, U.N. has brought to these people medicine, education, and inter-island airways, trade and a knowledge that the world is their friend. More than 9,000 of the 60,000 are in school. The Micronesians, who are about half Catholics and half Protestants, provide for the education of their children through the sixth grade. U.N. will take them on from there as far as they want to go. Leprosy, elephantiasis, beri-beri and other old diseases have been wiped out. T.B., the present No. 1 killer, is being assaulted. There is no cancer.

"They've learned one other thing," Nucker said thoughtfully, as he looked across the blue lagoon at some of the fantastic gear of the H-bomb era. "They gave up war before you were born."

On The Line

by Bob Considine

ABOARD U.S.S. MT. McKINLEY, Eniwetok Proving Ground, May 10 (INS) — The other day on Parry Island we met an important target for the Russians in their propaganda attack on the United States as a colonial-minded nation. He is E. H. Nucker, a quiet-spoken and friendly Hoosier who is high commissioner of U.N.'s trust territory for this part of the world.

He makes you proud to be an American.

He is the undemanding Great White Father of 2,141 coral buttons flung over an ocean area just a bit larger than the United States. The population is 60,000, which would be a disappointing World Series crowd at the Cleveland stadium or a cause to fire the coach at Ohio State.

"These are old and wonderful peoples," Commissioner Nucker commented as we sat on the lanai of the waterside quarters of Rear Admiral Yall Hanlon, Joint Task Force Seven commander in charge of atomic Operation Redwing. "They survived domination by Spaniards, Germans and Japanese through the last century but managed to maintain their culture and their traditions. We'd hesitate to try to change them either. They've evolved ways of life that we ourselves haven't achieved as yet.

"We're wrestling with what to do about our aged people and we have great conferences on geriatrics and the role of senior citizen. Out here, the older a person grows the more revered and waited-upon he is. Age is prestige, wisdom, experience, rank. Literally, they bring their oldsters their slippers and see that they never want for anything. Isn't that better than social security?

"There is no despotism, no entrenched cruelty. On one of the islands the king insists that those leaving his presence crawl out backwards on all fours. But the people like the way he works for them. When they stop liking him they can vote him out of office almost instantly. This king was hit by a one man sit-down strike recently. A native refused to do his community work. As punishment he was banished to a neighboring treeless reef for the day, without food or water. He paddled back in late afternoon and went to work."

We asked Commissioner Nucker for additional contrasts between life in the U. S. and in the Marshall Islands.

"Well, let's take baby-sitting," he smiled.

"There is no need to hire a baby sitter out here. A four-year-old child looks after his two-year-old brother or sister. A sixteen-year-old would be in complete charge of everything. They do it without pay, as I say, and without television, and without lock and key."

We asked about the plight, as we had come to call it, of King Juda and his people, who once lived on Bikini before being bodily removed by the U. S. to make way for its atomic fireworks. Juda, when last heard from, was said to be hopping mad. Commissioner Nucker shook his head. "The new island suits Juda and his people fine," he said.

"I was talking to him day before yesterday and he put in a big order for taro roots. He's laying out whole new groves of cocoanut."

Through Nucker, U.N. has brought to these people medicine, education, and inter-island airways, trade and a knowledge that the world is their friend. More than 9,000 of the 60,000 are in school. The Micronesians, who are about half Catholics and half Protestants, provide for the education of their children through the sixth grade. U.N. will take them on from there as far as they want to go. Bob Lemon Handcuffs Yankees As Indians Win, 7-2

Cleveland Ace Chalks Up 4th Win Of Season

McDermott Beaten In "Rubber" Game; Tribe In 2nd Place

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — Bob Lemon, who failed to pitch a complete game in any of his six starts against New York last year handcuffed the Yankees with eight hits today as the Cleveland Indians captured the rubber of the three-game series 7-2.

Bob Lemon

Lemon not only went the distance for his fourth triumph against one defeat, but he would have had a shutout were it not for Mickey Mantle's 11th homer of the campaign in the sixth inning and Yogi Berra's 10th in the last inning.

Tribe In 2nd Place

The victory boosted the Indians past Boston into second place, two games behind the Yankees. It marked the first time the Yankees have dropped a series this year. They have had nine. The Indians, incidentally, were the only team to take the season's series from the Yankees last year.

The Indians made the utmost use of their eight hits that included a 450-foot triple by Al Rosen and doubles by Chico Carrasquel and Vic Wertz. Rosen, who had a single, walk and sacrifice fly in addition to his long clout, drove in two runs as did Wertz. Catcher Jim Hegan had a perfect afternoon at bat with a single and four straight bases on balls.

McDermott Is Loser

Mickey McDermott was the starter and loser for the Yankees. The slender southpaw, who defeated the Indians three times for Washington in 1955, hurled the first five innings and was rapped for five hits and four runs.

The Indians iced the game as early as the third when they took a 3-0 lead. Carrasquel started the rally with a double. Hegan scored him with a single and took second on the throw to the plate. Jim Busby's single sent Hegan home and Busby crossed the plate on Rosen's tremendous three-bagger over Mantle's head.

McDermott's wildness presented Cleveland with another run in the fifth. After McDermott had filled the bases with three walks, Rosen sent a long fly to Mantle, Hegan scoring after the catch. Tom Morgan held the Tribe runless through the sixth and seventh but Rip Coleman, who worked the last two innings, was hit for three runs in the ninth.

Mantle, Berra Connect

Lemon struck out five and walked two. He had a two-hit shutout with two out in the sixth when Mantle blasted a 415-foot four-bagger into the right center field bleachers. Berra's homer led off the Yankee ninth and extended his hitting streak through 12 games. Lemon was touched for two more hits in that inning, but he struck out pinch hitter Bob Cerv to end the game with a flourish.

Dow Finsterwald Leads In Tourney

ST. LOUIS, May 10 (AP) — Dow Finsterwald, a "johnny come lately" in pro golf circles, turned on a full head of steam today with a blistering seven-under-par 65 to take the first-day lead in the $25,000 St. Louis Open.

The 26-year-old Bedford Heights, Ohio, professional of only four years rammed in nine birdies and seven pars on the 6,277-yard windswept Sunset Country Club Course.

Jack Burke Jr., Masters champion from Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., held down the second spot in the fight for $5,000 first prize money, just two strokes behind at 67.

Woodling Has Case Of Mild Diabetes

NEW YORK, May 10—(INS)—Cleveland outfielder Gene Woodling entered a New York hospital today to receive treatment for what doctors described as a "mild case of diabetes."

The former Yankee player, who suffered from a kidney ailment last year, has complained of dizzy spells for the past two months.

A checkup April 30 revealed he had a slightly high sugar content in his blood but physicians said the ailment was caught in time and there was no danger it would shorten his career.

Keyser Beats Deaf Tossers By Score 13-4

Racks Up 13 Hits, Terry Maine Wins

KEYSER, May 10 — Keyser High School scored its ninth Potomac Valley Conference victory here today, defeating the West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney by the score of 13-4. Rain halted hostilities at the end of six innings.

Coach Fred "Tack" Clark's tossers made a sweep of the series, having won the first game by the score of 13-2.

Keyser pounded Johnny Popovich and Bill McCoy for 13 safeties, including a double and two singles by Joe Pezzanite and a triple and two-bagger by Bill Clevenger. Joe Taylor and Harold Wimer also garnered two hits.

Terry Maine, who replaced Bill Roy in the second inning after the Lions knotted the score at 3-3, was credited with the win. He yielded three hits in 4⅔ innings and struck out four. Moon accounted for two of the five hits credited to the visitors.

Keyser has won nine and lost two in the conference and is scheduled to play Southern at Oakland Friday. The Deaf now owns a 3-5 record in the P.V.C. Box:

Braves Rained Out 9th Time In 12 Days

MILWAUKEE, May 10 (AP) — A steady rain forced postponement of what was to have been a playoff of a previously rained out game between Milwaukee and St. Louis tonight and completed a mockery of the Braves' 13-game home stand.

It was the ninth rainout in 12 days and second in a row and prompted veteran baseball men like Manager Charlie Grimm of the Braves to comment, "I've never seen anything like it."

The Braves have played five games in the last 18 days, including one game of a washed out doubleheader with the Cardinals. Milwaukee had only two rainouts during the entire 1955 season.

Senator Williams Blasts Government-Lias Tieup

Declares "Racketeer" Hired At Wheeling Track For $35,000

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Del) complained in the Senate today that the government is operating a race track and has employed "a nationally known racketeer" as general manager at $35,000 a year.

Williams referred to Wheeling Downs, Wheeling, W. Va., which is in receivership as a result of government income tax claims of more than 2½ million dollars against William G. (Big Bill) Lias.

Williams said Lias has been classified by the Justice Department "as one of the nation's prominent racketeers," adding:

"I was very much surprised to find that they hired him at a salary of $35,000 per year to manage his own receivership."

Williams said Lias, former owner of Wheeling Downs, "states that he considers himself now an employe of the United States Government."

Gets $35,000 Salary

"If we assume such to be the case," Williams said, "it means that this former racketeer against whom the government has a 2½ million tax lien, would with his $35,000 annual salary be about the fourth highest paid employe on the federal payroll."

Lias' salary, Williams said, exceeds that of members of Congress and cabinet officers.

Williams said the Justice Department is seeking to deport Lias as an undesirable alien, and continued:

"Thus at the time Mr. Lias was appearing in court to defend himself against charges by the attorney general of being an undesirable alien he was drawing his $35,000 salary as manager of the receivership being operated by the same government.

"In other words, he was drawing $100 per day from the government while appearing in court answering these charges of being an undesirable alien."

Department Replies

In response to an inquiry about the arrangement at Wheeling Downs Race Track, the Justice Department said:

"It is not a government-operated project. It operates under a court-appointed receiver who is running the corporation to preserve the assets for the creditors."

The department noted that the receiver, Carl O. Schmidt, Wheeling attorney, was appointed by Judge Harry E. Watkins of the West Virginia Federal District Court.

Williams said George Lewis of San Anselmo, Calif., was employed to assist Lias in managing Wheeling Downs at a time Lewis was under a prison sentence for tax evasion. Williams said Lewis was placed in the Federal Correctional Institution at Terminal Island, Calif., Oct. 27, 1955, to serve a one-year sentence. He also was fined $24,000, Williams said.

Williams told the Senate Lewis left his job at Wheeling Downs Aug. 13, 1955, "a couple of weeks after I made inquiry of the Treasury Department about his employment."

He said the Treasury and Justice Departments disclaim responsibility on grounds that the receivers were named by the Federal Court and that the selection of the personnel was then the responsibility of the receivers.

Watkins Glen Will Hold Race Without Sanction Of SCCA

The Watkins Glen Grand Prix sports car race will be held at Watkins Glen, N. Y., Sept. 14-15 this year with the sanction of the Sports Car Club of America.

The Grand Prix committee said the fees asked by the club were "financially impossible to meet."

Henry Valenti, president of the committee, said the club asked a $2,000 fee, plus expenses of officials and all entry fees.

The Sports Car Club had announced last weekend that it withdrew sanction because the Grand Prix committee did not meet its requirements.

Bob Lemon Handcuffs Yankees As Indians Win, 7-2

Cleveland Ace Chalks Up 4th Win Of Season

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, May 10 (AP) — Bob Lemon, who failed to pitch a complete game in any of his six starts against New York last year handcuffed the Yankees with eight hits today as the Cleveland Indians captured the rubber of the three-game series 7-2.

Bob Lemon

Lemon not only went the distance for his fourth triumph against one defeat, but he would have had a shutout were it not for Mickey Mantle's 11th homer of the campaign in the sixth inning and Yogi Berra's 10th in the last inning.

Tribe In 2nd Place

The victory boosted the Indians past Boston into second place, two games behind the Yankees. It marked the first time the Yankees have dropped a series this year. They have had nine. The Indians, incidentally, were the only team to take the season's series from the Yankees last year.

The Indians made the utmost use of their eight hits that included a 450-foot triple by Al Rosen and doubles by Chico Carrasquel and Vic Wertz. Rosen, who had a single, walk and sacrifice fly in addition to his long clout, drove in two runs as did Wertz. Catcher Jim Hegan had a perfect afternoon at bat with a single and four straight bases on balls.

McDermott Is Loser

Mickey McDermott was the starter and loser for the Yankees. The slender southpaw, who defeated the Indians three times for Washington in 1955, hurled the first five innings and was rapped for five hits and four runs.

The Indians iced the game as early as the third when they took a 3-0 lead. Carrasquel started the rally with a double. Hegan scored him with a single and took second on the throw to the plate. Jim Busby's single sent Hegan home and Busby crossed the plate on Rosen's tremendous three-bagger over Mantle's head.

McDermott's wildness presented Cleveland with another run in the fifth. After McDermott had filled the bases with three walks, Rosen sent a long fly to Mantle, Hegan scoring after the catch. Tom Morgan held the Tribe runless through the sixth and seventh but Rip Coleman, who worked the last two innings, was hit for three runs in the ninth.

Mantle, Berra Connect

Lemon struck out five and walked two. He had a two-hit shutout with two out in the sixth when Mantle blasted a 415-foot four-bagger into the right center field bleachers. Berra's homer led off the Yankee ninth and extended his hitting streak through 12 games. Lemon was touched for two more hits in that inning, but he struck out pinch hitter Bob Cerv to end the game with a flourish.

Capon Bridge Beats Romney

Sweeps Series, 5-4; Cooper's Hit Wins

CAPON BRIDGE, W. Va., May 10 — Coach Cliff Towles' Capon Bridge High School tossers captured Hampshire County baseball honors for the 1956 season today by sweeping their two-game series with Romney High School's Pioneers in a game played at Romney. The score was 5-4.

Capon Bridge defeated Romney by the score of 6-3 in the series opener.

With the score knotted at 3-3, Capon Bridge sewed it up in the fifth inning when Jack Grapes walked, Allen Thorne was hit by a pitched ball, Boyd Crouse sacrificed and Daniel Cooper smacked a timely double to drive in two runs.

John McCauley registered his third straight win to make his record 3-1 for the season. He fanned eight and issued only one pass. Romney outhit the winners, 9 to 6. Harlan Liller was charged with the loss. Box:

Woodling Has Case Of Mild Diabetes

NEW YORK, May 10—(INS)—Cleveland outfielder Gene Woodling entered a New York hospital today to receive treatment for what doctors described as a "mild case of diabetes."

The former Yankee player, who suffered from a kidney ailment last year, has complained of dizzy spells for the past two months.

A checkup April 30 revealed he had a slightly high sugar content in his blood but physicians said the ailment was caught in time and there was no danger it would shorten his career.

KEYSER, May 10 — Keyser High School scored its ninth Potomac Valley Conference victory here today, defeating the West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney by the score of 13-4. Rain halted hostilities at the end of six innings.

Coach Fred "Tack" Clark's tossers made a sweep of the series, having won the first game by the score of 13-2.

Keyser pounded Johnny Popovich and Bill McCoy for 13 safeties, including a double and two singles by Joe Pezzanite and a triple and two-bagger by Bill Clevenger. Joe Taylor and Harold Wimer also garnered two hits.

Terry Maine, who replaced Bill Roy in the second inning after the Lions knotted the score at 3-3, was credited with the win. He yielded three hits in 4⅔ innings and struck out four. Moon accounted for two of the five hits credited to the visitors.

Keyser has won nine and lost two in the conference and is scheduled to play Southern at Oakland Friday. The Deaf now owns a 3-5 record in the P.V.C. Box:

Braves Rained Out 9th Time In 12 Days

MILWAUKEE, May 10 (AP) — A steady rain forced postponement of what was to have been a play-off of a previously rained out game between Milwaukee and St. Louis tonight and completed a mockery of the Braves' 13-game home stand.

It was the ninth rainout in 12 days and second in a row and prompted veteran baseball men like Manager Charlie Grimm of the Braves to comment, "I've never seen anything like it."

The Braves have played five games in the last 18 days, including one game of a washed out doubleheader with the Cardinals. Milwaukee had only two rainouts during the entire 1955 season.

Senator Williams Blasts Government-Lias Tieup

Declares "Racketeer" Hired At Wheeling Track For $35,000

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Del) complained in the Senate today that the government is operating a race track and has employed "a nationally known racketeer" as general manager at $35,000 a year.

Williams referred to Wheeling Downs, Wheeling, W. Va., which is in receivership as a result of government income tax claims of more than 2½ million dollars against William G. (Big Bill) Lias.

Williams said Lias has been classified by the Justice Department "as one of the nation's prominent racketeers," adding:

"I was very much surprised to find that they hired him at a salary of $35,000 per year to manage his own receivership."

Williams said Lias, former owner of Wheeling Downs, "states that he considers himself now an employe of the United States Government."

Gets $35,000 Salary

"If we assume such to be the case," Williams said, "it means that this former racketeer against whom the government has a 2½ million tax lien, would with his $35,000 annual salary be about the fourth highest paid employe on the federal payroll."

Lias' salary, Williams said, exceeds that of members of Congress and cabinet officers.

Williams said the Justice Department is seeking to deport Lias as an undesirable alien, and continued:

"Thus at the time Mr. Lias was appearing in court to defend himself against charges by the attorney general of being an undesirable alien he was drawing his $35,000 salary as manager of the receivership being operated by the same government.

"In other words, he was drawing $100 per day from the government while appearing in court answering these charges of being an undesirable alien."

Department Replies

In response to an inquiry about the arrangement at Wheeling Downs Race Track, the Justice Department said:

"It is not a government-operated project. It operates under a court-appointed receiver who is running the corporation to preserve the assets for the creditors."

The department noted that the receiver, Carl O. Schmidt, Wheeling attorney, was appointed by Judge Harry E. Watkins of the West Virginia Federal District Court.

Williams said George Lewis of San Anselmo, Calif., was employed to assist Lias in managing Wheeling Downs at a time Lewis was under a prison sentence for tax evasion. Williams said Lewis was placed in the Federal Correctional Institution at Terminal Island, Calif., Oct. 27, 1955, to serve a one-year sentence. He also was fined $24,000, Williams said.

Williams told the Senate Lewis left his job at Wheeling Downs Aug. 13, 1955, "a couple of weeks after I made inquiry of the Treasury Department about his employment."

He said the Treasury and Justice Departments disclaim responsibility on grounds that the receivers were named by the Federal Court and that the selection of the personnel was then the responsibility of the receivers.

Watkins Glen Will Hold Race Without Sanction Of SCCA

The Watkins Glen Grand Prix sports car race will be held at Watkins Glen, N. Y., Sept. 14-15 this year with the sanction of the Sports Car Club of America.

The Grand Prix committee said the fees asked by the club were "financially impossible to meet."

Henry Valenti, president of the committee, said the club asked a $2,000 fee, plus expenses of officials and all entry fees.

The Sports Car Club had announced last weekend that it withdrew sanction because the Grand Prix committee did not meet its requirements.

LaSalle, Fort Hill Battle For City, Bi-State Lead Today

Three Teams Tied For Lead In City Race

Explorers Won 1st Game, 2-1; Sentinels Hosts In 3:30 Tilt

It's a battle for first place in the Bi-State Conference as well as the city race when the tossers of Fort Hill High School and LaSalle High School come to grips in the final game of their season series today at 3:30 o'clock at Fort Hill Field.

Both teams are on winning streaks, Fort Hill having reeled off six in a row while LaSalle has a five-game string.

At the present time LaSalle is setting the pace in the Bi-State Conference with an 8-1 record because it has played one more and won one more game than the Sentinels who trail with 7-1. Fort Hill could take over the leadership by winning today's game while on the other hand Coach George Geatz's Explorers can stay on top if they sweep the series. LaSalle beat Fort Hill on April 13 by the score of 2-1 with Lefty Bill Roberts gaining the decision over Jesse Markley.

Three Tied For Lead

The city race is now in a three-way tie, each of the schools owning 1-1 records. Today's winner will take over the undisputed leadership in the triangular race. Fort Hill holds a 10-0 decision over Allegany while the Campers handed LaSalle its only setback, 3-1.

Bill Roberts (1-1) or Regis Fair (2-0) will work on the firing line for the Explorers in today's game while Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh will rely on Jesse Markley who will be out to avenge the only defeat on his 1956 record. Jesse has won three conference games to date.

Three other Bi-State games are listed for today. Hyndman meets Valley High at Barton, Bruce's Bulldogs host Flintstone's Aggies in Westernport and Mt. Savage tackles the Beall High Mountaineers in Frostburg. All games are set for 3:30.

Elks Seek 5th In Row

Elk Garden High School will be shooting for its fifth consecutive Potomac Valley Conference victory when it meets the Franklin Panthers at Elk Garden this afternoon. The Elks own a 6-2 record.

Mathias is slated to play at Circleville in a conference game while Capon Bridge steps out of the league to engage the Paw Paw High Pirates on the latter's field. Capon beat Paw Paw by the score of 7-0 in the series opener.

Five Preakness Entries Arrive From Kentucky

BALTIMORE, May 10—(INS)—Mrs. Helen Kellogg's Cinderella colt, Come On Red, arrived at Pimlico today, bringing to five the number of Kentucky Derby runners on the grounds for the $100,000 Preakness a week from Saturday.

The large chestnut colt, who ran a surprising third to Needles and Fabius in the Derby last week, made the trip from Louisville in a private van. He will be taken out for his first gallop over the Pimlico track on Friday morning.

In the same barn with Come On Red at Pimlico are the California Hopefuls, Count Chic and No Regrets, which ran fourth and seventh respectively in the derby, and Calumet Farm's Fabius, which was given a light gallop today.

D & H Stables' Needles, the derby winner and favorite for the 80th running of the Preakness, is stabled in barn "A" because he is traveling with eight stablemates. Trainer Hugh Fontaine will send the son of Ponder to the track Friday morning for a gallop.

County Loop Teams Will Clash Today

Corriganville Boys Club will play at Stringtown and Melody Manor will meet Burkey's tossers at Kennell's Mill in County Softball League games scheduled for today at 6 o'clock.

The Post Playground softball team will play Wonder Bar today at 6 p. m. at Post Playground in a practice game.

Snead Posts 65 To Set Pace At White Sulphur

Fetchick Shoots 66, Isaacs 3rd With 67

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 10 (AP)—The old pro, Sam Snead, "made" only one putt today on the last hole and young Mike Fetchick missed one there by an inch to be the difference between them in the first round of the White Sulphur Open Golf Tourney.

Snead's 15-foot putt on the 18th gave him a birdie and a five-under par score of 65. Fetchick's 12-foot try hung on the tip of the cup and he had to be satisfied with second choice, a par and score of 66.

Jack Isaacs Third

Jack Isaacs, a well-known pro from Langley Field, Va., in the Middle Atlantic area and little known elsewhere, held third place with 67 among the 42 pros shooting for $10,000 in prizes during the four-day tournament.

Traffic was clogged at 69 with James Ferree of Winston-Salem, N. C., Gil Cavanaugh of Cedarhurst, New York, Vic Ghezzi of New York, Ed (Porky) Oliver of Boston, Skee Riegel of Ithan, Pa., and Henry Cotton of England, all getting in one under par.

The one-two standing of Snead and Fetchick provided a good example of the "old and young" in golf. The 44-year-old Snead has been banging golf balls around the nation-wide circuit since 1937. This is only the third season for Fetchick from Yonkers, N. Y., and it is one of his best so far.

The 33-year-old Fetchick has won the St. Petersburg open, finished runner-up in the Texas Open and third in the Caliente Open to be among the top money collectors this year so far.

This is Snead's home course. It was lengthened this year from 6,368 to 6,478 yards which he admitted doesn't hurt the strongest part of his game, the long shots.

Snead is trying for the fourth victory before his home fans. Besides winning three straight 1952-54, he has been runner-up twice. He is the pro here at this resort town.

Auto Racer Hurt, Car Hits Wall

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10 (INS)—Rookie driver Marvin Pifer of Adrian, Mich., was injured seriously today when his car went out of control on the northwest turn of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway during a practice run.

The car spun almost 900 feet to the northwest turn before it crashed against a retaining wall. It was traveling at an estimated speed of 133 miles per hour.

Pifer suffered head injuries and he was taken unconscious to Methodist Hospital where he was x-rayed.

Pifer was working out for competition in the annual 500-mile race at the speedway Memorial Day, May 30.

Kell, Minoso Homers Beat Red Sox, 2-1

Keegan Relief Star In Chisox Victory

BOSTON, May 10 (AP)—Home runs by George Kell and Minnie Minoso and outstanding long-term relief pitching by Bob Keegan snapped a five-game losing streak for Chicago today as the White Sox edged Boston 2-1.

Kell's strategy-spoiling drive into the left field nets in the seventh inning settled a 1-1 deadlock which had persisted since the first.

Righthander Keegan, holding a 9-4 lifetime record over Boston, was waved in from the bullpen with one out and the bases loaded in the first. Jim Piersall grounded his first pitch into a double play.

In the 8 2-3 innings he worked, Keegan surrendered seven hits, struck out three and walked only one.

Parnell Is Loser

It was a bitter disappointment for Red Sox southpaw Mel Parnell who completed his first game since the summer of 1954. Injury-plagued Mel lost his eight-hitter via the home run route.

Keegan was especially tough down the stretch. With one out in the eighth Piersall doubled and foot-sore Ted Williams came out to pinchhit for Don Buddin.

After a long mound conference with Manager Marty Marion, Keegan got Ted on a high, routine fly to left and retired Sammy White the same way.

Kell, a former Red Sox employe, really wrecked the strategy in the seventh.

With one out, Nellie Fox beat out a hit behind second.

On the hit and run, Parnell sent Kell to the dirt with an inside pitch White grabbed and fired to second to nail Fox.

But Kell then promptly planted a 3-0 pitch into the screen.

Minoso skied a Parnell 3-1 pitch into the nets in the first with two out—his second home run of the season.

The White Sox two homers for the day compare with a total of six in their previous 14 outings.

Keegan To Rescue

Connie Johnson, Chicago's starter, didn't last long. With one out Billy Klaus walked, went to second on Faye Throneberry's single to right and scored on Dick Gernert's hit to left.

After Johnson walked Norm Zauchin to fill the bases, Keegan was summoned.

Simpson Is Tried At Charles Town

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., May 10 (AP)—A jury deliberated only 20 minutes today before acquitting a stablehead of arson charges after he testified he hadn't knowingly given the confession introduced as evidence against him.

Douglas Lee Simpson, 33, of Purcellville, Va., was charged with arson and attempted arson in a fire which caused only minor damage March 29 in a horse barn at the Charles Town race track.

In the alleged confession introduced by the prosecution, Simpson was quoted as telling a representative of the State Fire Marshal that he set the fire because of a grudge against a man he worked for.

Simpson testified he knew nothing of the confession and his attorney said the admissions were obtained while the stablehand was intoxicated.

The fire was confined to the empty stall where it broke out when another stablehand discovered it shortly after it began. There were 38 horses in the barn at the time.

Potomac State-Frosh Game Is Rained Out

Rain washed out the baseball game scheduled yesterday at Morgantown between Potomac State College and the West Virginia University Freshmen. The game has been cancelled.

Davis & Elkins College will be unable to play Potomac State at Keyser Saturday and an effort is being made to have the game rescheduled for Saturday, May 19.

Games with Alderson-Broaddus, Frostburg Teachers and D. & E. remain on the Catamounts' schedule.

Simpson Is Tried At Charles Town

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., May 10 (AP)—A jury deliberated only 20 minutes today before acquitting a stablehead of arson charges after he testified he hadn't knowingly given the confession introduced as evidence against him.

Douglas Lee Simpson, 33, of Purcellville, Va., was charged with arson and attempted arson in a fire which caused only minor damage March 29 in a horse barn at the Charles Town race track.

In the alleged confession introduced by the prosecution, Simpson was quoted as telling a representative of the State Fire Marshal that he set the fire because of a grudge against a man he worked for.

Simpson testified he knew nothing of the confession and his attorney said the admissions were obtained while the stablehand was intoxicated.

The fire was confined to the empty stall where it broke out when another stablehand discovered it shortly after it began. There were 38 horses in the barn at the time.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 10 (INS) — It's a surprise to hear that the Mario Lanza picture, "Golden Voice" has been called off at Warners, or it was as of today. Just what happened is being kept a secret but whatever it is, Mario is out of the picture.

As it was based on Lanza's life and tailored to fit his singing I can't imagine any other star stepping in.

Twenty-seven years ago I printed Adolph Menjou's list of the best dressed men of the year. This was the first of the "ten best" lists which have now become a regular thing.

I asked Adolph to name the ten best of 1955 and he comes up with: Jules Glaenzer, vice-president of Cartiers, New York; Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Windsor, Fred Astaire, Frank Sinatra, statesman Henry Cabot Lodge, Noel Coward, Cecil Beaton, British photographer and Senator Stuart Symington.

Not one of these was on his original list, but Douglas Fairbanks Sr. was included. In "The Ambassador's Daughter" Adolph has a chance to dress in the impeccable taste which has always been part of his stock in trade.

Barbara Britton's show "Wake Up, Darling" closed after a few days on Broadway. However, she isn't discouraged. She remains here Monday just long enough to pick up her little girl and then goes back to New York to do some mother-daughter commercials on TV.

Her husband, Dr. Eugene Czukor plans to close out his practice in Beverly Hills, and as soon as possible he and their son will follow Barbara to New York to make their home permanently.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Margaret O'Brien's mother, Mrs. Gladys O'Brien, who underwent surgery at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, goes home tomorrow.

Wonderful reports on the rushes of Susan Kohner in "The Last Dragon." She has been offered a term contract at 20th Century-Fox, but has decided against tying herself down.

The Jimmy Dean Porsche engine has been sold and the car is not on exhibition, according to competition motors.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 10 (INS) — It's a surprise to hear that the Mario Lanza picture, "Golden Voice" has been called off at Warners, or it was as of today. Just what happened is being kept a secret but whatever it is, Mario is out of the picture.

As it was based on Lanza's life and tailored to fit his singing I can't imagine any other star stepping in.

Twenty-seven years ago I printed Adolph Menjou's list of the best dressed men of the year. This was the first of the "ten best" lists which have now become a regular thing.

I asked Adolph to name the ten best of 1955 and he comes up with: Jules Glaenzer, vice-president of Cartiers, New York; Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Windsor, Fred Astaire, Frank Sinatra, statesman Henry Cabot Lodge, Noel Coward, Cecil Beaton, British photographer and Senator Stuart Symington.

Not one of these was on his original list, but Douglas Fairbanks Sr. was included. In "The Ambassador's Daughter" Adolph has a chance to dress in the impeccable taste which has always been part of his stock in trade.

Barbara Britton's show "Wake Up, Darling" closed after a few days on Broadway. However, she isn't discouraged. She remains here Monday just long enough to pick up her little girl and then goes back to New York to do some mother-daughter commercials on TV.

Her husband, Dr. Eugene Czukor plans to close out his practice in Beverly Hills, and as soon as possible he and their son will follow Barbara to New York to make their home permanently.

If anybody can make commercials attractive and fresh — it's Barbara. She is very good in those I've seen of her.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

There'll be wedding bells one of these days soon for Actress Barbara Darrow and Tom Tannenbaum, former mayor of Beverly Hills.

Donna Reed says Africa is a fascinating place with beautiful scenery, but after five months away from California home looks very good to her.

Margaret O'Brien's mother, Mrs. Gladys O'Brien, who underwent surgery at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, goes home tomorrow.

Wonderful reports on the rushes of Susan Kohner in "The Last Dragon." She has been offered a term contract at 20th Century-Fox, but has decided against tying herself down.

The Jimmy Dean Porsche engine has been sold and the car is not on exhibition, according to competition motors.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Coward In Cockney

I donned a dinner jacket Saturday night, considering this the only proper way to watch a Noel Coward vehicle, and then found myself watching the elegant Mr. Coward playing a middle class family man who was speaking something that was almost but not quite cockney. A nasty jar.

"This Happy Breed," which Mr. Coward wrote and acted in England in 1939, is a sort of lower case "Cavalcade" about "an ordinary Englishman in an ordinary English home in a.. ordinary English suburb," It opens with the Gibbons family moving into "the ordinary English house" in 1919 after Frank Gibbons (Mr. Coward) is "demobbed" from World War I. It ends 20 years later with England on the brink of another great war.

In between — the old Edna Ferber ingredients — there have been births and marriages and death in the family. The story line hovers fairly close to tears throughout, sometimes happy tears, sometimes unhappy ones. Mr. Coward has stated that his play could take place anywhere — South Orange, N. J., for instance — but I rather doubt this. The stiff upper lip is a peculiarly British institution. Not that they have any less courage in South Orange than in South London — but the words and the attitudes are quite different.

Coward, for example, plays a middle class Englishman who is thoroughly content with his class and rather opposed to change of any sort. "You know," he says at one point, "we're not used to doing things quickly in this country. We're a nation of gardeners — maybe slow, maybe a bit dull. But it suits us fine."

This is more or less the text of the sermon, and I doubt that you'd hear it said like that in South Orange. When his son develops disturbingly left-wing sympathies, Coward says soothingly: "You and me don't seem to see things the same way. . . After the war, this country suddenly got tired. It's up to us ordinary people to keep things steady." "Thanks, Dad," says the boy. I don't think that duologue would take place quite like that in South Orange either.

He is considerably less tolerant with a daughter who is dissatisfied with her lot. "You're trying to be something you're not," he snaps at her. Says the daughter: "You don't believe in bettering yourself, do you?" And, of course, he doesn't. The revolt against class is even more serious than revolt against government. And when the girl runs off with a married man, her mother (Edna Best) says quietly: "What she's done, she's done, and I'll never forgive her of it." British middle class respectability is a formidable thing.

But of course, she does forgive when the girl gives up her erring ways and marries the sailor who has loved her all along. A very effective scene it is, too, played way, way, way down. Understatement is something Coward does extremely well. The best scene in the play came when the Gibbons learn of the death in an automobile accident of their son. The couple are offstage in the garden when their daughter goes to tell them. The stage is empty, the radio blaring dance music. Then the couple come in, tearless and speechless, and simply sit down, hand in hand on the sofa. That's all.

All the performances by a predominatly British cast were excellent. Coward was astonishingly good in a sort of role I never thought I'd see him in. He and Miss Best first played together a generation ago in "The Constant Nymph" in 1924, and they are truly a marvelous team. As the wayward daughter, Patricia Cutts, who is normally seen here on the quiz show "Down You Go," revealed she should be doing more acting and less guessing.

At the end the Gibbons are departing the house which, with the children gone, is now much too large. There is a pram there, indicative of the continuity of the English middle class. And off camera Coward is quoting from "Richard II:" "This happy breed of men, this little world. . . . This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England"— sentiments you hardly ever hear in South Orange.

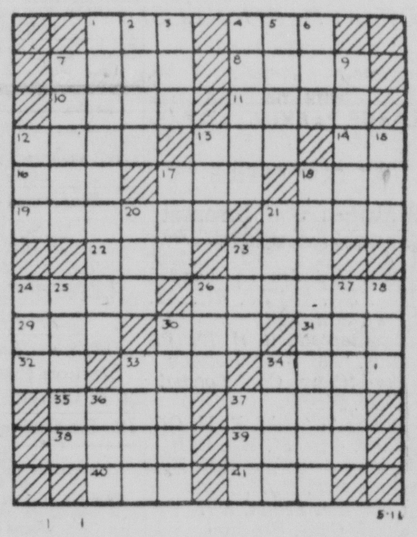
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Contract Bridge

Your right-hand opponent deals and bids one heart; neither side vulnerable. What do you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠ A K 8 4 3 ♥ J ♦ A 9 8 6 ♣ K 9 7
2. ♠ 9 2 ♥ 8 6 4 3 ♦ A Q 7 6 3 ♣ A 5
3. ♠ K 6 ♥ 9 ♦ A J 9 7 4 ♣ A Q 8 5 3
4. ♠ K Q 8 6 ♥ — ♦ A Q J 8 7 ♣ A K J 4

Q 1. Double. A bid of one spade would be incorrect. The overcall in the one level usually ranges between 7 and 13 points in high cards. In general, it denies having an opening bid. The chief purpose of the call is to inform partner that the overcaller has some limited bidding values which justify competing. When values in excess of an opening bid are held, the most usual way to compete is by means of an informatory double. This announces to partner that the doubler has an opening bid and requests the responder to name his best suit. It is important to distinguish between the simple overcall in the one level—which would be proper if we were lacking, say, the ace of diamonds in the hand under discussion—and the actual holding, which a one spade overcall would not correctly picture to partner.

Q 2. Pass. There is little to be gained by bidding, and much to be lost. There is a sharp distinction between the overcall made in the one level, which is a bid for seven tricks, and the overcall made in the two level, where eight tricks are being undertaken. The requirements for the bid in the two level differ radically from the overcall in the one level. The prime consideration is safety. This means the overcaller must be prepared for a business double by the next player without being subject to a penalty in excess of 500 points. For this reason the suit named must be a substantial one, either in high cards or strong intermediates. The number of winning tricks rather than the point count determines the safety of the overcall. Usually a hand justifying an overcall in the two level will rank as an opening bid of its own.

Q 3. Two diamonds. Although we have the high cards to warrant an informatory double, so much ground may be lost before the bid gets back to us that we might not have time or space to bid both minor suits. For bidding economy we therefore choose the overcall of two diamonds, which as indicated before shows a promising hand.

Q 4. Two hearts. The best plan of action is to make a cue bid of the opponent's suit. Partner should be notified immediately of the void in hearts, and that the hand is of such proportions that game must be reached. Adequate support for any suit named by responder is clearly implied. An informatory double will not nearly so well acquaint partner with the true size and shape of the hand.

Coward In Cockney

I donned a dinner jacket Saturday night, considering this the only proper way to watch a Noel Coward vehicle, and then found myself watching the elegant Mr. Coward playing a middle class family man who was speaking something that was almost but not quite cockney. A nasty jar.

"This Happy Breed," which Mr. Coward wrote and acted in England in 1939, is a sort of lower case "Cavalcade" about "an ordinary Englishman in an ordinary English home in a.. ordinary English suburb." It opens with the Gibbons family moving into "the ordinary English house" in 1919 after Frank Gibbons (Mr. Coward) is "demobbed" from World War I. It ends 20 years later with England on the brink of another great war.

In between — the old Edna Ferber ingredients — there have been births and marriages and death in the family. The story line hovers fairly close to tears throughout, sometimes happy tears, sometimes unhappy ones. Mr. Coward has stated that his play could take place anywhere — South Orange, N. J., for instance — but I rather doubt this. The stiff upper lip is a peculiarly British institution. Not that they have any less courage in South Orange than in South London — but the words and the attitudes are quite different.

Coward, for example, plays a middle class Englishman who is thoroughly content with his class and rather opposed to change of any sort. "You know," he says at one point, "we're not used to doing things quickly in this country. We're a nation of gardeners — maybe slow, maybe a bit dull. But it suits us fine."

This is more or less the text of the sermon, and I doubt that you'd hear it said like that in South Orange. When his son develops disturbingly left-wing sympathies, Coward says soothingly: "You and me don't seem to see things the same way. . . After the war, this country suddenly got tired. It's up to us ordinary people to keep things steady." "Thanks, Dad," says the boy. I don't think that duologue would take place quite like that in South Orange either.

He is considerably less tolerant with a daughter who is dissatisfied with her lot. "You're trying to be something you're not," he snaps at her. Says the daughter: "You don't believe in bettering yourself, do you?" And, of course, he doesn't. The revolt against class is even more serious than revolt against government. And when the girl runs off with a married man, her mother (Edna Best) says quietly: "What she's done, she's done, and I'll never forgive her of it." British middle class respectability is a formidable thing.

But of course, she does forgive when the girl gives up her erring ways and marries the sailor who has loved her all along. A very effective scene it is, too, played way, way, way down. Understatement is something Coward does extremely well. The best scene in the play came when the Gibbons learn of the death in an automobile accident of their son. The couple are offstage in the garden when their daughter goes to tell them. The stage is empty, the radio blaring dance music. Then the couple come in, tearless and speechless, and simply sit down, hand in hand on the sofa. That's all.

All the performances by a predominatly British cast were excellent. Coward was astonishingly good in a sort of role I never thought I'd see him in. He and Miss Best first played together a generation ago in "The Constant Nymph" in 1924, and they are truly a marvelous team. As the wayward daughter, Patricia Cutts, who is normally seen here on the quiz show "Down You Go," revealed she should be doing more acting and less guessing.

At the end the Gibbons are departing the house which, with the children gone, is now much too large. There is a pram there, indicative of the continuity of the English middle class. And off camera Coward is quoting from "Richard II:" "This happy breed of men, this little world. . . . This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England"— sentiments you hardly ever hear in South Orange.

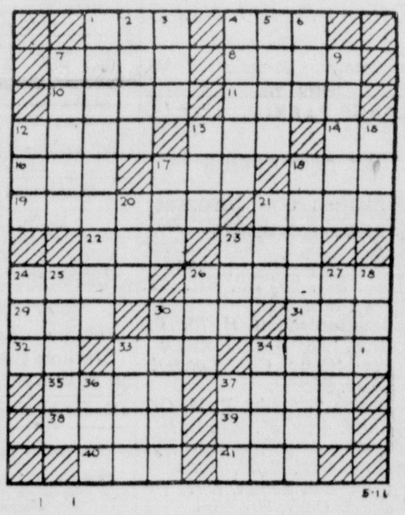
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

K A S K H S E Y F U A H S A M S V E U Q M W M Y W Z W M K A U, E Y S O E A M S K A L P R S K A V A H Q A M S L W Z W M S A U — M K H Q A M I A H U A.

Contract Bridge

Your right-hand opponent deals and bids one heart; neither side vulnerable. What do you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠ A K 8 4 3 ♥ J ♦ A 9 8 6 ♣ K 9 7
2. ♠ 9 2 ♥ 8 6 4 3 ♦ A Q 7 6 3 ♣ A 5
3. ♠ K 6 ♥ 9 ♦ A J 9 7 4 ♣ A Q 8 5 3
4. ♠ K Q 8 6 ♥ — ♦ A Q J 8 7 ♣ A K J 4

Q 1. Double. A bid of one spade would be incorrect. The overcall in the one level usually ranges between 7 and 13 points in high cards. In general, it denies having an opening bid. The chief purpose of the call is to inform partner that the overcaller has some limited bidding values which justify competing. When values in excess of an opening bid are held, the most usual way to compete is by means of an informatory double. This announces to partner that the doubler has an opening bid and requests the responder to name his best suit. It is important to distinguish between the simple overcall in the one level—which would be proper if we were lacking, say, the ace of diamonds in the hand under discussion—and the actual holding, which a one spade overcall would not correctly picture to partner.

Usually a hand justifying an overcall in the two level will rank as an opening bid of its own.

Q 3. Two diamonds. For bidding economy we therefore choose the overcall of two diamonds, which as indicated before shows a promising hand.

Voting Canvass Widens Tydings' Margin In Race

Mahoney Awaiting Further Checks

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP)—Millard E. Tydings took a tighter grip on the Democratic senatorial nomination today as the canvass of voting in last Monday's Maryland primary got under way.

Official checks of the tally sheets in two key subdivisions—Frederick County and Baltimore's Fifth Legislative District—seemed to confirm Tydings' victory over George P. Mahoney, Baltimore paving contractor.

However, Mahoney, who demanded recounts in two of his previous three unsuccessful bids for statewide office, said he would wait for further official checks of the voting. In the meantime, he made clear, there will be no concession.

Unit Vote Tied

Mahoney and Tydings were deadlocked 76-76 in nominating convention votes from the State's 23 counties and six Baltimore City legislative districts. The candidate winning the popular vote in any of these subdivisions receives all nominating unit votes of that subdivision.

The unit-vote winner gets the nomination, even though he may trail in popular votes. But in the event of a unit-vote tie, unprecedented before this primary, the nomination goes to the leader in popular votes.

Unofficial returns from all but one of the 1,277 polling places showed Tydings ahead in popular votes—142,449 to 134,123. But the vote was so close in Frederick County and the city's Fifth District that a slight change in either might give Mahoney seven more unit votes—and the nomination.

The official tally-sheet check in Frederick, however, showed the county went to Tydings by 2,174 to 1,973—a spread of 201 votes, compared with 170 in the unofficial returns.

Machines To Be Checked

In Baltimore's Fifth, a partial check of the sheets raised Tydings' margin by about 200.

Unofficial returns there had given him a lead of 406 votes—16,398 to 15,993.

Still to come in both Frederick County and the Fifth District was the check of tally-sheet figures against voting machine figures. Some Mahoney supporters still were hoping substantial errors might have been made in transcribing the figures from the machines onto the tally sheets.

"The count on the machines is what counts," said Mahoney.

"Mahoney for Senate" signs were still displayed at his two downtown Baltimore headquarters.

"Tydings for Senate" signs were removed from his Emerson Hotel headquarters and Tydings himself, expressing confidence the canvass would confirm his nomination, left for a brief vacation in Hot Springs, Va.

Shortly after his arrival there, Tydings learned of the Frederick developments by telephone.

The 66-year-old former senator, who served four straight terms before his 1950 defeat by Republican John Marshall Butler, said he planned to rest while the official canvass continued.

"I'm tired," he said, "and I'm not thinking of tally sheets or anything else except rest right now."

Win Safety Award

Two Crashes At Same Spot Cause Damage

Police Estimate About $2,000 Loss

Three automobiles, two trucks and a house at 627 Baltimore Avenue were damaged to the extent of some $2,000 in two separate accidents within a half hour of each other yesterday afternoon.

Only one driver, Bain A. Twigg, 75, of 475 Baltimore Avenue, complained of any injuries. Twigg said he had pains in his chest but he was released after dispensary treatment at Memorial Hospital.

Police Officers Ernest Powell and Richard Lashley were called about 4:20 p. m. yesterday to investigate the first accident. This occurred when the westbound automobile of Jacob Nelson Wilson, RFD 4, collided with Twigg's eastbound car in front of 625 Baltimore Avenue when their left front fenders met.

After that first impact, Twigg's car careened to the right, striking the parked car of Clara Davis Rice, which was sitting in front of her residence at 625 Baltimore Avenue. The rear of the parked car was forced onto the sidewalk, struck a hedge and partially smashed the porch on the residence of Mrs. Erwin Moore, 627 Baltimore Avenue.

While Officer Powell was investigating the first crash and Officer Lashley was directing traffic through the open lane on Baltimore Avenue, a jeep truck owned by the State Roads Commission, driven by Robert Louis Popp, RFD 2, rammed into the rear of a C&P Telephone Company westbound truck which had stopped in response to Officer Lashley's direction to allow eastbound traffic to proceed. Alvin K. Persons, 502 Baltimore Avenue, was driving the stopped truck.

Officers estimated damage to the Wilson and Twigg cars at $500 each, to the Rice car $400, to the Moore property some $300 to $400 and to the jeep truck about $200. Damage to the C&P truck was negligible.

Wilson, Twigg and Popp all were charged with reckless driving and are scheduled for hearing at 10 o'clock this morning in Trial Magistrates Court.

Former Cumberland Rabbi To Get Honorary Degree

His doctor of Divinity degree will be presented at ordination and commencement exercises Tuesday evening, June 5, in New York.

Rabbi Lefkowitz, who was ordained by the Jewish Institute of Religion in 1930, is widely known as a religious leader, an active worker in interfaith and intercultural activities, teacher and author.

Under his leadership, a series of interfaith activities including an annual Passover Seder for the Christian clergy, interfaith Thanksgiving services, and Clergy Club seminars, have been initiated.

He also is the author of several experimental services and cantatas.

Also receiving degrees will be New York Attorney General Jacob K. Javits, Dr. Emauel Gamoran, Jewish educator; Rabbi David Max Eichhorn and William Rosenbloom of New York, and Rabbi A. Alan Steinbach of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Official County Returns Change Totals For 8

Mahoney Has Net Loss Of 96 Votes

Changes in the total vote cast for eight of the 15 candidates listed on Monday's ballots resulted last night from the official canvass of Allegany County's vote by the County Board of Election Supervisors.

Some 17 mistakes in precinct totals were discovered as a result of last night's canvass but they did not change the standings of any of the candidates. The biggest losers were George P. Mahoney in the Democratic primary for U. S. Senate, who had a net loss of 96 votes, and Senator Estes Kefauver in the Democratic Presidential primary with a net loss of 84 votes.

The official totals, including eight absentee ballots, five of them Republican and three Democrat, are as follows:

Republicans:

PRESIDENT

Dwight D. Eisenhower	2,723
Uninstructed Delegation	168

John M. Butler	2,419
Earl E. Knepper	294
Henry J. Laque Jr	78

Democrats:

PRESIDENT

Estes Kefauver	2,839
Uninstructed Delegation	685

George P. Mahoney	2,648
Millard E. Tydings	2,070
Thomas L. Christian	67
George W. Williams	60
Andrew J. Easter	54

CONGRESS

John R. Foley	1,952
J. Grahame Walker	1,066
Robert W. Cremins	288

President Eisenhower made a gain of nine votes as a result of the official canvass, receiving 101 instead of 100 in 4-4 & 8, Johnson Heights School, and 92 rather than 84 in District 22-1, 22-2, 22-3 at the Armory. He also got the votes of all five of the servicemen who voted by absentee ballots.

The Republican uninstructed delegation total dropped two votes in the canvass. The changes included two rather than three in District 12 and 33 at Frostburg, none instead of one at 20-2 in Corriganville, six rather than 16 in 22-1, 22-2 and 22-3 at the Armory and 11 rather than one in 23-1, 2-2, 23- and 35 at Carver School.

Kefauver Gains Two

On the Democratic ballot Senator Kefauver picked up two votes—100 rather than 98, in 5-4 on Pulaski Street, but lost 86 at the Carver School precinct, where he received 116 instead of the reported 202. He received only one of the three absentee votes cast.

The Democratic uninstructed delegation gained three. This total picked up 10 from six to 16 in District 4-2 and 6, Virginia Avenue, lost nine from 32 to 23 in 20-2 and 15-2 in Lonaconing and picked up two, from eight to 10 at the Armory precinct.

Christian lost 20 of the 87 votes recorded for him unofficially when the canvass showed he got only four, not 24, on Columbia Street, District 5-1 and 5. Easter lost one, drawing a blank instead of one vote at the Armory.

Mahoney Takes Loss

There were changes in Mahoney's totals in three of the precincts. He gained at Mt. Royal School in 6-5, where he received 39 votes rather than 33, but lost two, from 32 to 30 at 10-2 and 15-2 in Lonaconing, and 100 at the Carver School precinct, where he received only 90 rather than the reported 190.

The only other change in the canvass added 10 votes to Foley's total when he was credited with 100 votes, not 90, in 8-1 at Westernport.

Tydings and Foley received all three of the Democratic votes among the absentees for their respective positions but Butler got only three of the five Republican votes. Each of Butler's opponents gained one absentee vote.

Swick Given Jail Term In Metal Thefts

One man was sentenced to six months in Allegany County Jail yesterday and two minors will be questioned today in connection with the theft of up to two tons of lead from the site of the city's sewage treatment plant.

Three men already have been held for grand jury action in other phases of the metal thefts from Moyer Brothers, contractors for the plant.

Eugene Paul Swick, 24, of 130 Humbird Street, was sentenced to the jail term on a petty larceny charge yesterday by Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

At a hearing before Magistrate Dick Tuesday, Swick pleaded guilty to the theft of 640 pounds of lead from B & O property here. The metal was melted down and sold to a Johnstown, Pa., firm for $76. The magistrate deferred sentence.

Later, the magistrate said, Swick told city police and the State's Attorney's Office the metal came from the Moyer Brothers Company here.

Swick Files Appeal

He said the sentence was imposed on the basis of facts presented at Tuesday's hearing, adding that the B & O is no longer involved but that the identity of the owner of a stolen article is not necessary on a petty larceny charge.

Had the value of the lead taken, and not the sale price, been the basis of the charge, officials said, the count would have been grand larceny.

Swick filed an appeal and was committed to the county jail in default of $1,500 bond.

Meanwhile, Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, said two juveniles will be brought to the State's Attorney's Office today and questioned in connection with the Swick part of the case.

Held For Jury

The case first developed when city police arrested Jacob E. Pryor, 34, of Gilmore, for the theft of 70 bars of lead valued at $240.

He waived a preliminary hearing Monday before Magistrate Dick and was ordered held for Grand Jury action and committed to the county jail in default of $2,000 bond.

The following day, Henry Miller and his brother, Herbert Hoover Miller, River Avenue, were ordered held for the grand jury on a charge of receiving goods stolen from Pryor.

Henry was released under $2,000 bond and Herbert was released on his own recognizance, due to his physical condition, to secure treatment in University Hospital.

Holy Name Breakfast This Sunday

St. Patrick's Holy Name Society will hold its annual Communion Breakfast on Sunday following the 7 a. m. mass at the church.

Principal speaker will be Rev. Francis P. Kearney, dean of studies at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmittsburg.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, spiritual director of the Holy Name Society of the parish, will give the invocation and Joseph Blake will be toastmaster.

Rev. Kearney graduated from St. Charles College in Catonsville in 1931 and was ordained from St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, in 1937.

He did graduate work at the Catholic University of America from 1931 to 1942 and has received the degrees of S.T.L., M.A., and J.C.D. Since 1942 he has been a member of the faculty at Mt. St. Mary's College and Seminary.

In the seminary he has taught courses in canon law and moral theology and in the college, courses in the department of social science.

Breakfast will be served by the ladies of the Sodality, according to Michael Lindner and Anthony Yockus, co-chairmen.

Market Street Bridge Steel To Be Placed

Girders for the new Market Street Bridge are slated to begin going up Monday, Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz announced yesterday.

He said H. D. Case, Inc., Mt. Airy contractor for the span, was notified yesterday that steel for the span was at Hyndman and Altoona, Pa., and that shipments will begin arriving by today.

Buchholtz said the company plans to begin setting steel shoes on the abutments today so the erection of girders for the span can begin Monday.

The bridge will be similar in construction to the new Valley Street Bridge and is being built under a $179,963 contract which calls for it to be open for traffic by July 31.

It is the second of three bridges the City of Cumberland is building in connection with the Wills Creek phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project.

The last, the Baltimore Street Bridge, is included in a contract awarded by the Corps of Engineers to the George F. Hazelwood Company for Section 4 of the creek work.

Stickley Attends Hospital Seminar

Paul Stickley, 600 North Centre Street, recently attended a two-day seminar at Springfield State Hospital, Sykesville. The seminar was conducted by Dr. Carl Rogers, professor of psychology at the University of Chicago.

The seminar is sponsored annually by the department of psychology at the state hospital.

Equity Suits Filed

Four equity suits were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Thomas L. Oglebay vs. Gilda V. Oglebay, Richard H. Smith vs. Wilma J. Smith, Mary D. Foy vs. Walter Lee Foy and Paul Horevay vs. Mildred Vida Horevay.

Board Opposes Tax Funds For July 4 Display

The City Recreation Board last night drafted a recommendation to the Mayor and Council that tax money not be used to finance an outdoor fireworks display on the Fourth of July.

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, said the board also expressed the opinion that the money should not be raised by canvassing business places.

It takes about $800 for a good fireworks display, he said, adding that public subscription might be used to raise the amount if enough interest is shown. The board plans to sound out public sentiment on whether a display should be presented.

The board also decided not to make any plans to reopen Pine Avenue Pool until it is clear whether there is any demand for it. Several thousand dollars would be needed to bring the pool up to State Health Department standards.

In other action the board decided to ask for bids for the concession stand at Penn Avenue ballfield if the Penn Avenue PTA doesn't want to use it.

James Weber, a member of the board, reported on his recent meeting with the Mayor and Council on the proposed purchase of Southview Adition as a city recreation area. No action has been taken.

The board also made recommendations for replacements for two board members, J. Monroe Shearer, whose term expired with last night's meeting, and Dr. Thomas Robinson, who is resigning.

Other items discussed included the possible development of Ridgedale Addition into a recreation area, the problem at East Side playground, which may be taken up by the Crosstown Expressway, and the use of Constitution Park Pool for swimming instruction for out-of-town children during morning hours.

Largest Patrols To Lead Parade Tomorrow

The order in which some 605 school patrol boys and girls from 18 schools will march in the annual Cumberland area school patrol parade starting at 10:30 a. m. Saturday was announced last night by Miss Bernice Winner, principal of West Side School, who is handling arrangements.

Johnson Heights and Pennsylvania Avenue schools, each with 70 in their patrols, the largest groups, will come first.

Following them will be West Side, 62; Centre Street, 20; Mt. Royal, 33; McCoole, 13; Columbia Street, 38; St. Mary's, 30; Cresaptown, 19; Virginia Avenue, 19; Parkside, 32; SS. Peter and Paul's, 30; John Humbird, 30; East Side, 58; St. Patrick's, nine; Corriganville, 14; Gephart, 37, and LaVale, 21.

Thomas F. Conlon will serve as parade marshal. He will be assisted by a committee from the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce including Albert D. Darby Jr., Kenneth J. Williams, William Scott IV and Conrad Hohing Jr.

Four Building Permits Issued

Four building permits for construction estimated to cost a total of $27,750 were issued yesterday by the Allegany County Assessing department.

Leslie I. Brinkman, RFD 4, Christie Road, obtained a permit to build a $12,000 stone house in Election District 22. J. Forrest Milleson acquired a permit to build a $9,000 brick house on Bedford Road in Election District 23. Another District 23 permit was issued to Maurice L. Diggs, Bedford Road, for a $6,500 frame house. Edgar F. Clark, Election District 9, Barton, acquired a permit to build a $250 garage at Barton.

Algerian Life Cited By Speaker

A picture of life in French Algeria was unfolded yesterday to members of the Cumberland Kiwansi Club by George M. Williams of Moorefield, W. Va., who spent nearly six months of 1955 in that country as an International Farm Youth Exchange Student.

Williams has made some 100 talks in various parts of West Virginia since his return from Algeria last December. He illustrated his remarks with a set of color slides.

Algeria gets only between seven and 10 inches of rain a year and most of that is concentrated in a brief period starting in November. He saw only two rains while he was in that Middle East land.

Williams told the Kiwanians that the chief delicacies are roast sheep and wheat meal, which are abundant. The one million Europeans living in Algeria are primarily of the Roman Catholic faith, while most of the natives are Moslems.

Algeria's two big exports are wine and citrus fruits, each accounting for about 40 per cent of the exports. Farms operated by Europeans are fully mechanized and most of the machinery comes from the United States, England, Sweden and Germany.

The young Hardy County student expressed gratitude for the International Youth Exchange Program which permits between 125 and 130 young Americans to learn about life in foreign countries while young people from those lands come here.

Six Pumpers Roll As Garage Catches Fire

Six trucks manned by volunteer firemen were called to the Harry Smith service station on Bedford Road two miles beyond State Line yesterday at noon after a garage near the station caught fire.

Fire Chief Fred Purnell, of the Bedford Road Fire Company, said two trucks from that company responded, and called Corriganville Fire Company, which sent two pumpers, and Bowman's Addition and Baltimore Pike, which sent one truck apiece.

Bedford Road firemen said the roof of the garage, located about 100 feet from the station, was gone when they arrived, and that aid was asked because of the danger to nearby facilities.

Firemen said the garage was a total loss, partly covered by insurance.

Cause of the blaze was not determined but it was surmised a short circuit may have been to blame, since it housed an air compressor used by the service station.

Bedford Road firemen said the other companies were released shortly after they arrived, but that the company's trucks stayed on the site for about three hours to guard against the danger of sparks.

Hazelwood Gets Go-Ahead On Flood Contract

Pre-Construction Conference Held

The George F. Hazelwood Company has received notice from the Corps of Engineers to proceed with the construction of Section 4 of the Wills Creek channel phase of the Cumberland Ridgeley flood protection project.

Officials said the firm is to begin work on the $2,854,254.60 project within 10 days after it acknowledges the receipt of the go-ahead notice.

In preparation for the start of construction, representatives of the construction firm met yesterday with officials of the Corps of Engineers for a pre-construction safety conference.

To Be Busy Place

Plans were discussed for setting up a safety program on the job.

Both have safety programs of their own and plans were made to coordinate efforts toward safety.

The go-ahead on the last phase of the creek means that the area will be a busy place indeed.

Two contractors are already working on it—H. D. Case, Inc., Mt. Airy, contractor for the Market Street Bridge, and the E. J. Albrecht Company, Chicago, which holds the contract for Sections 2 and 3 of the channel work.

Use Haul Road

Albrecht crews have been hampered by high water in recent months in attempts to speed excavation of the channel. The excavation work is from 35 to 40 per cent complete.

The excavated material has been taken to a spoils area at old Community Ball Park over a haul road built in the bed of the creek, in order to speed the work and keep trucks off the streets.

The use of the haul road was discussed yesterday, it was learned.

It is understood it is possible the Albrecht firm will be able to use the haul road for a while.

Passenger Sues For $20,000

A Midland woman yesterday filed a $20,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against a Midland couple for injuries she allegedly sustained in an accident on the Vale Summit Road.

Frances C. Savage, Railroad Street, Midland, through Attorney James S. Getty, brought the $20,000 action against John Thomas Reid and Frances L. Reid, his wife, also of Midland.

The plaintiff states in her declaration that she was a passenger in an automobile which was being driven east on Vale Summit Road by Mrs. Reid last July 19. She contends that Mrs. Reid crossed to the left side of the road and struck a guard rail. The impact knocked the plaintiff against the windshield and she asserts that she has lost the sight of her left eye, sustained facial lacerations and a broken nose.

Businessmen Invited To Conference On Obtaining Government Contracts

Millions of dollars worth of government contracts — and information on how small businesses can obtain them, and others—will be available next month at a one-day conference in Baltimore, Senators J. Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler announced yesterday.

The meeting, expected to attract about 1,000 representatives of various private companies in the Maryland-District of Columbia area, will be sponsored by the Small Business Administration.

Wendell B. Barnes, SBA administrator, said the purpose of the conference will be to acquaint small business men with the needs and procurement methods of government departments.

Senators Beall and Butler, who worked closely with SBA in laying the groundwork for the affair, said in a joint statement that "the Free State and its neighbors will be given a chance to see at one time and place many of the items which small concerns can produce for the government, and to find out exactly how contracts for such goods are distributed."

They added that the meeting will probably be held during the week of June 10, but that the exact time and place have not yet been determined.

Federal organizations and other purchasers will participate in the Baltimore conference, supplying such information as how to bid for contracts successfully, how to obtain negotiated contracts, how to obtain security clearance when needed, and how to use government-owned patents.

Top-level spokesmen from the government will address the conference on the specific policies and procedures of their individual agencies.

Following the meeting's business sessions, government officials will have available invitations for bids on contracts representing millions of dollars worth of work, according to Barnes.

Also available will be exhibits of the types of items purchased by government departments on a year-around-basis.

Barnes said several similar conferences have been held recently but that the Baltimore meeting will be used as a "model" to be followed in other sections of the country.

He added that the meeting will be the only one in this area "for quite a long time," and that all small business men from Maryland, the District of Columbia, and the surrounding areas in Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Delaware are invited to attend.

Fire Chief John Hall and Detective Albert Lowery said Dodson told of awaking and smelling smoke and feeling heat. He said he put on clothing and rushed to the hotel lobby.

Still under hospital treatment for smoke inhalation are Joseph J. LaManna of Frostburg and Harold Duckworth of Baltimore. Duckworth was in an oxygen tent.

Voting Canvass Widens Tydings' Margin In Race

Mahoney Awaiting Further Checks

BALTIMORE, May 10 (AP)—Millard E. Tydings took a tighter grip on the Democratic senatorial nomination today as the canvass of voting in last Monday's Maryland primary got under way.

Official checks of the tally sheets in two key subdivisions—Frederick County and Baltimore's Fifth Legislative District—seemed to confirm Tydings' victory over George P. Mahoney, Baltimore paving contractor.

However, Mahoney, who demanded recounts in two of his previous three unsuccessful bids for statewide office, said he would wait for further official checks of the voting. In the meantime, he made clear, there will be no concession.

Unit Vote Tied

Mahoney and Tydings were deadlocked 76-76 in nominating convention votes from the State's 23 counties and six Baltimore City legislative districts. The candidate winning the popular vote in any of these subdivisions receives all nominating unit votes of that subdivision.

The unit-vote winner gets the nomination, even though he may trail in popular votes. But in the event of a unit-vote tie, unprecedented before this primary, the nomination goes to the leader in popular votes.

Unofficial returns from all but one of the 1,277 polling places showed Tydings ahead in popular votes—142,449 to 134,123. But the vote was so close in Frederick County and the city's Fifth District that a slight change in either might give Mahoney seven more unit votes—and the nomination.

The official tally-sheet check in Frederick, however, showed the county went to Tydings by 2,174 to 1,973—a spread of 201 votes, compared with 170 in the unofficial returns.

Machines To Be Checked

In Baltimore's Fifth, a partial check of the sheets raised Tydings' margin by about 200.

Unofficial returns there had given him a lead of 406 votes—16,398 to 15,993.

Still to come in both Frederick County and the Fifth District was the check of tally-sheet figures against voting machine figures. Some Mahoney supporters still were hoping substantial errors might have been made in transcribing the figures from the machines onto the tally sheets.

"The count on the machines is what counts," said Mahoney.

"Mahoney for Senate" signs were still displayed at his two downtown Baltimore headquarters.

"Tydings for Senate" signs were removed from his Emerson Hotel headquarters and Tydings himself, expressing confidence the canvass would confirm his nomination, left for a brief vacation in Hot Springs, Va.

Shortly after his arrival there, Tydings learned of the Frederick developments by telephone.

The 66-year-old former senator, who served four straight terms before his 1950 defeat by Republican John Marshall Butler, said he planned to rest while the official canvass continued.

"I'm tired," he said, "and I'm not thinking of tally sheets or anything else except rest right now."

Win Safety Award

Swick Given Jail Term In Metal Thefts

One man was sentenced to six months in Allegany County Jail yesterday and two minors will be questioned today in connection with the theft of up to two tons of lead from the site of the city's sewage treatment plant.

Three men already have been held for grand jury action in other phases of the metal thefts from Moyer Brothers, contractors for the plant.

Eugene Paul Swick, 24, of 130 Humbird Street, was sentenced to the jail term on a petty larceny charge yesterday by Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

At a hearing before Magistrate Dick Tuesday, Swick pleaded guilty to the theft of 640 pounds of lead from B & O property here. The metal was melted down and sold to a Johnstown, Pa., firm for $76. The magistrate deferred sentence.

Later, the magistrate said, Swick told city police and the State's Attorney's Office the metal came from the Moyer Brothers Company here.

Swick Files Appeal

He said the sentence was imposed on the basis of facts presented at Tuesday's hearing, adding that the B & O is no longer involved but that the identity of the owner of a stolen article is not necessary on a petty larceny charge.

Had the value of the lead taken, and not the sale price, been the basis of the charge, officials said, the count would have been grand larceny.

Swick filed an appeal and was committed to the county jail in default of $1,500 bond.

Meanwhile, Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator, said two juveniles will be brought to the State's Attorney's Office today and questioned in connection with the Swick part of the case.

Held For Jury

The case first developed when city police arrested Jacob E. Pryor, 34, of Gilmore, for the theft of 70 bars of lead valued at $240.

He waived a preliminary hearing Monday before Magistrate Dick and was ordered held for Grand Jury action and committed to the county jail in default of $2,000 bond.

The following day, Henry Miller and his brother, Herbert Hoover Miller, River Avenue, were ordered held for the grand jury on a charge of receiving goods stolen from Pryor.

Henry was released under $2,000 bond and Herbert was released on his own recognizance, due to his physical condition, to secure treatment in University Hospital.

Market Street Bridge Steel To Be Placed

Girders for the new Market Street Bridge are slated to begin going up Monday, Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz announced yesterday.

He said H. D. Case, Inc., Mt. Airy contractor for the span, was notified yesterday that steel for the span was at Hyndman and Altoona, Pa., and that shipments will begin arriving by today.

Buchholtz said the company plans to begin setting steel shoes on the abutments today so the erection of girders for the span can begin Monday.

The bridge will be similar in construction to the new Valley Street Bridge and is being built under a $179,963 contract which calls for it to be open for traffic by July 31.

It is the second of three bridges the City of Cumberland is building in connection with the Wills Creek phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project.

The last, the Baltimore Street Bridge, is included in a contract awarded by the Corps of Engineers to the George F. Hazelwood Company for Section 4 of the creek work.

Board Opposes Tax Funds For July 4 Display

The City Recreation Board last night drafted a recommendation to the Mayor and Council that tax money not be used to finance an outdoor fireworks display on the Fourth of July.

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, said the board also expressed the opinion that the money should not be raised by canvassing business places.

It takes about $800 for a good fireworks display, he said, adding that public subscription might be used to raise the amount if enough interest is shown. The board plans to sound out public sentiment on whether a display should be presented.

The board also decided not to make any plans to reopen Pine Avenue Pool until it is clear whether there is any demand for it. Several thousand dollars would be needed to bring the pool up to State Health Department standards.

In other action the board decided to ask for bids for the concession stand at Penn Avenue ballfield if the Penn Avenue PTA doesn't want to use it.

James Weber, a member of the board, reported on his recent meeting with the Mayor and Council on the proposed purchase of Southview Adition as a city recreation area. No action has been taken.

The board also made recommendations for replacements for two board members, J. Monroe Shearer, whose term expired with last night's meeting, and Dr. Thomas Robinson, who is resigning.

Other items discussed included the possible development of Ridgedale Addition into a recreation area, the problem at East Side playground, which may be taken up by the Crosstown Expressway, and the use of Constitution Park Pool for swimming instruction for out-of-town children during morning hours.

Two Crashes At Same Spot Cause Damage

Police Estimate About $2,000 Loss

Three automobiles, two trucks and a house at 627 Baltimore Avenue were damaged to the extent of some $2,000 in two separate accidents within a half hour of each other yesterday afternoon.

Only one driver, Bain A. Twigg, 75, of 475 Baltimore Avenue, complained of any injuries. Twigg said he had pains in his chest but he was released after dispensary treatment at Memorial Hospital.

Police Officers Ernest Powell and Richard Lashley were called about 4:20 p. m. yesterday to investigate the first accident. This occurred when the westbound automobile of Jacob Nelson Wilson, RFD 4, collided with Twigg's eastbound car in front of 625 Baltimore Avenue when their left front fenders met.

After that first impact, Twigg's car careened to the right, striking the parked car of Clara Davis Rice, which was sitting in front of her residence at 625 Baltimore Avenue. The rear of the parked car was forced onto the sidewalk, struck a hedge and partially smashed the porch on the residence of Mrs. Erwin Moore, 627 Baltimore Avenue.

While Officer Powell was investigating the first crash and Officer Lashley was directing traffic through the open lane on Baltimore Avenue, a jeep truck owned by the State Roads Commission, driven by Robert Louis Popp, RFD 2, rammed into the rear of a C&P Telephone Company westbound truck which had stopped in response to Officer Lashley's direction to allow eastbound traffic to proceed. Alvin K. Persons, 502 Baltimore Avenue, was driving the stopped truck.

Officers estimated damage to the Wilson and Twigg cars at $500 each, to the Rice car $400, to the Moore property some $300 to $400 and to the jeep truck about $200. Damage to the C&P truck was negligible.

Wilson, Twigg and Popp all were charged with reckless driving and are scheduled for hearing at 10 o'clock this morning in Trial Magistrates Court.

Official County Returns Change Totals For 8

Mahoney Has Net Loss Of 96 Votes

Changes in the total vote cast for eight of the 15 candidates listed on Monday's ballots resulted last night from the official canvass of Allegany County's vote by the County Board of Election Supervisors.

Some 17 mistakes in precinct totals were discovered as a result of last night's canvass but they did not change the standings of any of the candidates. The biggest losers were George P. Mahoney in the Democratic primary for U. S. Senate, who had a net loss of 96 votes, and Senator Estes Kefauver in the Democratic Presidential primary with a net loss of 84 votes.

The official totals, including eight absentee ballots, five of them Republican and three Democrat, are as follows:

Republicans:

PRESIDENT

Dwight D. Eisenhower	2,723
Uninstructed Delegation	168

John M. Butler	2,419
Earl E. Knepper	294
Henry J. Laque Jr	78

Democrats:

PRESIDENT

Estes Kefauver	2,839
Uninstructed Delegation	685

George P. Mahoney	2,648
Millard E. Tydings	2,070
Thomas L. Christian	67
George W. Williams	60

CONGRESS

John R. Foley	1,952
J. Grahame Walker	1,066
Robert W. Cremins	288

President Eisenhower made a gain of nine votes as a result of the official canvass, receiving 101 instead of 100 in 4-4 & 8, Johnson Heights School, and 92 rather than 84 in District 22-1, 22-2, 22-3 at the Armory. He also got the votes of all five of the servicemen who voted by absentee ballots.

The Republican uninstructed delegation total dropped two votes in the canvass. The changes included two rather than three in District 12 and 33 at Frostburg, none instead of one at 20-2 in Corriganville, six rather than 16 in 22-1, 22-2 and 22-3 at the Armory and 11 rather than one in 23-1, 2-2, 23- and 35 at Carver School.

Kefauver Gains Two

On the Democratic ballot Senator Kefauver picked up two votes, 100 rather than 98, in 5-4 on Pulaski Street, but lost 86 at the Carver School precinct, where he received 116 instead of the reported 202. He received only one of the three absentee votes cast.

The Democratic uninstructed delegation gained three. This total picked up 10 from six to 16 in District 4-2 and 6, Virginia Avenue, lost nine from 32 to 23 in 20-2 and 15-2 in Lonaconing and picked up two, from eight to 10 at the Armory precinct.

Christian lost 20 of the 87 votes recorded for him unofficially when the canvass showed he got only four, not 24, on Columbia Street, District 5-1 and 5. Easter lost one, drawing a blank instead of one vote at the Armory.

Mahoney Takes Loss

There were changes in Mahoney's totals in three of the precincts. He gained at Mt. Royal School in 6-5, where he received 39 votes rather than 33, but lost two, from 32 to 30 at 10-2 and 15-2 in Lonaconing, and 100 at the Carver School precinct, where he received only 90 rather than the reported 190.

The only other change in the canvass added 10 votes to Foley's total when he was credited with 100 votes, not 90, in 8-1 at Westernport.

Cause Of Hotel Fire Unknown

HAGERSTOWN, May 10 (AP) — Still undetermined today was the cause of the fire which injured 10 and routed 200 from the Hotel Alexander yesterday.

Authorities said Robert C. Dodson, 37, of Baltimore, in whose room the blaze apparently started, was unable to give any information as to the cause.

Fire Chief John Hall and Detective Albert Lowery said Dodson told of awaking and smelling smoke and feeling heat. He said he put on clothing and rushed to the hotel lobby.

Still under hospital treatment for smoke inhalation are Joseph J. LaManna of Frostburg and Harold Duckworth of Baltimore. Duckworth was in an oxygen tent.

Passenger Sues For $20,000

A Midland woman yesterday filed a $20,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against a Midland couple for injuries she allegedly sustained in an accident on the Vale Summit Road.

Frances C. Savage, Railroad Street, Midland, through Attorney James S. Getty, brought the $20,000 action against John Thomas Reid and Frances L. Reid, his wife, also of Midland.

The plaintiff states in her declaration that she was a passenger in an automobile which was being driven east on Vale Summit Road by Mrs. Reid last July 19. She contends that Mrs. Reid crossed to the left side of the road and struck a guard rail. The impact knocked the plaintiff against the windshield and she asserts that she has lost the sight of her left eye, sustained facial lacerations and a broken nose.

Businessmen Invited To Conference On Obtaining Government Contracts

Millions of dollars worth of government contracts — and information on how small businesses can obtain them, and others—will be available next month at a one-day conference in Baltimore, Senators J. Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler announced yesterday.

The meeting, expected to attract about 1,000 representatives of various private companies in the Maryland-District of Columbia area, will be sponsored by the Small Business Administration.

Wendell B. Barnes, SBA administrator, said the purpose of the conference will be to acquaint small business men with the needs and procurement methods of government departments.

Senators Beall and Butler, who worked closely with SBA in laying the groundwork for the affair, said in a joint statement that "the Free State and its neighbors will be given a chance to see at one time and place many of the items which small concerns can produce for the government, and to find out exactly how contracts for such goods are distributed."

They added that the meeting will probably be held during the week of June 10, but that the exact time and place have not yet been determined.

Federal organizations and other purchasers will participate in the Baltimore conference, supplying such information as how to bid for contracts successfully, how to obtain negotiated contracts, how to obtain security clearance when needed, and how to use government-owned patents.

Top-level spokesmen from the government will address the conference on the specific policies and procedures of their individual agencies.

Following the meeting's business sessions, government officials will have available invitations for bids on contracts representing millions of dollars worth of work, according to Barnes.

Also available will be exhibits of the types of items purchased by government departments on a year-around-basis.

Barnes said several similar conferences have been held recently but that the Baltimore meeting will be used as a "model" to be followed in other sections of the country.

He added that the meeting will be the only one in this area "for quite a long time," and that all small business men from Maryland, the District of Columbia, and the surrounding areas in Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Delaware are invited to attend.
